The Rev. Bond English, was born in Kershaw District, South

Carolina, January 31st, 1797, and departed this life, at his residence, near Sumter, South Carolina, 4th March, 1868.

For forty-eight years our departed brother was an earnest, successful, honored minister of Christ. In eighteen hundred and fourteen he was converted to God. Six years afterwards, in 1820, he obeyed, what he felt to be, the "Holy Ghost," moving him to take upon himself the "office and work of the ministry," and was licensed to preach. In 1821, he was admitted on trial in the South Carolina Conference. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Roberts, in 1823, and admitted into full connection. Two years afterwards he was ordained elder by the same Bishop.

From the time of his admission to the Conference until death ended his labors and his cares, brother English labored with unabated zeal in his Master's vineyard. He passed through the many years of his ministry with unblemished character, and has left a noble record upon the pages of our history as a Church in South Carolina. It was a true remark made by a writer, when the death of our beloved brother was first amounced, "A great man has fallen!" He was indeed a great man. His was true nobility of nature. His talents commanded for him the highest regard of his brethren, and the respect of all who knew him, whether in the communion of his own church or in that of others. His brethren manifested their regard for his abilities by entrusting him with every position of responsibility within their gift. He was pastor, and presiding elder at different times. In 1832, he was elected delegate to the General Conference. In 1840, he was elected one of the reserve delegates. In whatever position he was placed, he nobly met the responsibilities devolving upon him, and sustained his high character as a minister. Wherever he labored, his name is "as ointment poured forth." A clear expositor of the word of God, practical, yet earnest and eloquent as a preacher, he was eminently successful in winning souls to Christ, and building up the Church of God. His spiritual children are in every part of the South Carolina Conference; and many will weep the departure of a friend and brother—a father in Christ—as they read these lines, which pay so imperfect a tribute to the memory of the beloved English.

This minister of the Lord has fallen—fallen at his post. He dies, gloriously as the heroic christian soldier might wish to die, with his armor on, his face to the foe, and is now resting from his labors.

"Servant of God well done! Rest from thy loved employ: The battle fought, the victory won— Enter thy Master's joy!"

THE REV. HARTWELL SPAIN, was born in Wake County, North Carolina, February 10th, 1795; was converted to God in August, 1810, licensed to preach November, 1816, and admitted into the South Carolina Conference in December, 1816. At that time the vast extent of our Conference territory, and the large size of our circuits, made the labors of an itinerant preacher not only arduous, but often extremely difficult, while the odium which attached to the very name of Methodist gave no promise of those supports which a generous public sympathy might afford to the humble laborer in the Master's vineyard. But our fathers in the ministry were sustained in their toil and operations by higher and holier consolations. The presence of their Lord, according to His promise, "Lo! I am with you always," the mighty working of the Holy Ghost in their own hearts, and the glorious displays of His power accompanying the word preached, together with the prospect of the final reward of their fidelity in the eternal kingdom of their Lord and Saviour, these were the ennobling considerations which lightened the burden of their labor, and made them equal to the greatness of their task, and superior to the scorn and contempt of the world.

Having served successively the Bush River, Ocmulgee and Sugar Creek Circuits, and the Fayetteville Station, the health of brother Spain demanded rest, and, in 1821, he was placed on the Superannuated list. In the following year he located, and sustained, this relation to the church till 1828, when renewing his connection with the Conference he was appointed to the Lincolnton Circuit, which he served for two years. The four years which followed he spent as Presiding Elder of the Lincolnton District. In 1834, he was stationed in Columbia, and the year following was appointed to the Cokesbury Circuit. In 1836, he was one of the Conference agents for the Cokesbury School; and, in 1837, he again held a superannuated relation. In 1838, he was made Presiding Elder of the Columbia District, where he labored four years. In 1842, he was stationed in Charleston, and in the following year he traveled the Santee Circuit. This closed his active and effective litinerant career, and from that time to his departure hence he sustained a superannuated relation.

This Conference honored our brother by electing him to the General Conference of 1832, and as a reserve delegate in 1836, 1840 and 1849. In 1840, he supplied the place of our venerated brother W. M. Kennedy, who died before the session of the General Conference.

The closing scenes of his life are best given in the language of his daughter.

"It is not in my power to describe the holy calm and christian triumph with which he met his last enemy. His health failed so rapidly from the summer of 1867, that it was apparent to all, and to none more so than to himself, that he could not live long. For months before his death his theme was Heaven; his Bible his constant companion; he ripened daily for Heaven. When asked by one of his grand children why he read his Bible so constantly, he replied: 'My son, I see new beauties in the word of God every day.' As his time grew short he repeated many verses of Scripture. The 23d Psalm, was constantly on his lips. A few nights before he died, as I stood by his bedside, after saying a great deal about Heaven, he repeated the 23d Psalm, and that beautiful hymn the Dying Christian.' Almost the last thing he said was: I am not afraid to die, for I have a bright hope of rest in Heaven. Is it not remarkable that he should speak constantly of his mother during her last illness? He spoke constantly of his re-union with his dear wife who had shared his joys and sorrows for 42 years; of his children who had gone before; and of a dear little grand child of whom he was very fond. Is it improper in connection with this subject to say, that much credit is due my dear sainted mother for his zeal and success in the ministry? He had a large family and often found it difficult to provide the necessaries of life, but my dear mother encouraged him with her unwavering faith, firm confidence in the special Providence of God, her meek, quiet, uncomplaining temper. He breathed his last, March 9th, 1868, at the residence of his son-in-law, Dr. T. W. Briggs, Clarendon, S. C., in the 74th year of his age. He died without a struggle; he fell asleep in Jesus. His remains now rest at Summerton, in the rear of the pulpit in which he so long and so faithfully preached Christ."

The ministry of brother Spain was distinguished by great earnestness and power, and the unction of the Holy Spirit. At times, when thoroughly warmed by his subject, he became truly eloquent, and many who still live will remember the strong impressions made upon their hearts by the word he preached. A halo of glory seemed to surround him, and a gleam of inspiration beamed from his countenance, when, with a full heart, he poured forth the burning words of exhortation, or dwelt enraptured on the blessed hopes of the life to come.

He rests from his labors, and his works do follow him.

THE REV. ALEXIUS MADOR FOSTER, long and favorably known as a member of the South Carolina Conference, died on the 28th of October, at the home of his son-in-law, Rev. James F. Smith, near Cokesbury, Abbeville District, S. C. He was born November 19th, 1787, in Brunswick County, N. C., and, consequently, at his death lacked but a few days of 81 years of age. He was born again in 1808, and thus a child of God for 60 years. Licensed to preach in the town of Wilmington, June, 1809, he was near 60 years a minister in holy things-28 years in the local ranks and 32 a travelling preacher—17 of the 32 active: 15 superanuated. As a local minister and teacher in the high schools of the day, he was connected with, and a promoter of, the educational interests of the church and country and was very useful and successful; and those 28 years were not spent in vain, and bear a good record upon high. His traveling ministry beginning with his first appointment to the Yorkville Circuit in 1837, and ending with his last, the Aiken Station, in 1858, is graciously borne witness to by many now living in and out of the Conference. As superannuated, when no longer able to bear up under the heavy burdens of an active ministry, he labored from time to time and from place to place as far as his health and circumstances permitted, so much so, that he might almost be said to "cease at once, to work and live." It would be very difficult to form a correct idea of the influence and usefulness of a ministry like his extending over a period of more than 59 years. In the early days of his ministry he had been associated with such men as Bishops Asbury, McKendre, George and Emory. He was the personal friend of the Capers's, McPhersons, Kennedy, Spain, English and others of that stamp, who belonged to the heroic age of Methodism and left their impress upon the church and world-names that we will not willingly let die. As a man he was pious and devotional, pure and incorruptible, firm and decided, possessing all the elements that make up a properly independent character. As a preacher, his style was plain and without ornament, but always exhibiting a clear and strong common sense view of his subject. In his pulpit efforts he had the rare quality of brevity, but instructive and edifying terse and pithy. He really belonged to the old school of Methodist preachers in everything-manners, dress, simplicity, and thus became one of the most interesting links between the past and present generations of our preachers. We bow our heads with reverence before such forms; and our hearts are filled with gratitude to Almighty God while we call to mind the memories of such men. Their lives were a blessing to the church and their memories remain a precious legacy which we, their sons in the Gospel, will most gladly cherish and properly perpetuate. "The righteous shall be in everlasting remembrance." The end of a life so long and faithfully spent for the church, could not well be otherwise than gentle, peaceful and tranquil; often expressing an abiding confidence in Christ, the

> "Unshaken Rock, the pilgrim's shade— The soldier's fortress, tower."

Often longing for his release and stretching his anxious vision toward the christian's future and happy home. So lived and so died Alexius Mador Foster, one of the oldest, if not the oldest member of this body. His remains now lie along with his grand-children in the quiet Cemetery of a country church, Andrew Chapel, near Cokesbury, and his reward is with Him, who has said:

"Them that honor me, I will honor."

THE REV. James Stacy, was born in Lincolnton, N. C., November 18th, 1807; was converted in September, 1822; licensed to preach in July, 1829; and admitted into the South Carolina Conference, January, 1830. Died in the town of Sumter, S. C., May 1st, 1868.

Brother James Stacy has fairly won for himself, by thirty-eight years of laborious and unremitting labor, the title of "Father;" and by his superior ability and usefulness as a preacher, that of a prophet or teacher in our Israel. In labors he was "abundant," and in firmness and fixedness of purpose he had few equals, and perhaps not a superior among his brethren. With a constitution naturally delicate, and a temperament nervous in the extreme, he was subjected to many trials in our itinerant work, from which he might have shrunk, had he not also possessed that determination of character which enabled him to surmount every obstacle and remain firmly at his post until the last hour of his life. It is the deliberate judgment of many of his brethren, that had he yielded a few years ago to the suggestions of his friends, and rested awhile from the active duties of the ministry, his valuable life might have been prolonged for a few years at least. He would listen to no counsels but the promptings of conscience, and desired no rest but that of the grave.

Converted to God in early life, he consecrated himself entirely to the service of his Master; and by prayer, reading, and study, he soon developed his mental powers to such a degree, that, whilst the freshness of youth was still upon him, our Bishops esteemed him worthy to be placed in charge of important points in our Conference District. In this they were not disappointed.

He was aware of the constitutional tendencies of his nature, and his life was a prolonged struggle against them, and he triumphed. Tamer natures might not be able to appreciate the contest, and the victory; but those who knew him well are prepared to testify, that a nobler, more self-possessed and sincerely pious man and minister, they have rarely met. He was grave almost to sternness, and yet there were hours of relaxation in which he would unbend himself to his brethren with a graceful and christian cheerfulness.

He had a high sense of personal and ministerial propriety, and never allowed himself to be betrayed into unseemly levity or imprudencies of conduct.

His mental powers were much above mediocrity; and whilst he was not distinguished for any one shining quality, his mind was well developed and well balanced in every direction. Sound judgment and common sense were pre-eminently his distinguishing characteristics.

His perceptions were quick, and his power of analysis keen and searching. His sermons were clear expositions of the text, and generally able and exhaustive. He stood in the front rank of the preachers of the South Carolina Conference. This place he maintained for years. It should be added, that his preaching was always earnest—sometimes eloquent—and generally attended by the divine unction from the Spirit of all grace. He sought always to glorify God, and bring his hearers to the knowlege of the truth as it is in Christ Jesus.

As a pastor, he was diligent and laborious. Many souls saved by grace through his pastoral efforts have preceded him to the Kingdom of Glory to which he has gone. As an administrative officer, he excelled, and has left the impress of his far reaching views, and practical common sense, on many of the interests of the Conference and church. He was one of the originators of the financial system of this Conference, and always a member of the Board, and its Chairman for several years before, and at the time of his death. It will be remembered by this Conference, with what carefulness and precision he managed this important interest of the church.

Several times a member of the General Conference, he served the the church—with ability and fidelity in this her highest legislative council. But perhaps we cannot obtain a clearer view of the esteem in which he was held by this Conference and our Presiding Bishops, than by referring to the successive appointments which he filled for more than one-third of a century within its bounds.

He was admitted on trial at the close of 1830; ordained deacon, 1832, and elder 1834; 1831, he was appointed to Morganton Circuit; 1832, he was appointed to Enoree Circuit; 1833, he was appointed to Laurens Circuit; 1834, he was appointed to Pendleton Circuit; 1835, he was appointed to Cheraw Station; 1836, he was appointed to Camden Station; 1837, he was appointed to Georgetown Station; 1838 and 1839, he was appointed to Fayetteville Station; 1840, he was appointed agent for the Cokesbury School, and R. M. College; 1841, he was appointed to Charleston; 1842, he was appointed to Wilmington N. C.; 1843 and 1844, appointed to Trinity, Charleston; 1845 and 1846, appointed to Cheraw District, P. E.; 1847 and 1848, appointed to Fayetteville District, P. E.; 1849, appointed to Columbia Station; 1850, appointed to Trinity Station, Charleston; 1851 and 1852, appointed to Georgetown Station; 1853 and 1854, appointed to Marion Station; 1855 and 1856, to Camden Station; 1857, appointed to Charlotte Station; 1858, and 1859, appointed to Cumberland Charleston; 1860, appointed to Orangeburg District, P. E.; 1861 and 1862, appointed to Spartanburg Station; 1863, appointed to Bethel and Spring Street, Charleston; 1864, appointed to Concord Station; 1865, appointed to Charlotte Station; 1866, appointed to Pineville Circuit; 1867 and 1868, appointed to Sumter Station.

In this latter place, after struggling like a christian hero, against the inroads of disease, and utterly refusing to relax his efforts as long as he was able to stand, or preach, he gradually sank to the peaceful rest of the grave on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1868.

His last illness was long and painful—so painful, that his excellent wife, in writing to a friend and relative concerning it, holds this language: "He suffered so much that I felt at one time it would be sweet to see him die—especially when I would fear that he would lose his mind. "I knew not how hard it would be to say that long good bye." All this he bore with patient resignation to the will of God. During his illness he said to his devoted wife, "You will write to the Conference, and tell my brethren I am a sinner saved by grace. I regret that I have not done more, but I have a consciousness that I have done the best I could." She adds further: "He complained of sore throat on Wednesday and Thursday, and swallowed with great difficulty, and talked very little. Occasionally he would repeat passages of Scripture, and lines of Hymns, as if he were talking to himself. The last that he said, was 'Harvest Home— Welcome—The Lord is my righteousness.'"

"He appeared to be dying all Thursday night, and breathed his last about half-past eleven o'clock on Friday." "He appeared to be conscious to the last moment, but his tongue was paralyzed, which prevented his talking; his pulse was very strong. His eye was very bright and was not dimmed in death."

What though the arm of conquering death Does God's own house invade— What though the Prophet and the Priest Be numbered with the dead—

Though earthly Shepherd's dwell in dust, The aged, and the young. The watchful eye in darkness closed, And mute the instructive tongue:

The Eternal Shepherd still survives, New comfort to impart; His eye still guides us, and his voice Still animates our heart." The Rev. John Piper Morris was born in Devon, England, January 30th, 1846. The most of his early life was spent in Hamilton, Canada, whither his father emigrated while John was yet a child. He was carefully and piously trained from infancy, and under these influences gave his heart to God when but ten years of age. Sometime after this his interest in spiritual things seem to have declined, but at the age of seventeen years, under a gracious revival of religion that visited the church where he worshipped, he re-consecrated his heart and life to God. Not long after his reclamation, he declared his conviction that he was called of God to preach, and guided by the sound counsels of his father, himself a local minister of the Wesleyan Church, he commenced preparing for the work.

While thus engaged, it pleased God to afflict him with bleeding of the lungs—premonitory symptom of that insidious disease which had carried his mother to a premature grave. His physician advised his removal to the Southern States, and the Providence of God directed him to the field where he labored during the brief period he was permitted to exercise his ministry. On his arrival in Charleston, he was advised by his physician to abandon the pulpit as the only means of prolonging his life. His decision of this matter reveals his character. After a few days spent in prayerful consideration, he announced to a friend, "I have deliberately resolved, that if my life lasts but one year, I will spend that year in preaching the Gospel." Prophetic words! how soon to be fulfilled!

Pursuing his purpose, he engaged at once to supply a vacancy in the village of Summerville, where his labors were crowned with great success, and thirty members were brought into the church. At the session of the South Carolina Conference, held in Marion, December 1866, he was received on trial and appointed to Aiken. Here his pulpit efforts were highly gratifying to his appreciative congregation, and he was soon endeared in a remarkable manner to the whole community.

At the last Conference he was examined on the studies of the first and second years, giving evidence of extraordinary learning and ability, and was ordained a deacon twelve months after his admission on trial. Appointed to Darlington, he reached his charge with shattered and ruined health. His zeal in pulpit and pastoral labor, and intense devotion to study the previous year had fearfully accelerated the disease that was preying upon his lifestill he was hopeful and cheerful. His strength permitted him to preach but once to his new congregation. His friends supposed he would linger for months in the feebleness and suffering of consumption, but God in mercy ordered otherwise, and on the morning of the 24th of January, 1868, while sitting in his chair with his head reclined on the bosom of a young friend, his spirit calmly passed to God. So lived and so died our beloved Morris. A stranger in a strange land, he made warm friends wherever he went. His gentlemanly deportment, his culture and polish, his humility, purity and intelligent zeal, won his way to the esteem and hearts of all who knew him. His brilliant intellect, his pure taste, his graceful manner, seemed to mark him for distinction; and these gifts, all sanctified as they were by divine grace, promised great usefulness to the church had his life been spared. His zeal urged him to the front of the militant host, and he went down in the thickest of the fight, but he fell a glorious victor.

"The voice at midnight came,
He started up to hear.
A mortal arrow pierced his frame,
He fell, but felt no fear.
His spirit with a bound.
Left its encumbering clay,
His tent at sunrise on the ground,
A darkened ruin lay."

Ques. XV. Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration?

Ans. This was carefully attended to by calling over their names severally before the Conference.

QUES. XVI. What is the number of preachers and members in the several Circuits, Stations and Missions of the Conference?

in real size of the formation of the first property of the control of the control

REPORT ON EDUCATION.

The Committee on Education present the following report of the condition and prospects of the several Institutions of learning under the patronage of the South Carolina Conference, founded on the different papers referred to them for consideration:

WOFFORD COLLEGE, SPARTANBURG C. H., S. C.

The first session of the Fifteenth Collegiate year commenced in this Institution on the first day of October last with a patronage of one hundred and seven students in the College and Preparatory School. The number in attendance during the preceding session, beginning in January last, was seventy-six. The old College system is still carefully maintained, and the course of studies and the standard of scholarship for candidates for graduation remain unchanged; but the Faculty, under the direction of the Trustees, have made advantageous arrangements for the admission into the Institution of irregular students, or those who wish to pursue particular studies only, and will accord to them, on leaving, suitable testimonials of their attainments in such departments of instruction as they may elect. The degree of punctuality in attendance upon all scholastic duties, carried in not a few instances to absolute exactness, and the amount of application to studies on the part of the students generally, as evinced by the results of the daily recitations, and the three several examinations to which they are annually subjected, are highly gratifying to the Committee, and they record with special pleasure the uniform good order, and correct moral deportment which continue to characterize the young men of the College. In the last Annual Report, it was stated that for a number of years no serious occasion had arisen for the exercise of discipline in the Institution. Another year of freedom from the painful anxiety that usually characterizes College administration must now be added to the series, and the hope is entertained that the present high character of the Institution may make its impress on the future, and that each successive generation of students may emulate the example of those who preceded them in still elevating the standard of moral and religious deportment, which already gives such pleasure to the instructors, and such dignity and usefulness to the College. In a recent published account of "Spartanburg and its people," an "observer" pays this merited tribute to the moral worth of the students: "Shall I not add, that our Colleges and Schools are filled with Christian youths, and with such examples set before them as our Professors in all their acts, words and teachings, show forth, is it to be wondered that in all our Courts-Circuit District and Town Council—the name of a student is never heard as principal in any offence, and in but one or two instances, at farthest in many years, never called on even as a witness? I must say, much to their praise, that they frown upon all that is vicious, and uphold all that is right." The religious condition of the College was never sounder than at present. About three-fourths of the students are members of the Church, and evince a solid piety, by a punctual attendance upon all the ordinances or God's house, and a diligent use of all the means of grace. In addition to the five who, by the aid of benevolent contributions, are pursuing their studies with an immediate view to the work of the Ministry, and who may be expected in due time to take their places in the ranks of the itineracy, the minds of a number, it is believed, are turned to the Holy Office; and the Committee particularly recommend, that on the days of fast appointed by the Comerence, prayer be made of the whole Church to Almighty God, to call and thrust out into the harvest very many of these young men, who seem fitted by religious character and mental training, to become "workmen that need not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."

The Committee recommend Wolford College to the liberal support of all our own people, because we believe its continued existence essential to the prosperity and success of Methodism within our bounds. The history of Colleges conclusively shows, that the work of higher education, cannot be performed without the aid of endowment funds, or periodic appropriations. It is deemed inexpedient to attempt now to restore the lost endowment of the Institution, and we would lay the foundations of its future prosperity in the affections of our people, in the abiding conviction, that the great heart of Carolina Methodism will ever beat responsive to its every known want. The Faculty of the College are at present very inadequately supported. The tuition fees yield an average salary to each Professor of not more than four hundred dollars per annum, and equal only to the one-fifth part of the salary paid by some of our sister Conferences for the same work, performed by men of less professional agé and experience. The Faculty of Wofford College ask not however for magnificent salaries, but in thorough sympathy with the preachers and people with whom they are associated, will be content with the average livings of the regular members of the South Carolina Conference, and we are fully persuaded that this equitable claim, when fairly presented, will be cheerfully met by the liberality of our people. The contribution of fifteen cents per annum, by each white member of the Church within the Conference, will place the Institution beyond all peril, and the average contribution of twice that amount from year to year will put it in easy circumstances, and enable it to continue its career of usefulness to the Church and the country for all time to come. The Committee recommend for the relief of the College an appropriation by the Conference for the ensuing year of $8,000 to be raised by the several Presiding Elders' Districts as follows, viz: The assessment for each District shall be apportioned by the Presiding Elders at the beginning of the year, or at the latest, by the first meeting of the District Stewards among the several appointments within his District, and the preacher in charge, or such Laymen as he may select, or both together shall bring the object of the collection fully before the church meeting of every Congregation and arge the payment of the amount deemed equitable by the members and friends at the several Churches, and report said payments to a Committee at Spartanburg on or before the first day of July, 1869. If the whole amount for which each congregation is assessed be not raised by that time, the effort shall be repeated at some suitable time in the latter part of the year, and the result reported as above at the next Session of the Conference: Provided, however, that if in any District the amount of the apportionment for said District be raised or pledged in due time by voluntary associations in relief of the College, then the collections in said District, as above, shall not be required to be taken up. Of the above appropriation, $6,000 shall go for the support of the Faculty, and $2,000 should so much additional be raised, shall go for improving the College campus, repairing the buildings, refilling the Labratory, furnishing Philosophical room, purchasing books, &c., as may be determined by the Executive Committee of the Trustees.

The Committee call special attention to the following resolutions adopted by the Board of Trustees, viz:

"Resolved, That as a Board, we are more than ever convinced of the necessity of sustaining Wofford College, and earnestly urge each member of the Conference to increased efforts in raising the appropriations for this object, by calling the attention of the people to the intimate connection subsisting between the success of the Institution and the prosperity of the Church."

"Resolved, That as a Board of Trustee's we cordially approve the action of its several district meetings in relation to the education of a young man from each District for the Ministry, and earnestly recommend prompt measures in raising the amount necessary to meet their board bills—their tuition fees being remitted by the Faculty."

The next session of the College and the Schools will begin on the first Monday in January, 1869.

COLUMBIA FEMALE COLLEGE.

By reference to the last report of the Board of Trustees to the South Carolina Conference, it will be seen that the Trustees at the close of the war, finding it impossible to carry on the Institution, leased the building to Mr. Nickerson, to be used as a first class hotel, for the sum of $3,000 per annum, for the period of two years, which lease expired on the 1st September last. Hoping that at the expiration of that time the country would have recovered from the disasters of the war so that the exercises of the College might be resumed. In this hope, however, they have been disappointed, and have consequently leased the building for another year to Mr. Wright, the successor to Mr. Nickerson, for the sum of two thousand dollars, being compelled to take $1,000 less than the former rent, inasmuch as a new and commodious building had been erected for a hotel in a more central part of the city, and which Mr. Wright was anxious to lease. This sum of two thousand dollars, however, is sufficient to pay the interest on the debt due by the College, insurance, taxes, &c., and leave some four or five hundred dollars to go towards the liquidation of the debt.

The following is a balance sheet showing the indebtedness of the Institution as far as it can be ascertained, as it is not known to your Committee what the precise amount of interest is due on the bonds:

COKESBURY CONFERENCE SCHOOL.

This Institution is gradually recovering from the effects of the war, and is more in a situation to supply an important demand in the Northwestern section of the State.

The Institution has been for the past year under the Rectorship of Mr. James L. Lesley, and has numbered about forty students.

The Board of Trustees hope that the members of the Conference will not forget that their sons can be educated, or at least prepared, for College here without expense for tuition, and earnestly appeal to them to use their influence in rebuilding the old established Institution.

TRUSTEES: F. A. Connor, Jas. F. Smith, G. W. Hodges, F. F. Gary S. Leard, S. B. Jones, W. H. Lawton, W. H. Fleming and J. T. Kilgo.

DAVENPORT FEMALE COLLEGE, LENOIR, N. C.

Has just closed a year of unusual prosperity in spite of the embarrassed condition of the country. The rent accruing from the contract made last year with its present President, has been more than sufficient to pay one year's interest on the debt of the College. It is proposed that the President act as traveling agent for the Institution during the winter vacation, in the hope of increasing its patronage and diminishing its indebtedness. It is confidently believed that this Institution, which has already rendered so valuable service to the Church, is now entering upon a career of still greater influence and usefulness.

From the recent circular of the Board of Trustees, we give the following among its claims to public patronage: 1. Healthfulness of climate; 2. Sublime mountain scenery; 3. Quiet and orderly community; 4. Beautiful grounds; 5. Superior buildings; 6. Ample School fixtures; 7. Excellent Board; 8. Experienced and successful teachers; 9. High standard of scholarship; 10. Perfect system; 11. Extremely low rates of board and tuition.

Besides these reasons, we ask special attention to the fact, that the rents, by which principally the debt is to be extinguished, are directly proportional to the number of students.

The trustees desire the re-appointment of Rev. Samuel Lander to the Presidency of the College.

TRUSTEES—J. W. North, P. F. Kistler, A. J. Cauthen, S. Lander,
A. McCorquodale, J. G. Bowman, G. W. Ivy, Col. E. W. Jones, Col.
J. Harper, John Rutherford, S. Dula, Jas. A. Claywell and A. Shell.

CAROLINA FEMALE COLLEGE.

This Institution is still in successful operation, under the Presidency of Jas. E. Blankenship, Esq., assisted by a sufficent and competent corps of Teachers, with the prospect of increased patronage for the ensuing year. The health of the College for the three last years has been almost unprecedented, as not a case of serious illness has occurred during that entire period.

The Committee cordially recommend this excellent Institution to the patronage of our people, and whilst they deeply sympathize with the Board of Trustees in the embarrassment of debt (about $3,000) which now presses them, sincerely regret their inability to devise any means by which relief can be immediately extended. It is to be hoped that the Trustees will still find it in their power to continue this cherished Institution in successful operation under the auspices of the M. E. Church, South.

TRUSTEES—Col. W. G. Smith, Purdie Richardson, E. G. Kendall, W. C. Smith, W. P. Kendall, C. Wooly, T. A. Boone, R. R. Pegues, W. C. Power, Presiding Elder Wadesboro' District, preachers in charge of Wadesboro' Circuit, Ansonville Circuit, and Wadesboro' Station.

In conclusion the Committee recommend for adoption by the Conference the following Resolutions, viz:

1. That the Presiding Bishop be respectfully requested to appoint to our institutions of learning such members of the Conference as have been elected to fill chairs of instruction.

2. That as a body of Christian Ministers and Laymen, we are profoundly convinced of the importance of giving a religious education to the youth of our country, and we will use our best endeavors to promote the interests of all our institutions of learning, recommending them in our intercourse with the people, obtaining for them as many students as possible, and heartily co-operating in raising such funds as have been voted by the Conference.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORT.

The Sunday School Board is happy to report, that the returns from the Circuits and Stations of the Conference show a gratifying interest in the great work of the Church, the religious education of the young. The figures, however, do not exhibit as large an increase in the number of schools and scholars as we had hoped to report.

The Board cannot express too strongly its sense of the importance of interesting the young in the study of the Scriptures, and winning the Lambs of Jesus to their Almighty Saviour. The moral and religious training of children is the most hopeful means of benefitting society, and preventing the spread of those corrupting and destructive principles towards which our fallen nature is inclined. The attempt to reform the vicious adult population is, to use the language of an eloquent writer, "the task of taming the old lion, of writing on granite, of moulding rock in your fingers, of twining the quarled boughs of the oak." The full grown man is already educated for good or evil. Nothing but an extraordinary gracious influence from Heaven can change him, and even then the defects of his training and the habits of his youth are apparent, and can never be entirely supplied or effectually removed. Thank God the little ones are susceptible of influence and may be moulded into the likeness of the Redeemer. Whether in Carolina or in China, our chief hope for extending Christianity is in the training of the young. These can be moved, melted and won. No one dreams of proposing the Sunday School as a substitute for family instruction. The work of the Sunday School is supplementary to that of the parent. The children of Christian parents, who by precept and example point to Jesus, "allure to higher worlds and lead the way," have, in addition to the advantages of parental teaching in the Sunday School, the opportunities of religious influences and

The Board is persuaded that the members of the South Carolina Conference will go to their new fields of labor, resolved to strive with an increased zeal to bring all the children to Christ.

We respectfully submit the following resolutions:

1. That we continue the Sunday School Agency.

2. That we request the Bishop to appoint the Rev. S. Leard, the Sunday School Agent of the Conference.

3. That we most carnestly commend to the Churches our beloved Bro. Leard, whose labors in this field during the past year have been blessed of God, and whose highest ambition is, to be permitted to devote all the energies of his soul to the work of preaching Jesus to the children.

4. That our Anniversary meeting be held on one of the evenings of the session of the Conference.

REPORT ON BOOKS AND PERIODICALS.

The Committee on Books and Periodicals, after a careful consideration of the matters committed to them, are profoundly impressed with the vital importance of them to us as a Church, and especially in view of the present condition of society. The tendency to hertrodoxy in certain directions; and the fearful prevalence of loose and erroneous views of morality and a pure christianity, the fruits of which are painfully visible in various forms, admonish us of the importance of waking up as a Conference and as a Church on this vital subject. We know of no more potent auxiliary to the preaching of the Gospel than the circulation of a sound religious literature. We have reason for gratitude to the great Head of the Church for what has been accomplished, but past success should serve to impel us onward to still higher achievments. It is with the liveliest satisfaction that we have heard of the encourageing prospects of our Publishing House. The ability, zeal and success, with which the Agent, Dr. Redford has conducted the business of the concern is worthy of our highest commendation, and we would recommend to our preachers a still more active co-operation with the Agent, by a liberal patronage, at least to the extent of accepting the $60.00 proposition. It would be very desirable to have an agency located some where within our bounds for the sale of our books and tracts, but your Committee are not prepared to recommend a plan that appears to them practicable, under present circumstances. We recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, That we are as much as ever attached to the Southern Christian Advocate as our Conference Organ, and that we appreciate the ability with which it is conducted.

Resolved, That the Christian Advocate published at Nashville, and the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist are eminently worthy of our patronage, and that we will recommend them to our people.

our patronage, and that we will recommend Resolved, That the Sunday School Visitor is admirably adapted to the object for which it is intended, and that we will recommend it to our Sunday Schools and families connected with our Church.

FINANCIAL PLAN.

Your Committee feel profoundly impressed with the importance of the interest of the Church committed to their consideration. How to provide more adequately for the support of the Ministry, of our Bishops, of our superannuated preachers, our widows and orphans, our Missionary and Educational interests—in short, how to sustain the Church, financially, in its various interests, and remove the difficulties and dangers which now beset it, from a want of proper support, is a question which commends itself to the carnest attention of every official and other member who loves the Gospel of our Blessed Redeemer, and who would preserve and perpetuate its hallowing influence.

At this trying and critical juncture, in connexion with the financial interests of the Church, it is hoped that the introduction of the laity into its representation will exert a most salutary influence. Upon this element, and upon this element chiefly, should devolve the care of the Church in her material support, and it is hoped that the presence of earnest, zealous laymen, from various localities within the bounds of the Conference, catching the spirit as well as a knowledge of the wants and necessities of the Church, and bearing these home into the midst of the mass of the membership, will act like leaven infusing itself through the whole lump.

Our people need education in the matter of the support of the Ministry and the several interests of the Church. In the past, from the fact that very many of our preachers possessed means of their own, and used them in maintaining themselves, their wives and children, their claims were not properly pressed upon the membership, and a just and proper sense of obligation to pay those claims established. Their private means have now been swept away, and the preachers, in the great majority of instances, must look entirely to the Church for support, or resort to secular pursuits in connexion with their Ministerial labor. And here we feel called upon to raise our voice in solemn warning against the dangers and difficulties to the Church of a secularized Ministry. And whilst appealing to the membership to come up promptly to the full measure of their duty, that this weighty responsibility may be removed from their shoulders, we cannot refrain from turning our eyes upon our Ministerial brethren, whilst we admonish them upon this subject.

In connexion with the financial pelicy of the Church, and the effect upon it by the tendency of public sentiment at the present time, it is feared that our educational interests are being allowed, unnecessarily, to languish and suffer. If we would preserve the high standard of our christian faith and doctrine, and the influence of the Church, in its purity and sanctity, our institutions of learning must be sustained. Suffer these to decay and fall, and you loose from the great edifice of the Church, one of the most substantial and sublime pillars which God, in the plenitude of His wisdom and goodness, has placed for its support. And here our eyes turn with special anxiety and solicitude to Wofford College-our own cherished and useful institution, and the only one of its character now connected with our Conference. To its self-sacrificing and faithful Faculty the Church owes a debt of gratitude which can never be discharged. In the midst of the common ruin which came upon us from the results of the war, those noble-hearted Christian men, firmly, persistently--we had almost said heroically--remained at their posts and preserved the existence of the College; and this, too, when other sections and other fields of labor, involving more of comfort and profit, sought the advantages of their distinguished learning, experience and usefulness. Privation, hardship, if not suffering, were endured by them, rather than forsake their positions. In view of all the circumstances, influences and interests which now cluster about Wofford, it commends itself anew to the fostering care, encouragement and support with both preachers and people. Like the Ministry, with its endowments and all sources of fixed and certain support lost and gone, it must throw itself upon the Church, and these expect to be matured and sustained from the bosom of her celestial love.

Time and space do not permit us to exhibit, in such form and extent, the varied interests which depend for support upon the body of the Church, as their great importance demands. It is but permitted us to glance at them. Our superannuated preachers, and the widows and orphans of preachers—in these times of poverty and hardness, when the heart of man seems to be growing colder and colder in its sensibilities to the great virtue of charity-when selfishness and the baser elements of human nature seem to be struggling for the ascendency, to whom must these helpless ones look, if not to their own household of the Church, to the family of Christ, of whom they are, and whose interests they have so faith-

And our Bishops, with well nigh their all of domestic fully served? enjoyment—the comforts of home and the sacred duties and plesures of the family circle—laid us a willing sacrifice upon the altar of the Church, how can they be forgotten, when we come to apportion our means for the support of the Church? And our Missions, with all the weight of duty and interest which they lay upon the Church, how can we lessen our interest in them or fail in their adequate support?

Your Committee, coming from the body of the Church, and representing the laity within the limits of the Conference, would respectfully submit, for the adoption of the Conference, and the guidance and practice of the various Churches under its charge, the following resolutions and plan of operations:

Resolved, That while we look with favor upon the policy adopted by the General Conference, in modification of the itinerant system, we yet yield a willing Christian obedience to the lawfully constituted authorities of the Church, bowing to its acts and authority as laid upon us by the Great Head of the Church, through its ministers: and actuated thus, with brotherly sympathy and regard, the preachers appointed to labor among us by the Bishop, using our best efforts to provide for their comfort and support, both spiritual and temporal.

Resolved, That at the present time, more than ever before, it presses upon the membership, and more especially the official membership, of the Church, to engage in the work of its support, in its several interests, with new zeal and determination.

Resolved. That to the stewardship, and to the stewardship separately and distinctly, if not entirely, from any effort or connection on the part of the ministry, belongs the work of providing for the

Resolved, That we view, with nothing but serious apprehensions, any thing within our limits which tends to a secularized ministry, and present the matter as one worthy the most serious consideration of both our preachers and people.

Resolved, That we heartily endorse the provision which is made. in the financial economy of the Church, for the assistance of Wofford College, and urge upon the Church, both in its ministerial and lay elements, to impress the importance of this item of the Conference or consolidated collection upon the attention of the membership.

PLAN OF OPERATIONS.

1. That the Conference or consolidated collections be continued in the same form as heretofore, and presented to the Church, in congregation assembled or otherwise, and, if necessary, from time to time, until the whole amount be raised, as may be determined by the Board of Stewards, in connection with the preacher, as a matter separate and distinct from all other claims upon the Church, and that the amount to be raised by each and every church be fixed in the sum which is the aggregate, of 70 cents from each and every member of the same.

2. That the aggregate of Conference or consolidated collections be put down at $26,000, to be apportioned as follows: For Bishops, superannuated preachers, etc., $10,000, for education $8,000, and for missions, $8,000.

3. That as soon as the preacher arrives, it shall be the duty of the respective Boards of Stewards to meet and determine the whole amount to be raised for the support of the Church, for the Conference year, the Conference or consolidated collection excepted; that at the first Church meeting thereafter, this matter shall be brought by the stewards before the membership, that provision may be made for raising the amount required, either by assessments upon all the members of the Church, made by the stewards and assented to by the members, or by the assumption of entirely voluntary obligations on the part of the members, to the full amount needed.

4. That collections be made monthly by the stewards, and payments made monthly by them to the preacher, the financial result of each month's operation to be reported to the monthly Church meeting. That at the stations, if deemed practicable, public collections be taken up every Sabbath morning to aid in any deficiencies which may occur.

5. That in order to further the interests of collections for the support of the preachers, &c., it shall be the duty of the stewards to bring the interests involved constantly before the membership, both privately and individually, and in congregation assembled; and that the performance of this duty is most urgently and sacredly enjoined, its observance being made the test of good stewardship.

6. That it shall be the duty of the stewards to assist the pastor in raising the amount of the Conference or consolidated collection, and, as far as possible, to see to it that the amount come not short of that required.
