•Former women's tennis standout Louise Maynard '96 and men's basketball player Willie Pegram '68 will be inducted into the Wofford College Athletic Hall of Fame on Saturday while Tom Brown '81 and George Todd '77 are this year's special award recipients.

The Hall of Fame recognizes "those former athletes and coaches who, by outstanding athletic achievements and service, have made lasting and significant contributions to the cause of sports at Wofford College, the Spartanburg community, South Carolina, and the nation."

Maynard was elected to the Wofford Athletic Hall of Fame in her first year of eligibility. She played No. 1 singles and No. 1 doubles in every match over her four-year career, earning team Most Valuable Player honors each season.

A native of Belton, S.C., she posted a career singles mark of 58-28 with a doubles record of 40-25. Maynard received an NCAA Top 40 individual ranking as the Wofford women posted Top 20 national rankings in her freshman and junior seasons. She also helped lead the Lady Terriers to a 10-6 record in their first year of Division I play in 1996.

Maynard was a Dean's List student who was very involved on campus. Among her many activities were the Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity and Wofford Players Speakers Bureau. She also served as a biology lab assistant.

Pegram ranks seventh on the Wofford basketball career scoring list with 1,659 points. He was a three-year starter and Team Captain as a senior.

The Carlisle, S.C., native and Union High School graduate was a teammate of Wofford Athletic Hall of Fame members Buddy Hayes '66 and Jimmy Littlefield '69. Standing 6-foot-8, he gave the Terriers a presence inside. He earned team Most Valuable Player honors as a junior when he averaged 15.3 points and 11.3 rebounds in leading Wofford to a 17-8 record.

- Brown is the 2001 Honorary Letterman by the Wofford Athletic Hall of Fame.

The Honorary Letterman Award recognizes those non-lettermen who through their dedicated service and loyal support have been instrumental in the growth and development of Wofford's athletic program.

A resident of Concord, N.C., Brown has been a strong supporter of Wofford through his involvement with the Terrier Club, the Mini-Tour golf event in Charlotte, and other athletic endeavors. He is also a part of Wofford radio broadcasts, serving as the sideline reporter for Terrier football games.

- Todd is the 2001 Distinguished Service Award recipient.

Todd has been instrumental in helping to grow the major donor base of the Terrier Club by hosting annual events like the Shrimp Boil for $1,000+ donors, which also kicks off the football season, in addition to the new Lobster Bake held each spring for $2,000+ contributors. Both events have become highlights of Terrier Club major donor membership and have contributed significantly to expanding the web of friendship and support of the Terrier Club.

Todd slaves over the hot grills and pots in serving others in a quiet and magnanimous way.

In addition, he and his wife, Sarah, have established the G. Cameron and Elizabeth C. Todd Scholarship to honor his parents. This year's recipient is Terrier safety Brandon Ladd.

Danny Morrison Named Commissioner of The Southern Conference Former Wofford Athletic Director to lead nation's fourth-oldest conference

CHARLESTON, SC -- Danny Morrison, the senior vice president at Wofford College, has been named the commissioner of the Southern Conference. Morrison replaces Alfred White who resigned in July. The announcement was made on Tuesday, November 13 in Charleston during the annual Southern Conference Fall Meeting.

"We are extremely pleased that Danny Morrison will be joining the Southern Conference," said Dr. Ted Monroe, president of the Southern Conference. "His many years of experience in intercollegiate athletics and his demonstrated ability to empower those he works with will serve him well as the commissioner."

A search committee comprised of CEOs, faculty athletics representatives, athletics directors, and senior woman administrators recommended Morrison to the Conference's Council of Presidents who ratified the decision. Morrison will start his new position on December 3.

Morrison, 48, has served as the senior vice president at Wofford since 1997, focusing on business operations and enrollment management. He has also supervised a number of major construction projects on campus including a new $4 million residence hall and the $14.5 million Roger Milliken Science Center.

Prior to becoming senior vice president, Morrison was Wofford's director of athletics from 1985-97. Among the national leaders in graduation rates for its student-athletes, Wofford went from competing as an independent in the NAIA with nine sports to a member of the Southern Conference at the NCAA Division I level with 16 sports. Facility improvements included land acquisition, the Richardson Physical Activities Building, Gibbs Stadium, the Reeves Tennis Center, and a renovated Soccer stadium. The athletics endowment grew from $150,000 to more than $7.5 million and annual Terrier club giving increased from $220,000 annually to $675,000. Morrison also was instrumental in a 15-year agreement to host the NFL Carolina Panthers training camp.

A native of Burlington, NC, and a graduate of Williams High School, Morrison graduated summa cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa from Wofford in 1975 with a degree in mathematics. As an undergraduate, he was a four-year letterman in basketball. Morrison earned a master's degree at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and in 1993, he completed the month-long Institute for Educational Management at Harvard University. He recently completed work on his Ph.D. in higher education administration at the University of South Carolina in Columbia where his dissertation focused on marketing practices in colleges and universities.

Following his graduation from Wofford, Morrison returned to Williams High School where he was a math teacher and assistant basketball coach. The following year, he was named coach. In 1980, Morrison moved to Elon College as an assistant professor of math, assistant basketball coach and head tennis coach. He served as an assistant athletic director at Elon from 1982 until moving to Wofford in 1985.

Morrison and his wife, Peggy, are the parents of a son, Trey, and a daughter, Meg. He has served on a number of community boards and committees including the Bank of America Advisory Board, Share the Vision for Spartanburg, and the Restoration of Magnolia Street Depot fundraising committee.

The Southern Conference, founded in 1921, is the fourth-oldest NCAA Division I intercollegiate athletics conference in the country. Its 12 members institutions are located in five Southeastern states. Its members include Appalachian State, College of Charleston, The Citadel, Davidson College, East Tennessee State, Furman, Georgia Southern, North Carolina Greensboro, Chattanooga, Virginia Military Institute, Western Carolina and Wofford College.

Richard Johnson, in his 17th year as head men's basketball coach at Wofford College, has been promoted to Athletic Director and will assume those duties effective Dec. 3.

Johnson takes over for Dr. David Wood, who has been promoted to a senior vice-president position on campus. Johnson will continue in his coaching role through the end of the season.

Wofford President Dr. Bernie Dunlap said, "Richard Johnson is a winner, pure and simple. No one is better at inspiring a group to excel beyond their own expectations, and that's what Wofford needs to do in nearly every contest it undertakes. That's why our mascot is the Terrier. Admittedly, Richard Johnson is an oversize Terrier, but he has a heart to match. He'll be a superb Athletic Director."

Since becoming Wofford's head coach in April 1985, Johnson has seen the Terrier basketball program grow from NAIA membership to NCAA Division II, Division I Independent, and the Southern Conference. During that time, Johnson has held the title of assistant athletic director while being involved in several administrative and fundraising capacities.

Johnson has a 100 percent graduation rate for all players who have completed their eligibility under him. He has also been the runner-up for Southern Conference Coach of the Year honors twice in the Terriers' four seasons of league play. Johnson entered the 2001-02 campaign with a 225-212 record (.519) that places him second on the college's all-time list for victories and winning percentage.

"I had the greatest job in the world," Johnson said. "Why would I want to leave?"

"The answer is that it's a tremendous opportunity to build on the momentum that Dr. Dunlap and Dr. Wood have established and the inertia they have generated. I'm also fortunate to inherit a great administrative and coaching staff."

A native of Blue Island, Ill., Johnson is a 1976 graduate of The Citadel. He also received his MBA from The Citadel in 1980. Upon his graduation, he was hired as an assistant coach by then Bulldog coach and now Athletic Director Les Robinson. He served nine years under Robinson at The Citadel before coming to Wofford.

"Richard Johnson is very qualified and ready to become athletic director at Wofford," Wood said. Below is a corrected release on Richard Johnson being named Athletic Director at Wofford. There was an error in his quote.

Thanks.

Mark

Johnson Named Athletic Director at Wofford

Richard Johnson, in his 17th year as head men's basketball coach at Wofford College, has been promoted to athletic director and will assume those duties effective Dec. 3.

Johnson takes over for Dr. David Wood, who has been promoted to a senior vice-president position on campus. Johnson will continue in his coaching role through the end of the season.

Wofford President Dr. Benjamin Dunlap said, "Richard Johnson is a winner, pure and simple. No one is better at inspiring a group to excel beyond their own expectations, and that's what Wofford needs to do in nearly every contest it undertakes. That's why our mascot is the Terrier. Admittedly, Richard Johnson is an oversize Terrier, but he has a heart to match. He'll be a superb Athletic Director."

Since becoming Wofford's head coach in April 1985, Johnson has seen the Terrier basketball program grow from NAIA membership to NCAA Division II, Division I Independent, and the Southern Conference. During that time, Johnson has held the title of assistant athletic director while being involved in several administrative and fundraising capacities.

Johnson has a 100 percent graduation rate for all players who have completed their eligibility under him. He has also been the runner-up for Southern Conference Coach of the Year honors twice in the Terriers' four seasons of league play. Johnson entered the 2001-02 campaign with a 225-212 record (.519) that places him second on the college's all-time list for victories and winning percentage.

"I had the greatest job in the world," Johnson said. "Why would I want to leave?"

"The answer is that it's a tremendous opportunity to build on the momentum that Dr. Dunlap and Dr. Wood have established and the energy they have generated. I'm also fortunate to inherit a great administrative and coaching staff."

A native of Blue Island, Ill., Johnson is a 1976 graduate of The Citadel. He also received his MBA from The Citadel in 1980. Upon his graduation, he was hired as an assistant coach by then Bulldog coach and now Athletic Director Les Robinson. He served nine years under Robinson at The Citadel before coming to Wofford.

"Richard Johnson is very qualified and ready to become athletic director at Wofford," Wood said. "During his 17 years here, he has participated in a variety of administrative assignments, ranging from serving as assistant athletic director to planning and fundraising for the Richardson Building and Carolina Panther projects."

"Richard has always had the big picture in mind when it comes to Wofford College and the athletic program, in particular the importance of athletics as an educational experience for our young people."

Johnson and his wife, Carol, have three children: Lindsay, age 22; Lauren, age 20; and Rich, age 11. Lindsay is a 2001 Wofford graduate while Lauren is currently a junior at Wofford.

It's been a whirlwind 24 hours for Wofford Running Back Coach Freddie Brown.

Brown has been pulling double duty this summer as an intern with the Carolina Panthers in their Minority Fellowship Program with the National Football League.

In his final act with the Panthers, Brown was on the sidelines last night for a preseason game with the New England Patriots. After being at practice with the Terriers until 5:45 p.m. yesterday, Brown raced off the field for a quick shower before making the 70-mile drive to Charlotte. He arrived at Ericsson Stadium at 7:15 p.m., just 15 minutes before the opening kickoff.

Following the game, Brown went out to eat with Panther Running Back Coach Chick Harris and didn't arrive back in Spartanburg until 3 a.m. He then awoke at 6 a.m. to be on campus for a 7 a.m. meeting prior to the Terriers' first day of two-a-day practices.

Baseball (Co-MVPs)

George Lehr (Largo, Fla.) – He has had a record-breaking season on the mound. With 11 wins and seven saves, both school marks, he has taken part in 18 of Wofford's 23 victories. His 12 career saves is also a new Terrier record. Lehr ranks in a tie for third nationally in victories. He's been selected the SoCon Pitcher of the Week twice this season.

Matt Lein (Alpharetta, Ga.) – In just his freshman year, he ranks among the SoCon leaders in nearly all offensive categories. With 69 hits, he is on pace to break Wofford's single-season base hit record. His .377 batting average, six home runs, and 42 RBI easily top the Terrier charts.

Men's Basketball

Kenny Hastie (Columbia, S.C.) – He provided senior leadership to a very young squad. He also placed among the SoCon leaders in rebounding and blocked shots. He had six double-figure games in rebounds, including 12 at Memphis and 13 at Clemson. He set a personal-high with 15 boards at Davidson. He also scored 20 points with 14 rebounds in a win over Florida A&M.

Men's Track (Co-MVPs)

Jonathan Carey (Jonesboro, Ga.) – Also a quarterback for the Terrier football team, he set school records in the hurdles and also set the team's long jump mark at the Southern Conference Indoor Championships. He continued his strong performance in the outdoor season, again breaking hurdles records and recording top times at several events.

Former Wofford College football player Ben Foster has been named the 2002 recipient of the Charles Bradshaw Award, while teammate Bailey King has received the William Stanley Hoole Award.

One of the highest honors that a Wofford student-athlete can receive is the Bradshaw Award, initiated in 1978 in recognition of the Terriers' former All-American quarterback.

A 1959 Wofford graduate and former Student Body President, Bradshaw is a man of great integrity with strong family values, a distinguished and successful businessman, a civic leader, and person admired by all who have known him.

The award is presented only in years when there is a candidate "whose academic, leadership, and citizenship contributions at Wofford College best typify the ideals and contributions of Charlie Bradshaw."

Foster, a senior from Kennesaw, Ga., headed to medical school in the fall, has been the model student-athlete at Wofford during his four years on campus.

He was a three-year starter at halfback and a Team Captain his senior season. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, Foster also served Wofford as Student Body President. He is the lone I-AA representative on the Division I Football Issues Committee. He also represents the Southern Conference on the NCAA Student-Athlete Advisory Council.

Foster recently received the prestigious Arthur Ashe, Jr. Award as the Male Scholar-Athlete of the Year from Black Issues in Higher Education. He is also extremely active in the community.

The Hoole Award is given each year to the senior student-athlete with the highest grade-point average.

King is a Phi Beta Kappa finance major with a 3.82 grade-point average. After not seeing game action as a freshman, he became a three-year letterman and two-year starter at center. He was named to the 2000 Verizon Academic All-District team.

King will attend law school at the University of North Carolina.

The Wofford College Captain's Council has named former Terrier Athletic Director and now Senior Vice-President Dr. David Wood as its 2002 Distinguished Service Award recipient.

The Captain's Council is comprised of a representative from each of the intercollegiate sports on campus. Each year, the Captain's Council recognizes an individual for his or her distinguished service to Wofford athletics.

Wood had a very successful five-year tenure as athletic director, before his promotion in December to a senior vice-president position on campus.

After arriving at Wofford in January of 1997, Wood guided Wofford into its Southern Conference era and helped ease the Terriers' transition to NCAA Division I. Under his direction, Wofford became a national leader in its graduation rate for student-athletes while Terrier Club giving continued to reach an all-time high – topping the $1 million mark last year.

Former Terrier Athletic Director Danny Morrison '75 and baseball standout Chad McLain '91 have been selected by a committee of the Terrier Club Board of Directors as the 2002 inductees into the Wofford College Athletic Hall of Fame.

Local sportscaster Pete Yanity is the 2002 Honorary Letterman, while retired Wofford President Joe Lesesne will receive the Distinguished Service Award.

Induction ceremonies will take place on Nov. 2, prior to the football team's home game that afternoon against The Citadel.

The Hall of Fame recognizes "those former athletes and coaches who, by outstanding athletic achievements and service, have made lasting and significant contributions to the cause of sports at Wofford College, the Spartanburg community, South Carolina, and the nation."

As the Terriers' athletic director (1985-96), Morrison oversaw Wofford's move from an NAIA Independent with nine sports to a member of the Southern Conference at the NCAA Division I level with 16 sports. He was also instrumental in the facility improvements that included land acquisition, the Richardson Physical Activities Building, Gibbs Stadium, the Reeves Tennis Center, and renovating Snyder Field into a first-class soccer stadium.

The athletics endowment grew from $150,000 to more than $7.5 million under Morrison while annual Terrier Club giving increased from $220,000 to $675,000.

Among Morrison's hires at Wofford are current Head Football Coach Mike Ayers and Athletic Director Richard Johnson. Ayers is the Terriers' all-time winningest football coach with 81 victories while Johnson recently completed a 17-year tenure as Wofford's head men's basketball coach.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Wofford, Morrison was also a letterman on the Terrier basketball team. He is currently employed as commissioner of the Southern Conference, after serving five years as Wofford's senior vice-president.

McLain is Wofford's all-time winningest pitcher after posting a 31-14 record in his Terrier career, including a school record 23 complete games. At the time of his graduation, he held Wofford single-season marks for victories (11, 1991), starts (14, 1991), and innings pitched (109.0, 1990).

His 11 victories as a senior, including a complete-game 5-1 win at SoCon Tournament champion Furman, placed among the Division II national leaders. McLain recorded nine complete games that season, including a shutout, to go with a save and an impressive 4.06 ERA while pitching at a very hitter-friendly Law Field on campus. McLain had a 3.88 ERA as a junior after posting complete-game victories in each of his last four starts.

A native of Orangeburg, S.C., McLain was a team captain and most valuable player as a senior when Wofford set a single-season school record for victories with its 30-9 mark.

The Honorary Letterman Award recognizes those non-lettermen who through their dedicated service and loyal support have been instrumental in the growth and development of Wofford's athletic program.

growth and development of Wofford's athletic program.

Yanity, a former member of the Terrier Club Board of Directors, has been a friend to Wofford in his role as sports director at NewsChannel 7 (WSPA-TV) in Spartanburg, S.C.

This fall will represent Yanity's 11th year as host of the Terriers' football television show. He also serves as the emcee of Wofford's Athletic Awards Banquet each spring in addition to assisting the college behind the scenes with video projects.

Lesesne retired in June 2000 after a distinguished 28-year tenure as Wofford's president. He returned to campus last year as a volunteer assistant football coach, working with the Terrier tight ends. He was previously a Wofford assistant football coach from 1965-68.

Lesesne first came to Wofford as an assistant professor of history in (1964-67). He also served as assistant dean of the college and director of the Interim (1967-68), director of development (1968-69), and dean of the college (1969-72).

Throughout his tenure as president, Lesesne was a fixture at Wofford sporting events and a strong supporter of the athletic program.

GREENVILLE, SC -- The Southern Conference today announced that its Basketball Championship will remain in Charleston through the 2004 season. The men's championship will be played at the North Charleston Coliseum while the women's championship will take place at McAlister Field House on the campus of The Citadel and at the Coliseum.

The Basketball Championship was originally granted to Charleston for the 2002 and 2003 seasons. With the championship game on Saturday, first round play in the men's championship will now start on Wednesday, March 5, with the quarterfinals on March 6 and the semifinals on Friday, March 8. The women's championship game will also be played on Saturday, March 8.
