The Stern Scholar String Quartet - Chamber Music Series

Date/Time: 4/9/2007 7:00:00 PM
Location: Leonard Auditorium
Cost: Free
Details: The Stern Scholar String Quartet from the North Carolina School of the Arts, accompanied by pianist Emile Blondei, will perform at Wofford tonight at 7. The performance, which is free and open to the public, will be in Leonard Auditorium. The quartet was established in 2006 in memory of Isaac Stern through the generous support of his widow, Linda Stern. The quartet is an ensemble committed to the pursuit of excellence in chamber music. Led by the Isaac Stern Scholarship First Violinist, membership in the quartet is an honor primarily reserved for graduate students of the North Carolina School of the Arts (NCSA), although the group may occasionally include undergraduate students of exceptional promise. The quartet consists of Elisa Friedrich, violinist; Geronimo Oyenard, violinist; Laura Manko, violist; and Dorothea Vit, cellist. The program will include the String Quartet in D minor, K. 421, by W.A. Mozart, and the Piano Quintet in F minor, Op. 115, by C. Franck. The music students will have an open Q&A session after the performance, moderated by President Dunlap. They will discuss their music, as well as their lives as musicians.

365 Days/365 Plays
Date/Time: 4/12/2007 8:00:00 PM
Location: The Showroom, 149 S. Daniel Morgan Ave.
Cost: Free
Details: 365 Days/365 Plays started in November 2002 when Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Suzan-Lori Parks committed to writing a play a day for the next 365 days. Her simple act of writing 365 plays in 365 days has now inspired a nation-wide grassroots festival - a geographically-diverse relay race which invites each theater group to produce one week's worth of plays in its own style, creating a testament to the incredible diversity and richness of the American theatrical landscape. From Nov. 13, 2006 – Nov. 12, 2007, the 365 Days/365 Plays National Festival will present the work simultaneously across the country, creating the largest collaboration in the history of American theater. Producing organizations around the country have been selected to produce one week's worth of plays (seven) at a time. Wofford Theatre has been invited to perform Week 22 and Week 24, the second and last weeks of April. The first week of plays will be performed on Thursday and Friday, April 12 and 13. The second week will be Friday and Saturday, April 27 and 28. All performances are at 8 p.m. at the Showroom, 149 S. Daniel Morgan Ave, in downtown Spartanburg.

Hollywood Jesus
Date/Time: 4/15/2007 6:00:00 PM
Details: For the next three Sundays, we will be spending time watching movies and discussing intersections between them and our faith. “Spitfire Grill” is our first Hollywood Jesus movie. Here are some comments about this 1996 film: “This film is about the desires of the human spirit. In many ways, it is also about intolerance and fear;” “This is the story of Christ in modern dress;” “Spitfire Grill is an exploration of redemption and rebirth – of a girl, a marriage, a mother and a son, and a town;” “In addition to being the most accurate demonstration of the Christian doctrine of grace I have seen in recent memory, it is one of the most risky film making choices I have witnessed in a long while.” You will NOT want to miss this experience! So come and bring your friends to First Presbyterian Church at 6 p.m. this Sunday, April 15, for nourishment – your body and your soul. spartanburgpsa.org

Wofford College Faculty and Staff,

Preparations and planning for WalkAmerica, the largest national March of Dimes fundraiser, are well underway and you are invited to participate in this year’s event. As a Wofford College faculty or staff member, the Wofford Collegiate Council would like to invite you, your department, or your office to join Wofford’s WalkAmerica Team for the Spartanburg WalkAmerica 2007. The Collegiate Council is a newly chartered campus organization dedicated to furthering the mission of the March of Dimes.

The March of Dimes is a national non-profit organization founded by Franklin Roosevelt in 1938. The original mission of the organization was to eradicate polio. Thanks to the Jonas Salk and March of Dimes funded research, the cure was found in the 1950s. Now, and since 1958, the mission of the March of Dimes has been to improve the health of babies by preventing birth defects, premature birth, and infant mortality. With over 500,000 babies born prematurely every year in the United States, the need to address this problem has never been greater. While the reasons for nearly half of all premature births are unknown, the March of Dimes, with the help of researchers, volunteers, educators, and advocates, is coming closer and closer to finding the answers. Through events like WalkAmerica, the March of Dimes raises funds to allocate to researchers, to initiate educational programs, and to train volunteers in the effort to reduce premature birth.

You, your department, or your office can register for WalkAmerica on Wofford’s on webpage at www.walkamerica.org/377398. Each person registers separately by visiting the link, clicking Join this Team, and entering his or her information. Once you sign up, you have access to your own personal webpage. On your personal webpage, you can raise money for the walk, share a personal prematurity story, and even post a picture of a baby you choose to walk for on April 28, 2007. You can also see a full list of team members on the link above. The council is very excited to have raised over $500 dollars thus far and have 18 students signed up to walk! If you cannot participate in the walk, be sure to visit the link and click on a familiar student to support them with a contribution to their WalkAmerica campaign.

The council looks forward to seeing you on April 28 at Barnet Park as we walk to give every baby a healthy start! Please let me know if you have any questions.

Saving babies, together,

Drew

Re: Virginia Tech shootings

There will be a campus-wide time of prayer at 7:45 tonight in the Raines Center for the victims and families of the deadly Virginia Tech shootings which occurred this morning. This was the deadliest school shooting in history, and we want to petition God, as a campus, to heal the injured and comfort those involved. We will pray for about 30-45 minutes; please come if you can.

Russian Extravaganza Week – April 17-20
Sponsored by Fun Funds

The following events will be held on campus and are open to the Wofford community:

Tuesday, April 17 – There will be a documentary by Paul Bonesteele titled If the People Will Lead at (run-time, 58 min.) at 7 p.m. in the Olin Teaching Theater. The film is a lively exploration of the evolution of freedom in the former Soviet Union, and especially of the critical role played by the media.

Wednesday, April 18 – Following a Russian Tea Ceremony, there will be a Poetry Slam in Acorn Café of Roger Milliken Science Center from 7-8 p.m. This is a Fun Funds-sponsored event, and the Wofford Community is invited to share in reading their poetry as well as simply listening and enjoying free tea and cake!

Thursday, April 19 – There will be a special dinner prepared in Burwell featuring Russian cuisine. Yevgeny Yevtushenko will share his poetry in Leonard Auditorium from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Afterward, the Wofford Community is invited to "meet and greet" with Yevtushenko in the lobby of Leonard Auditorium. Refreshments will be served out on the seal!

Friday, April 20 – Space is available for 12 Wofford students and/or faculty and staff for a trip to Carl Sandburg's House at 1 p.m. Transportation and admission to tour will be provided, thanks to Fun Funds and the Success Initiative. Please email graingerkm@wofford.edu no later than Wednesday night if you are interested in going -- the first lucky 12 to do so will be notified!

Yevgeny Yevtushenko's appearance at Wofford is in conjunction with his visit to see Carl Sandburg's home in Flat Rock. Also, the visit will be filmed by Paul Bonesteele, who is preparing a documentary on Carl Sandburg, including his ties to Yevtushenko. Carl Sandburg met with Yevtushenko when he was a young man and just beginning to speak out in the Soviet Union against the Soviet treatment of Jews. Yevtushenko also has said that he read Sandburg and was inspired by his voice celebrating the common man. Leonard Auditorium was selected as the ideal place for Yevtushenko's visit because it is close to Connemara, where Sandburg lived, and Leonard Auditorium is the site of past visits by both Carl Sandburg and Robert Frost.

If The People Will Lead
Date/Time: 4/17/2007 7:00:00 PM
Location: Olin Teaching Theater
Cost: FREE
Details: Join the students of the Success Initiative for a viewing of Paul Bonesteel's documentary, “If The People Will Lead.” The documentary is a lively exploration of the evolution of freedom in the former Soviet Union, and especially of the critical role played by the media. The Glasnost era of the mid-80's ushered in a whole new era of self-expression, with the media at the forefront of the new openness. Leading Soviet print and television journalists describe their first steps to freedom and their later battles against renewed censorship prior to and during the 1991 coup. Extensive clips from Soviet television are used throughout, including dramatic footage of Soviet soldiers occupying the Lithuanian TV station. To provide social context, the video feature “slice of life” segments, mixing relevant music with scenes of cultural places and people. IF THE PEOPLE WILL LEAD is a revealing look into the soul of a society as it awakened from years of repression. (Run time: 58 mins) Paul Bonesteel will be on Wofford's campus this week to film a new documentary on Russian poet, Yevgeny Yevtushenko. The documentary is one of the events leading up to Yevtushenko's poetry reading on Thursday.

Orange & Maroon Effect Friday April 20th

Virginia Tech family members across the country have united to declare this Friday, April 20th, an “Orange and Maroon Effect” day to honor those killed in the tragic events on campus Monday, and to show support for Virginia Tech students, faculty, administrators, staff, alumni, and friends. “Orange and Maroon Effect” was born several years ago as an invitation to Tech fans to wear orange and maroon to Virginia Tech athletic events. We invite everyone from all over the country to be a part of the Virginia Tech family this Friday, to wear orange and maroon to support the families of those who were lost, and to support the school and community we all love so much.
To: Students, Parents, Faculty, Staff and other members of the wider Wofford College Community

From: President Dunlap

The tragic incidents at Virginia Tech have prompted questions regarding Emergency Preparedness at Wofford. Fortunately, this is a matter to which we have been especially attentive in recent years. Unfortunately, it is easy to imagine circumstances in which the most careful preparations and procedures might be inadequate. As a consequence, we are continually revising and expanding our precautions. What follows is a basic summary.

Summary of Wofford Emergency Preparedness

Wofford has a standing “Emergency Preparedness Committee” that meets on a regular basis to plan for responding to a variety of potential emergency situations. The committee is co-chaired by Dean Roberta Bigger and our Campus Safety Director. Its membership includes three of the College’s four senior vice presidents along with 16 other persons representing all areas of the campus.

We have multiple redundant layers of communication options in the event of an emergency. They include:

- Text messaging to cell phones
- Blast e-mails to Wofford addresses
- Web posting
- Blast voice mail messaging
- Notification throughout all facilities via residence advisors, residence directors, campus security and our first responders

We also have an incident command structure in place that is activated immediately in an emergency situation. Our planning group has focused on a variety of potential emergency situations including:

- Tornado
- Chemical spills
- Pandemic
- Active shooter

The committee is currently investigating additional communication options beyond what is listed above. Training programs occur regularly for campus safety, resident directors, residence assistants and building first responders.

In addition, I can report the following:
1. Wofford College’s residence halls are secured 24 hours a day, seven (7) days a week.
2. Our Campus Safety Officers are on duty 24 hours a day, seven (7) days a week.
3. Members of the residence life staff and the student affairs staff are on call to assist students and officers in any situation on campus.
4. There are protocols in place to respond to situations that involve illness, injury, and hostile and violent individuals. We have the ability to contact the Spartanburg Public Safety Officers with the click of a button on our Campus Safety radios.
5. We have First Responders in every building on the campus. These staff members are trained by the Health Services and Red Cross departments.
6. We have an excellent health services program, which includes a counseling program. Students are referred to the counselors by faculty, staff, fellow students and the Judicial Courts or they simply make an appointment on their own. If our students present our counselors with issues that they are not equipped to handle, they refer students to counselors, therapists and psychiatrists off campus.
7. If and when students threaten to do harm to themselves or others, they are removed from the campus until a complete physical and mental assessment is conducted. Such a student does not return to campus or classes until he or she (and usually the parents) meets with appropriate campus personnel.

Date/Time: 4/20/2007 9:00:00 PM
Location: 149 S. Daniel Morgan Ave., Spartanburg
Cost: $5 admission
Details: Seth Kauffman has a sound that is all his own, although he has been described as “Southern-Fried Beck.” Kauffman's unique "lo-fi North Carolina funk" sound, achieves a complex creative depth and emotional appeal that is lacking in most modern rock music, lo-fi, intelligent, and dripping with soul. His music spans beyond your average rock. His original songs are interwoven with a sort of "early Wailers meets Motown meets Beck in the Delta" sound. A pioneer for funky invention, he forged beyond his previous roots-soul band the Choosy Beggars, to play all the instruments, write, produce, and engineer his records himself. Student Sculptures on Campus

The first of several sculptures by students is now being installed on the campus lawn near Burwell building.

This first piece is a large triangular structure by Nathan Smith. During the next few days Nathan will be lining the structure with mirrors and adding a swiveling top piece intended to bring campus views into the interior. Visitors to the piece essentially will be able to stand inside a gigantic kaleidoscope.

This sculpture and the others to come are from a joint kinetic sculpture course taught by Wofford Professor Dr. Dan Lejeune and Converse College Professor Mac Boggs. The course combined concepts of physics and visual arts in sculptures having elements which move.

In light of the recent events at Virginia Tech and as Wofford examines our emergency response plans, please find attached an electronic version of the manual you received this fall.

Providing you with this resource is not intended to put you in the role of a therapist. However, you are often the first line of response in efforts to assist students in crisis. A faculty or staff member’s involvement with a student may be the best chance we have of recognizing when a student is experiencing emotional distress.

Staff members in the Health Services and Counseling offices are available to assist you in identifying such students and to be a referral if needed. Please let us know if you have any questions about the manual. If you have used it and have suggestions for improvements, please contact Beth Wallace.

We appreciate the opportunity to partner with you in promoting intellectual and emotional wellness on campus.

Counseling Services:
Response Programs & Community Referrals
Services

Personal Counseling

Counseling Services provides skilled, effective counseling in treating depression, anxiety, relational and adjustment problems. Individuals meet with a trained professional in order to gain insight into their circumstances and to develop more effective ways of handling and responding to their situations. Counseling sessions take place in a safe, nurturing, and confidential environment.

Exploring difficulties with a professional counselor in a caring and confidential setting often leads to discovering solutions for a positive experience. Because of the uniqueness of a counseling relationship and the need for an effective relationship, a student may want to seek assistance off campus. Additional options in counseling are available through the Counseling Network. The Counseling Network is a pre-approved list of local counselors in the Spartanburg community who are available to see students free of charge on a time limited basis. Counseling Services can provide additional information on the counselors who are available to students.

Students may also be referred to other agencies in Spartanburg that deal with significant alcohol and drug abuse issues or mental health conditions that need extensive therapy.

Programs

Counseling Services offers programs throughout the year on topics such as: time and personal management, stress management, assertiveness, and anger management. A skills-based approach is taken with emphasis on widening the student’s repertoire of tools to handle a variety of real life situations.

Other programs are developed and implemented as requests are received from the Wofford community.

For additional information, please contact Counseling Services at 864-597-4371 or 864-597-4373.
What Happens at Counseling Services

When you see a student in distress, it is best to be direct about your ability to help him/her. If you need to refer the student to another resource due to time constraints or limited expertise, simply say so. The student will likely be reassured by your willingness to direct him/her to a more appropriate resource.

Referral

To refer a student to Counseling Services, call the counseling office at 864-597-4371, or 864-597-4373, or have the student make an appointment to see one of our counselors while s/he is still in your office. Acting quickly by calling immediately will increase the chances of getting the student the help s/he needs. If you have doubts about when to refer a student, call for a consultation.

Students who are referred to us can expect the following:

* The counselor will not report anything the student says to any college official, parent, roommate, or faculty without the written consent of the student. However, some limits to confidentiality exist. If the student is at risk for harm to self or others, or if the student is under the age of 18 and is being abused or neglected, then the law requires that confidentiality be broken.

* During the first visit, the counseling process will be explained and the limits of confidentiality outlined.

* Counseling sessions last from 50 minutes to one hour - and the student and counselor discuss whether to return for additional sessions.

* In emergencies, we will assist the student immediately. An emergency is defined as a situation which demands immediate attention. If Counseling Services is closed, then call the Campus Safety at 864-597-4911 for assistance.

* There is no cost to the student for counseling.
Emergencies

During Regularly Scheduled Work Hours

Students who are expressing direct threats to themselves or others, and/or acting in a bizarre, irrational, or disruptive manner need emergency help immediately. If you are with a student when this happens, try to stay calm. Find someone to stay with the student while you call one of these offices:

A Closer Look:

Issues Facing College Students
Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse

Alcohol has historically been the “drug of choice” on college campuses due in part to the ease in obtaining it and its relative in expense. Bars have typically catered to college students by offering special drink nights and contests to ensure a steady stream of customers eager to shed the stress of mid-terms, finals, and deadlines for papers.

Other drugs have made their way onto college campuses as well. Cocaine, marijuana, ecstasy, methamphetamine, heroin, and rohypnol have gained some notoriety on campuses across the country, and each of these brings its own particular side effects and dangers. Listed below are some of the potential signs that a student may be using licit or illicit drugs.

Indicators of alcohol and other drug abuse:

* Drop in grades
* Increased absences
* Withdrawal from friends/classmates
* Personality changes, e.g., increased irritability, hostility, aimlessness
* Failure to complete assignments
* Hangovers
* Strong odor of breath freshener, mouthwash, or perfume
* Pupils dilated or constricted
* Sleepiness, lethargy
* Hyperactivity/increased distractibility
* Watery, bloodshot eyes/burned or reddened skin
* Shaky hands
* Needle marks

Suggested Ways to Assist:

* Avoid lecturing, moralizing, blaming, or threatening.
* Avoid allowing yourself to be exploited by a student you believe may be using alcohol and/ or other drugs.
* Allow natural consequences to take effect when and if the student performs poorly (making exceptions allows the student to evade responsibility for his/her actions).
* Encourage student to make healthy life choices.
* Be aware of your own beliefs around alcohol and other drugs.
* Let the student know confidential help is available through Counseling Services.
* Refer the student to Alcoholics Anonymous (864-585-1930) or Narcotics Anonymous (1-800-828-5689) or Spartanburg Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission (864-582-7588).
Anxiety Disorders

Anxiety disorders are the most common mental illness in this country with more than 19 million Americans affected each year. Keep in mind that anxiety in and of itself is a normal part of our human experience; however, when the anxiety increases to the point where the person experiences loss of functioning and other social impairments, then some type of treatment may be necessary.

College students will sometimes complain of test anxiety or of panicking during tests. They may also report some of the following symptoms:

Indicators of Anxiety:

* Chest Pain
* Heart Palpitations
* Shortness of Breath
* Dizziness
* Abdominal distress
* Fear of dying
* Easily startled
* Irritability
* Depression
* Nightmares
* Trouble concentrating

Suggested Ways to Assist:

When a student is experiencing an anxiety attack, or when s/he is exhibiting some of the symptoms noted above, it is important for you to stay calm so as not to add to the level of anxiety already activated.

* Remind the student to breathe gently and deeply.
* Remain with the student to ensure safety.
* Remain non-judgmental and understanding.
* Refer the student to Counseling Services.
* Refer the student to Health Services (864-597-4370) if the physical symptoms seem particularly severe.
Classroom Disruption/Aggression

The term “classroom disruption” means behavior a reasonable person would view as substantially or repeatedly interfering with the conduct of a class, and may include the following behaviors:

Indicators of Disruptive/Aggressive Behavior:

* Using profanity
* Interrupting professor or other students
* Making threatening gestures or statements
* Talking over the professor
* Using cell phone during class
* Confronting professor in an aggressive manner

Suggested Ways to De-escalate:

* Stay in control of yourself and use a calm voice
* Listen carefully
* Identify and acknowledge issues of concern to student.
* Dismiss the class if necessary (do not take unnecessary risks)
* Avoid arguing with or challenging the student
* Avoid invading the personal space of the disruptive student
* Avoid touching the student
* Minimize pointing fingers or using large gestures with your hands
* Refrain from using abusive language
* If you do not feel safe, avoid being alone with the student
* Consult with Counseling Services regarding intervention strategies
* If the pattern persists, contact the Dean of Students immediately.
Depression

Depression is a “whole-body” illness, involving one’s body, mood, and thoughts. It affects the way one eats and sleeps, the way one feels about oneself, and the way one thinks about things. A depressive disorder is not the same as a passing blue mood. It is not a sign of personal weakness or a condition that can be willed or wished away. People with a depressive illness cannot merely “pull themselves together” and get better. Without treatment, symptoms can last for weeks, months, or years. Appropriate treatment, however, can help most people who suffer from depression.

Indicators of Depression:

* Persistent sadness
* Sleeping difficulties—either too much, too little, or dream disturbances
* Rapid weight loss/gain may occur
* Loss of interest in pleasurable activities
* Loss of interest in appearance
* Frequent complaints of vague aches and pains
* Loss of concentration
* Inability to make decisions

Suggested Ways to Assist:

If you observe any of the preceding symptoms, you may wish to talk openly with the student. Tell him/her of the behaviors you have observed and express your concern. In the case of mild depression, sometimes just knowing someone cares provides a boost to one’s spirit and willingness to seek assistance.

* Symptoms of sadness, grief and depression often mirror one another. For this reason, please refer to the previous page for additional strategies for supporting students struggling with grief.
* If the symptoms persist for more than one to two weeks, or seem particularly severe, encourage the student to contact Counseling Services. Prolonged depression may result in suicidal thoughts or gestures.
Eating Disorders

Anorexia Nervosa and Bulimia Nervosa

Eating disorders can be divided into three major categories: anorexia nervosa, bulimia nervosa and compulsive overeating. Anorexia nervosa is a life threatening disorder in which there is an intense fear of gaining weight, extreme concern over body shape and size, and a refusal to maintain body weight at a minimally normal size for height age and activity level. Bulimia nervosa is a disorder characterized by binge eating and some form of purging, such as vomiting or excessive laxative use. Serious medical complications can develop from both disorders such as heart failure, severe dehydration, tooth decay and sometimes death. Research states approximately 4% of college-aged students suffer from bulimia nervosa, and 1% suffer from anorexia nervosa.

Indicators of Anorexia Nervosa

* refuses to maintain a normal weight
* claiming to be fat when obviously thin
* wearing bulky clothing to hide figure
* is constantly preoccupied with food, weight, and eating
* may develop rituals about eating and food
* may stop having menstrual cycles

Indicators of Bulimia Nervosa

* eats large amounts of food in a very short period of time
* feels shame and guilt about binges
* may fast, purge with laxatives or diuretics, or exercise excessively to lose weight
* may leave the table shortly after meals to purge
* can be normal weight or even lightly overweight
* may have large swings in weight in a short period of time

Compulsive Overeating

Compulsive overeating is characterized by frequent episodes of eating large quantities of food in a short amount of time or continuous overeating, even when not hungry. People with compulsive overeating may be of normal weight, though 25% of obese individuals experience frequent episodes of this type of eating.

Indicators of Compulsive Overeating

* Eating large quantities of food alone
* Depression
* Guilt and shame over eating behavior
Eating Disorders (cont.)

Suggested Ways to Assist:

* There are not quick or easy solutions to an eating disorder. Eating disorders are complex and potentially life threatening. If a person is to recover, s/he will need to make some changes in his/her attitudes and behaviors - you cannot make these changes for the student. Realize that, at best, the person is probably ambivalent about wanting to get well.
* Avoid power struggles with this person about eating. S/he will always win.
* Express honest concern for this person, using “I” statements. Let him/her know these types of eating behaviors have serious repercussions.
* Refer to Health Services (ext. 4370) for physical concerns.
* Let the person know s/he can get help. Refer him/her to Counseling Services for more information, counseling or a referral.
* Since this disorder is such a serious illness, notify Counseling Services of your concerns or for additional information.
Emotional Distress

Common Causes of Emotional Distress in College Students

* Academic concerns
* Career concerns/decision making
* Depression
* Financial concerns
* Test anxiety
* Time management
* Desire to transfer
* Indecisiveness about college major
* Problems with parents
* Roommate difficulties
* Incest and sexual abuse
* Sexual assault/rape
* Learning disabilities
* Emotional abuse
* Problems with relationships
* Family conflict
* Death of a loved one
* Grief
* General anxiety and stress
* Sexual identity

Indicators of Emotional Distress in College Students

* Excessive absences, especially when attendance has been good
* Change in extracurricular activities, loss of interest in things usually enjoyed
* Withdrawal from friends,
* Inability to concentrate
* Unusual or exaggerated emotional responses inappropriate to the situation
* Talk about quitting college or the unimportance of college
* Depressed, hopeless attitude and statements, change in motivation
* Irresponsibility, blaming others, denying, fault finding
* Presence and/or smell of alcohol
* Nervousness
* Frequent illness
* Tearfulness, crying during class, swollen and/or red eyes
* Serious grade problems, change from consistently good grades to poor grades
* Erratic, unpredictable behavior
* Signs of physical violence, hits objects in anger
* Sleeping in class, lethargy
* Suicidal talk or behavior, self-destructive thoughts, self-mutilation
* Dramatic or attention-getting behaviors
* Marked change in appearance, weight and hygiene
Grief

Every loss is a personal experience. Since no two people will experience a loss exactly the same way, there are no formulas for how much a loss will hurt or how long it will last. There is a natural and common sense response to loss that promotes healing and growth. Understanding grief can make it more predictable, and therefore, less frightening to experience or observe. The following illustrates the stages of grief. Progress is usually not linear; the process is often seen as a cycle of change with backward and forward movement.

![Grief Stages Diagram]

Grief may affect the person physically, emotionally and/or behaviorally.

Indicators of Grief

- Weakness and fatigue
- Increase/decrease in activity
- Sleep disturbances
- Neglect of self
- Increased incidence of illness
- Weight and appetite change
- Deep sighing
- Guilt
- Hopelessness, helplessness
- Sadness, despair, crying
- Feeling of being lost
- Anger
- Questioning spiritual connectedness and/or life’s meaning
- Disoriented to time
- Unable to concentrate
- Forgetfulness
- Withdrawn from friends, isolated
- Blaming others
- Apathetic
Suggested Ways to Assist

Grieving is a process and often recovery can take a long time depending on the severity of the loss. As noted above, do not be surprised if the student appears to move both forward and backward on the continuum of healing. The following are some suggestions on how to support and reassure the student as s/he is moving through the loss. You always have the option to refer the student if his/her grieving process creates discomfort for you.

* If you decide to be a support to the student, be there and listen. Grieving people need support more than advice. It is important to offer support over time. Often, s/he does not know how or cannot ask for what is needed. The student may need to tell his/her story over and over again. Listening without judgment and interruption can be the most important gift you can give.

* Avoid clichés and easy answers. “I’m sorry...,” or “I care...,” or “You’re in my thoughts” may be the best responses. Sometimes there are no words for grief and no words that can be spoken to take away the pain.

* Reassure the person that grief has many manifestations. Accept the expression of feelings.

* Help the student find a variety of supportive and encouraging activities and outlets. Suggest the help of counselors, ministers, and physicians, if needed.

* Encourage the student to make an appointment with Counseling Services or the Chaplain’s Office. Normalize the need for support when facing life’s challenges.
Sexual Abuse and/or Rape

Rape and child sexual abuse are both under reported crimes. It is estimated that one in four women on college campuses are targets of rape or attempted rape. One in four women will be targets of sexual abuse by the time they are 18. In addition, one in seven men will be sexually abused or raped. Rape and/or child sexual assault affects the way a person thinks, feels, reacts and lives.

Potential Indicators of Rape and/or Sexual Abuse

* Withdrawal from usual activities
* High levels of anxiety or fear
* Depression
* Low self-esteem
* Shame (e.g., overly perfectionist focusing on the negative statements that imply insecurity
* Anger
* Marked physical agitation
* Sudden change in appearance (e.g., more makeup, less makeup, baggy clothes)
* Exaggerated startle response
* Sleep disturbances
* Drug or alcohol use

Suggested Ways to Assist

Be aware that sexual assault is a life-threatening event. A student may be revealing the event some time after it has occurred or you may be the first person in which the student has confided. The student needs to be listened to in a respectful, calm way that helps create a sense of safety.

* Educate yourself on college policy regarding rape and sexual assault.
* Know that if the student confides in you, s/he feels some level of trust and support already.
* Accept what the student says as true.
* Encourage student in developing a plan to create the extra support s/he needs at this time.
* Encourage student to use Counseling Services or SAFE HOMES/ Rape Crisis Center (864-583-9803). SAFE HOMES/ Rape Crisis provide counseling/advocacy to assist students in the following ways:
* To further identify and meet their needs
* To work through feelings and beliefs about the trauma
* To develop a full plan of action
Suicide

Suicide is the second leading cause of death among college students, and in a recent survey, the American College Health Association found that that out of 16,000 students 9.5% have seriously considered suicide and 1.5% have made a suicide attempt. There are certain high-risk times during the academic year. One high-risk period occurs during the first three weeks of any semester, particularly for new or transfer students.

Students at risk for suicide will often exhibit signs that serve as important indicators of their intentions.

Indicators of Suicidal Behavior

- Verbal threats to commit suicide
- Themes of death
- Unhealthy changes in behavior (e.g., withdrawal, isolation)
- Previous suicide attempt
- Sudden, unexpected happiness
- Following prolonged depression
- Substance abuse
- Problems in school, (e.g., drop in grades, absences)

Suggested Ways to Assist

When dealing with someone who is actively suicidal, do not handle the situation alone. In the case of suicide, two heads are better than one, especially given the potential intensity of the crisis.

- Contact Counseling Services and/or Campus Safety immediately if the threat of suicide is imminent. A counselor will meet you wherever you and the student are located.
- If the threat is not imminent, contact Counseling Services for consultation/assessment.
- The student’s safety supercedes his/her right to confidentiality - it is appropriate and critical to tell the counselor what you know in order to save the student’s life.
- Never leave an actively suicidal student unattended.
- Talk openly with the student about suicide; contrary to popular myth, this will not push the student to actually do it.
- Don’t analyze the student’s motives for wanting to die – listen in a non judgment manner.
- Keep a calm tone of voice so as not to scare the student.
Test Anxiety

Test anxiety is one of the more common manifestations of anxiety in college students. The level of severity will often depend upon specific personality traits which may make the student more vulnerable to panic under certain conditions.

A correlation exists between test anxiety/panic and the following traits: perfectionism, low self-esteem, overgeneralization, distorted perceptions and preoccupation with failing. A student who exhibits any of these traits will likely be more prone to some of the following symptoms:

Indicators of Test Anxiety

* Excessive sweating
* Nausea or abdominal distress
* Trembling
* Choking sensation or difficulty swallowing
* Student suddenly “freezes up” or goes blank
* Skipping or racing heartbeat
* Light-headedness, dizziness
* Preoccupation with health
* Possible hyperventilation

Suggested Ways to Assist

Students who exhibit test anxiety may feel embarrassed about it, and may then try to hide it from you. Your awareness of the problem could provide the most important key to helping the student resolve the anxiety. For this reason, the following suggestions may be useful:

* Refer the student to Health Services (864-597-4370) if physical symptoms seem severe.
* Encourage the student to use deep breathing and relaxation during tests.
* Refer the student to Counseling Services for additional assistance.
* Refer the student to Disability Services (Hugh R Black Building) for evaluation and follow-up.
Verbal and Physical Violence

Most women and men who are battered live in silence. The silence can be dangerous. Since no one knows about their situation the silence keeps them isolated from available help. It also creates a sense of powerlessness. In fact, most violence happens with people we know, often with people in our own families or households.

Violence can be defined as any controlling, hurtful act, word, threat, or gesture that injures another’s body or emotions. The violence may be physical, emotional or sexual.

Potential Indicators of Victimization

* Low self esteem (e.g. poor eye contact, excessive apologizing, withdrawn)
* Accepts responsibility for the abuser’s actions
* May turn own anger inward, or on the children
* Presents a passive face to the world, minimizes the violence to those who know
* Has severe stress reactions (e.g. panic attacks, rapid heart beat, weight loss)
* Believes no one will be able to help
* May have experienced abuse as a child

Suggested Ways to Assist

First, understand how real the threat of violence and death is under which the person lives. It is helpful to understand that the student may not realize s/he deserves to be treated with humane consideration and has the right to feel safe from physical and emotional harm.

If you have a student in crisis, in your office, please feel free to contact Counseling Services and we will assist you. If the student is not in immediate crisis direct them to Counseling Services. The student may not respond to the referral immediately. Here are some suggestions you can share with the student to increase protection:

* Help the student identify the cycle of violence and protect him/herself when s/he recognizes that another violent episode could occur.
* Create a safety net of telephone numbers of helping resources (i.e. friend, relative, doctor, police, crisis line, shelter...). You may want to share the following numbers with the individual:

  Counseling Services 864-597-4371, 864-597-4373
  Campus Safety 864-597-4911
  Chaplain’s Office 864-597-4051
  SAFE HOMES/Rape Crisis Center 864-583-9803
  Help Line 864- 597-2222

* If feasible, encourage the student to have a room in the house that has a strong lock that he/she can retreat to if feeling threatened.

* Encourage the individual to keep a bag or suitcase packed in the event the student must leave their home quickly.
* Explain to the student the importance of hiding extra keys, money and important documents in a safe and secure place that he/she can get to easily.
* Assist the student in developing an exit plan (i.e. strategy for leaving the house or room).
* Help the student plan for a place to go in an emergency such as a shelter or home of a relative or friend.

Upcoming Events

365 Days/365 Plays
Date/Time: 4/27/2007 8:00:00 PM
Location: The Showroom, 149 S. Daniel Morgan Ave.
Cost: Free
Details: 365 Days/365 Plays started in November 2002 when Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Suzan-Lori Parks committed to writing a play a day for the next 365 days. Her simple act of writing 365 plays in 365 days has now inspired a nation-wide grassroots festival - a geographically-diverse relay race which invites each theater group to produce one week’s worth of plays in its own style, creating a testament to the incredible diversity and richness of the American theatrical landscape. From Nov 13, 2006– Nov 12, 2007, the 365 Days/365 Plays National Festival will present the work simultaneously across the country, creating the largest collaboration in the history of American theater. Producing organizations around the country have been selected to produce one week’s worth of plays (seven) at a time. Wofford Theatre has been invited to perform Week 22 and Week 24, the second and last weeks of April. The first week of plays were performed on Thursday and Friday, April 12 and 13. The second week will be Friday and Saturday, April 27 and 28. All performances are at 8 p.m. at The Showroom, 149 S. Daniel Morgan Ave., in downtown Spartanburg.

Medical Supply Drive for Paul Farmer's Worthy Cause
Details: Twin Towers, with the assistance of all organizations on campus, would like to do something for Dr. Paul Farmer's worthy cause in Haiti. During the week of April 30-May 4, we will be leading a drive for medical supplies. Because the supplies that Partners in Health are asking for are expensive, often highly sophisticated medical equipment, we're hoping to raise money through individuals and organizations. This money will be sent to Partners in Health and will allow them to purchase mosquito nets, anti-viral drugs, and any other needed equipment. Donations (cash/check) can be taken to Lyn Pace's office or left with Corey Wilson in the bottom floor of Main Building. Checks should be payable to Wofford College with "Partners in Health" on the “For” line. Also, members of Twin Towers will be at a table in Burwell during lunch on Wednesday, May 2, and Friday, May 4, at which time you may also make donations.
