Fall sports teams to report this weekend August 13, 2004

With the fall seasons set to begin in two weeks, the Wofford men's and women's soccer teams and the Terrier volleyball squad will report to campus this weekend in preparation of their respective campaigns.

"Certainly, we are excited to get the season underway," said head women's soccer coach Amy Kiah. "We have a solid nucleus returning along with a core of newcomers that will help advance our program to the next level."

The Terrier women's soccer team posted a 5-4-2 mark in the Southern Conference a year ago and returns eight of its 11 starters. It will be the first Wofford team in regular-season action this fall with an Aug. 27 meeting at Coastal Carolina.

"We are really excited for the guys to arrive on campus," noted head men's soccer mentor Matt Kern. "We will have a meeting Sunday, a fitness test Monday morning and then a 9-on-9 match Monday afternoon. We are optimistic about this season."

Wofford will be looking to improve on its season from a year ago and continue its climb in the SoCon standings. The Terriers boast four seniors and 11 letterwinners are back. The squad will open its season Sept. 1 at High Point.

"I've never been around as much excitement concerning the opening of practice as I have this year," remarked head volleyball coach Corey Helle. "Everyone from the student-athletes to the coaches to the support staff is really excited about getting the season underway. We are looking forward to a strong, competitive season. We are looking forward to getting in the gym after everyone had a strong summer."

On the court, the Terrier volleyball team will blend a mix of six returning letterwinners with seven newcomers. Andrea Duke, who was the program's first All-SoCon selection in 2003, returns for her final year as Wofford heads to the Summit Hospitality Wolfpack Classic in Raleigh, N.C., to open the season. The Terriers will face N.C. State Sept. 3 in the opener.

Subject: Wofford announces 2004 Athletic Hall of Fame class
Date: September 9, 2004 at 11:51 AM
To:

Mark Line, Wofford baseball's all-time winningest coach, and Dr. Sam Black '11 have been selected by a committee of the Terrier Club Board of Directors as the 2004 inductees into the Wofford College Athletic Hall of Fame.

Black was chosen through a special Veteran's Committee as part of Wofford's celebration of its 150-year anniversary. Induction ceremonies will take place Oct. 2, prior to the football team's home game that night versus Chattanooga.

The Hall of Fame recognizes "those former athletes and coaches who, by outstanding athletic achievements and service, have made lasting and significant contributions to the cause of sports at Wofford College, the Spartanburg community, South Carolina and the nation."

Line, currently the Terriers' associate athletic director, is Wofford's all-time winningest baseball coach. He posted a 210-158 record from 1986-95. Line then accepted a position as Wofford's associate dean of students before returning to the athletic department in his new role in July 2003.

Line received District Coach of the Year honors in his second season as the 1987 squad put together a 23-11 mark. Wofford then set a single-season school record for victories the following campaign with a 27-12 mark. It represented the first time Wofford qualified for postseason play in consecutive seasons. Line's 1991 team established another Terrier mark for wins with a 30-9 record.

Line has served as chairman of the physical education department since 1988.

A successful $30,000 fundraising campaign by former Wofford baseball players last spring culminated in the home dugout of Russell C. King Field being named in honor of Line.

Black was co-founder of the Wofford Eleven Club, which evolved into the Terrier Club, in 1946. He also had the second-longest tenure (1956-61) of any Terrier Club president.

Black served as the Terriers' longtime team physician. He was known simply as "Dr. Sam" and was a fixture at home games and most road contests.

As a student-athlete, he was a three-year member of the Wofford football and baseball teams. He was a baseball captain his junior and senior seasons. During his longtime association with his alma mater, Black served on the Wofford Board of Trustees and was past president of the Wofford Alumni Association. His son, Sam O. Black Jr. '41, also became a team physician for the Terriers.

{photo2} Bob Pinson is the 2004 Honorary Letterman. Also a 1994 recipient of a Distinguished Service Award, Pinson is the first individual to receive both honors from the Wofford Athletic Hall of Fame.

The Honorary Letterman Award recognizes those non-lettermen who through their dedicated service and loyal support have been instrumental in the growth and development of Wofford's athletic program.

Pinson served as Wofford's fundraising chairman in the successful 1995 drive that saw the opening of the Richardson Building, a catalyst in attracting the Carolina Panthers' annual summer training camp to Wofford and Spartanburg, S.C.

Pinson recently completed a five-year tenure as an assistant coach for the Terrier men's and women's tennis programs.

A 1961 graduate of Furman, Pinson was a basketball standout and is a member of the Paladins' Athletic Hall of Fame.

Through a new partnership with TicketsXchange in Oxford, Miss., tickets to 2004 Wofford College home football games are now available online.

Tickets may be purchased using credit cards via the secured site of wofford.ticketsxchange.com as well as the "football" page on the Terrier web site (www.wofford.edu/athletics). Fans purchasing tickets online may also view a Gibbs Stadium diagram to select their own seating.

The easy-to-use online service marks the launch of Wofford's first-ever comprehensive ticketing program designed to "centralize" athletic ticket functions and bring new purchase options to Terrier fans of football, basketball and baseball.

The program's services will be expanded in time for men's and women's basketball season to allow fans to purchase tickets from multiple sources, including orders by phone, Internet and through the school's box office.

"We are excited about partnering with ticketsXchange to provide an easy method of ticketing to our fans," Wofford director of compliance and ticketing Elizabeth Wilkes said. "This new solution will soon integrate ticket sales from all sports into a single system and make it much easier to get accurate counts on overall sales and revenue."

"The ticketsXchange system will help streamline Wofford's athletic ticket-office operations, while providing a user-friendly service to Terrier fans," TicketsXchange spokesman Edward Yelverton said.

About TicketsXchange

Founded in 2001, ticketsXchange serves as a comprehensive ticketing solution that encompasses point of sale box office ticketing and wireless e-ticketing on an Internet platform.

Unlike traditional ticketing systems that require expensive hardware and continual software upgrades, ticketsXchange is a 100 percent web-based service that meets the changing demands of today's ticketing marketplace.

Representing a new paradigm for the ticketing industry, ticketsXchange offers integrated ticketing and management modules designed to meet the growing demands of ticket offices across the country.
