CONDUCT, &C.

SCALE OF DEMERITS.

Absence from Recitation without excuse, - - -	3
---	---

Absence from Prayers without excuse, - - - - -	3
Late at Recitation without excuse, - - - - -	1
Failure to prepare Recitation, - - - - -	2
Entering into combinations to interrupt College Order, and all other violations of propriety or order not herein specified, - - - - -	1 to 150

Each Student is informed of the delinquencies reported against him, and has opportunity given for rendering a written excuse for the same, before they are acted on by the Faculty.

When the demerits of any Student, at any time during one year, shall have reached one hundred and fifty, he will be positively and immediately sent home; and will in no case be re-admitted into the Institution, except upon direct application, either in person or writing, from his parent or guardian, accompanied with satisfactory assurances from himself of future good conduct.

ADMISSION OF STUDENTS.

Applicants for admission are expected to bring written testimonials of moral character, and to stand a satisfactory examination on our published requisitions. After which, having procured boarding at some house approved by the President, (or in his absence by the Faculty,) and having procured the Treasurer's receipt for Tuition and contingent fee, he shall be allowed to take his place in the class assigned him.

The Faculty shall keep a Register, in which shall be recorded the name and residence of every Student, his age, date of admission, dismissal, or graduation, together with the name and post office of his father or guardian.

EXERCISES.

There shall be one Recitation on Saturday, and three on every other day, at such hours as the Faculty may appoint.

There shall be devotional exercises every morning and evening, at which time every Student is expected to be present, and to behave with the seriousness and reverence proper to a religious assembly.

PUNISHMENT, CONDUCT, &C.

The Punishments shall be reproof, private or public, complaint made to parent or guardian, suspension or expulsion.

In a case of gross deficiency in study, a Student may be degraded to a lower class.

Where the intellectual or moral habits of a young man are such as to render the privileges of the College useless to him, or to render his example hurtful to other Students, the parent or guardian will be requested to withdraw him.

Gaming, drunkenness, the use of profane or obscene language, visiting drinking houses, loitering idly about stores or public places, and all riotous, disorderly, and immoral conduct generally, are forbidden.

The Report of the President to the Trustees shall refer particularly to all cases of gross misdemeanor or immorality, for which Students have been suspended or expelled.

The Students are strictly enjoined not to visit or walk on the streets during study hours; and they are expected at all times, and in all companies, (especially at their boarding-houses, and in all their intercourse with citizens of the village and vicinity,) to display that delicate regard for the rights and feelings of others, which is the sure test and unailing characteristic of THE GENTLEMAN.

A strict observance of the Sabbath, and habitual attendance on religious service, are enjoined on all the Students.

1. It is considered a violation of propriety for any student to attend a dancing school, during term-time, without the express sanction, by letter, of his parent or guardian, previously communicated to the Faculty. Propriety demands the avoidance of all dissipation—fashionable as well as vulgar—during the regular session of an institution of learning, whose great object is instruction and not amusement.

2. It is regarded a violation of propriety for any student to attend any party given at a hotel or other public place, without permission obtained from the Faculty. The late hours, promiscuous assemblage, liability to become intoxicated, expense, and general dissipation characterizing such occasions, are emphatically at variance with the sobriety of that application to close study which the Faculty are expected, by the patrons of the college and the public generally, to enforce at a seat of learning.

3. It is regarded a violation of propriety for students to attend any quasi theatrical, or other exhibitions, which take their money on the plea of furnishing amusement; or any lectures, whatever their professed object, without the sanction of the Faculty.

4. It is considered an emphatic violation of propriety for any student to purchase spirituous liquors, in or out of the village, on any pretence of medical prescription or otherwise. Whatever facilities and opportunities to do this may be furnished in this community, it is against the law, as is well known by all concerned. When common rumor accuses any student of being intoxicated, he will be summoned before the Faculty and expected to exculpate himself.

5. It is considered a violation of propriety for students to be found out of their rooms at night, during study hours or afterwards, where no reasonable ground of absence can be alleged.

6. The Faculty regard late suppers, or convivial re-unions in the back-rooms of stores, as open to grave censure on many accounts, and as altogether improper.

Wofford College is located in the pleasant and healthy village of Spartanburg, S. C., within thirty miles of the mountains. It is under the patronage of the South Carolina Conference, and has an endowment of sixty-five thousand dollars.

Its curriculum of studies is ample; the philosophical and chemical apparatus, and mineralogical and geological cabinet, are well selected, and sufficient for an extended course of instruction; and the grade of scholarship insisted on is high and thorough. Without pretending or attempting to accomplish more than is laid down in the course of study, every branch of learning comprehended in the course is accurately taught, and required to be mastered by the student, who is subjected at the close of each term to a rigid examination. The constant effort of the Faculty is to prepare the young men committed to their oversight for the duties of life, as well by the inculcation of a high tone of moral and religious feeling, as by the cultivation of the intellectual powers.
