Do Videogames Enhance Mental Functioning?

Date/Time: 10/14/2008 11:00:00 AM

Location: Roger Milliken Science Center, Room 326

Cost: Free

Details: People who play videogames have been shown to have improved vision and attention. How and why does this occur? Can these effects be generalized to other groups and put to good use? In a 45-min talk, Dr. Mitroff will explore how videogames influence cognition. Specifically, it is argued that videogame playing enhances general motivation and strategy choice, which in turn influences vision and attention. Dr. Mitroff is an Assistant Professor in the Center for Cognitive Neuroscience and in the Department of Psychology and Neuroscience at Duke University.

Subject: FW: Wofford official boston terrier passes
Date: October 10, 2008 at 11:50 AM
To: Wofford Staff WoffordStaff@Wofford.Edu, Wofford Students WoffordStudents@Wofford.Edu

The official Wofford terrier mascot, "Blitz," passed away on Thursday, October 9 during surgery to remove an abdominal mass that was discovered this week. "Blitz" was 9 years old.

Her real name was Katie, "Blitz" was a stage name used while she was on duty at Wofford events. Katie was a pure bred boston terrier owned by Chris and Jean Williams of Spartanburg. She began as the official terrier mascot on September 6, 2003 in a win over South Carolina State. She did not miss a home game in the last six seasons with her last game coming ironically on September 6, 2008 - a victory over Charleston Southern.

At the conclusion of her fourth season as the mascot (2006), she was awarded an honorary varsity letter by the Athletic Department (see photo). In another bit of irony, that was in a victory over Chattanooga - the Terriers Homecoming opponent this Saturday. In all, the Terrier football team had a 30-10 record in games where she roamed the sidelines.

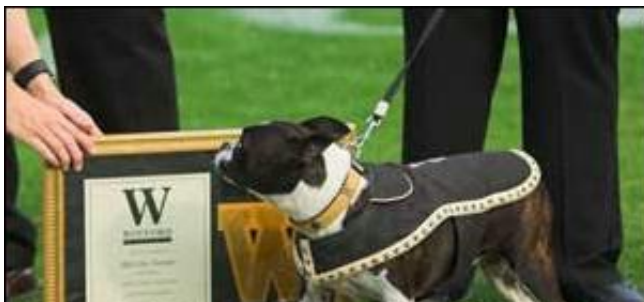

Katie did not attend every road game over the years, but did travel to The Citadel, Furman, Western Carolina, North Carolina State, South Carolina and even Delaware for the 2003 I-AA semifinal game.

Katie also visited with Spartanburg area elementary school children in January 2007 as part of the "Tour of the Terrier" a project of the Wofford Sports Marketing Interim class that year.

"Ayeryel" - the boston of Adam and Heather Regenthal of Columbia - substituted for the South Carolina game this season for reasons that had nothing to do with Katie's health. For the remainder of the 2008 season, Ayeryel (named for head football coach Mike Ayers) will hold the mascot duties until a permanent replacement is named.

Subject: SPECIAL NOTE FROM PRESIDENT DUNLAP: Homecoming Weekend
Date: October 14, 2008 at 1:11 PM
To: Wofford Staff WoffordStaff@Wofford.Edu

To: All Wofford Faculty & Staff
From: President Dunlap

Thank you for making the 2008 Homecoming Weekend the most festive, best attended, most applauded homecoming we've ever had. I've received compliments and plaudits for virtually every event, from scintillating Classes Without Quizzes to a runaway triumph on the football field. To those of you who tended bar in Morgan Square, met with returning alumni, joined the crowds for alumni awards and the naming of houses in the Village, picked up trash and kept our campus immaculate, many, many thanks. Among the many things in which we should all take pride is the sense of community to which you contributed so conspicuously this past weekend.

Religion, Art, and Nature: A Pilgrimage Walk on Mount Athos.

In early June, three Wofford professors traveled to Mount Athos, a UNESCO World Heritage site on a remote peninsula in northeastern Greece. There they walked between Orthodox monasteries dating from the tenth century which retain the appearance of walled medieval villages and house rich collections of icons, frescoes, and other church decorations. All avid photographers, the presenters will show their images of this unique and beautiful place and discuss their experience of its scenic topography, its rich artistic legacy, and the revival of monastic life which is occurring there today.

Election 2008 Debate

Date/Time: 10/20/2008 7:00:00 PM

Location: Leonard Auditorium

Cost: Free

Details: Do you want to be an informed voter? Are you trying to figure out who to vote for? Are you tired of the candidates avoiding the questions when they are asked to debate? Well then, you should attend the Election 2008 Student Debate tonight (Monday, Oct. 20) in Leonard Auditorium! The Debate Society and Philosophy Club have teamed up to host a debate that will discuss various topics ranging from economic issues to foreign policy. Three students will be debating the REAL issues and (hopefully) providing real answers. They represent the Wofford College Republicans, Democrats and Libertarians. If you aren't satisfied by the end of the debate, then you have the opportunity to ask your own questions as well! Finally, we will give you the power to vote in a mock election based on this debate. Whether you have a specific issue that needs to be addressed, if you missed the debate last Wednesday, or if you just want to be more informed, you definitely won't want to miss out on this debate!

Results from Monday's debate

Details: After Monday's debate between the College Republicans, Democrats, and Libertarians, the audience was asked who they thought was the best speaker and who they agreed with the most. The audience chose Prashant Patel, representative of College Libertarians, as the best speaker, but they ultimately agreed more with College Republicans, represented by Kevin Maroney. A special thanks goes to all of the debaters for their wonderful presentations, all the members of Debate Society and Philosophy Club for helping with the setup and execution of the debate, to Dr. Jeffrey for his suggestions on the debate questions, and most of all to everyone who came out and watched the debate. Thank you all for your help in making this debate a success!

Wofford Theatre Presents "70 Scenes of Halloween"

Date/Time: 10/28/2008 8:00:00 PM

Location: The Tony White Theater

Cost: $5 students, $12 general admission

Details: Wofford Theatre presents Jeffrey M. Jones' "70 Scenes of Halloween" directed by Sully White. It is Halloween night. Trick or treaters constantly ring the doorbell, interrupting the evening of the hip young couple, Jeff and Joan. It doesn't take long to realize that the pair are living in a state of mutual boredom, TV watching, antagonism, and rampant miscommunication. As the evening progresses, real beasts, witches, and ghosts of the past play "tricks" on Jeff and Joan to explode their shallow world into one of raw emotion. Performances will be on Oct. 28, Oct. 29, Oct. 30, and Nov. 1 at 8 p.m., with a special midnight performance on Oct. 31. Check out www.halloweenatwofford.com for tickets and more details.

Date: October 27, 2008 at 10:33 AM
To: Wofford Staff WoffordStaff@Wofford.Edu, Wofford Students WoffordStudents@Wofford.Edu

The Wofford community is greatly saddened by news of the death of Larry T. McGehee on Saturday evening, October 25. Dr. McGehee was a fixture on the campus since 1982, when he joined the staff. Larry's tenure at Wofford included service as a vice president and professor of religion, and he was granted emeritus status in both positions when he retired in 2005.

Larry's wife, Betsy, has asked that the campus community respect the family's wish not to have visitors in order that they may have private time together. It is anticipated that there will be a time in the future when an occasion will be held on the campus to honor Larry's memory. Today's Spartanburg Herald-Journal contains this obituary about Larry: <http://www.legacy.com/spartanburg/Obituaries.asp?Page=Lifestory&PersonId=119425664>

Larry McGehee was many things, as can be said of most highly accomplished people. But, in his heart, he was a classicist—it was he who coined “A Classical College” as a tag-line for Wofford. By classical he meant more than a fondness for tradition. He meant a passionate devotion of the best that has been thought and said. After becoming president, I often referred to Larry as “our wise old Nestor,” and, recognizing the Homeric allusion, Larry always smiled.

Larry was also an ordained minister and a theologian, and, if Saint Paul was right about faith, hope and love, Larry not only excelled in all three departments but agreed that love was the one that mattered most. He loved his family, he loved the South—especially Kentucky—and he loved Wofford College. Only his students over the past decade can truly say how much he loved those he met in the classroom, but nothing could have pleased him more than their decision to create a scholarship at Wofford in his name. On the last day of his life he watched a Wofford football game, not because football was of paramount importance to him but because one of his students was playing on the team.

Larry was a friend to all of us, and his death causes us great grief. If I might say something to make Larry smile again, it would be to note that, in addition to his two beloved daughters, he also had many sons whom he had taught and advised in the manner of wise old Nestor. And, having said that, I would add a classical reference from Homer that describes the rough and often tragic efforts of the Greeks who’d fought at Troy to find their way back home: “Only Nestor, who had always shown himself just, prudent, generous, and respectful to the gods, returned safe and sound to Pylus, where he enjoyed a happy old age, untroubled by wars, and surrounded by bold, intelligent sons. For so Almighty Zeus decreed.”

Welcome home, old friend.

Obituary: Dr. Larry Thomas McGehee

What is RSS?

SPARTANBURG, S.C.-- Dr. Larry Thomas McGehee, 72, died Saturday, Oct. 25, 2008, at his residence. Born May 18, 1936, in Paris, Tenn., he was the son of the late George Eugene McGehee and Margaret Thomas McGehee. He was educated in Paris, Tenn., public schools, and was a graduate of Transylvania University and Yale University. He was retired vice president and professor of religion at Wofford College, former chancellor of the University of Tennessee at Martin, and former administrator of the University of Alabama. Dr. McGehee was an ordained minister of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), a member of Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Beta Kappa, and Kappa Alpha Order. He wrote a weekly column, "Southern Seen" for more than 100 newspapers.

Survivors are his wife, Elizabeth Boden McGehee; two daughters, Elizabeth Hathhorn McGehee of Baltimore, Md., and Margaret Thomas McGehee and her husband, Daniel Paul Parson, of Clinton, S.C.

A memorial celebration will be made public at a later date.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to the Elizabeth B. and Larry T. McGehee Endowed Scholarship Fund at Wofford College, 429 N. Church St., Spartanburg, S.C. 29303; to the Library of Transylvania University; or to the Library of the University of Tennessee at Martin.

An online guest register is available at www.floydmortuary.com.

Wofford College President Benjamin B. Dunlap expressed his thoughts about Dr. McGehee:

Wofford Theatre Presents "70 Scenes of Halloween"

Date/Time: 10/28/2008 8:00:00 PM

Location: The Tony White Theater

Cost: $5 students, $12 general admission

Details: Wofford Theatre presents Jeffrey M. Jones' "70 Scenes of Halloween" directed by Sully White. It is Halloween night. Trick or treaters constantly ring the doorbell, interrupting the evening of the hip young couple, Jeff and Joan. It doesn't take long to realize that the pair are living in a state of mutual boredom, TV watching, antagonism, and rampant miscommunication. As the evening progresses, real beasts, witches, and ghosts of the past play "tricks" on Jeff and Joan to explode their shallow world into one of raw emotion. Performances will be on Oct. 28, Oct. 29, Oct. 30, and Nov. 1 at 8 p.m., with a special midnight performance on Oct. 31. Check out www.halloweenatwofford.com for tickets and more details.

Are You a Heritage Society Student?

Details: Is your parent, grandparent, and/or great grandparent of a Wofford alum? If so, you are a member of The Heritage Society of Wofford College! The Heritage Society recognizes a legacy of pride and a tradition of excellence among families with a continued presence in the Wofford College student body and the National Alumni Association through the generations. All eligible students should have received through campus mail an invitation for the Heritage Society breakfast reception, which will be held on Saturday morning, Nov. 8, during Family Weekend. We don't want to miss anyone, so if you have NOT received an invitation, and you believe you qualify as a Heritage Society student, please contact Juanita Pesaro in the Alumni Office at 597-4207 or by email at pesarobjb@wofford.edu by this Friday, Oct. 31.

Important Interim 2009 Information

Details: Students who have received overrides for projects listed "instructor permission only" are reminded that they must register on BannerWeb. Students with approved independent projects are reminded that they must register on BannerWeb. All students are reminded of the PHED 102 (Fitness) offering during January. Please contact the Registrar's Office if you would like to take advantage of fulfilling this general education requirement over Interim. Please note that the following projects have space remaining for Interim 2009. Many spaces: • JAN 303: Pulp Theater's "Reefer Madness" (Contact Prof. Ballance for an override): Wofford's all-student Pulp Theater returns this January with "Reefer Madness" after last season's sell out hit "The Rocky Horror Picture Show". • JAN 314: Bill of Rights & Modern Citizenship (Judge Hill): This project, offered by Circuit Court Judge Gary Hill, will offer discussion focusing on the bill of rights and controversial constitutional issues, and service learning activities. • JAN 318: Instrumental Chamber Music (Contact Prof. Lee for an override): This course will allow those students who have had some musical training to immerse themselves for one month to renew their interest in playing their instruments. • JAN 324: PASO.BUS-The Performance Art and Science of Business (Prof. Proctor/Mr. Kris Neely; note: Project is NOT instructor permission only as previously indicated in project description online): "When business people go to dinner, they talk about art. When artists go to dinner, they talk about money." In this project, students will learn more about the intersection between art and business over a hibachi dinner. Visit www.notsospartan.com for a glimpse at some of the artists, businesses, and ideas to be explored. • JAN 345: Applying to Medical School (Prof. Moss): Designed for students intending to apply to medical school, this project gives students an introduction to various aspects of medicine, while also providing an opportunity to review course work in the sciences in preparation for the MCAT exam. • JAN 395: Fieldwork in Archaeology (Prof. Ferguson): This project will engage in intensive environmental archaeological research at a prehistoric archeological site at the base of the Blue Ridge Mountains in Pickens County, South Carolina. Some spaces: • JAN 304: Oral History-Wofford 1970-2000 (Dean Bigger): Participants in this project will learn how and why we should preserve oral histories. Students will learn how to conduct interviews, and they will receive professional instructions in filming and editing for this purpose. • JAN 334: Cornbread & Sushi (Contact Prof. Trakas for an override/permission): This interim project will follow a fall semester course called Cornbread and Sushi: Exploring the Real and Imagined South, but students do NOT have to take the fall course as a prerequisite for the interim. • JAN 335: Living with Dogs (Contact Prof. Wallace for an override): The purpose of this project is to gain a realistic understanding of the responsibilities of pet guardianship, as well as to cover skills to assure responsible pet guardianship in the future. The project will be a combination of academic work, hands-on training, and service learning. • JAN 383: Capitol Hill Internship Program (Contact Dean Lancaster for an application and override): Internships in DC can include government agencies, nonprofit organizations, associations, lobbying firms, and private corporations, in addition to the Capitol and its House and Senate offices.

Special Midnight Performance of "70 Scenes of Halloween"

Date/Time: 10/31/2008 8:00:00 PM

Location: The Tony White Theater

Cost: $5 students, $12 general admission

Cost: $5 students, $12 general admission

Details: Wofford Theatre presents Jeffrey M. Jones' "70 Scenes of Halloween" directed by Sully White. It is Halloween night. Trick or treaters constantly ring the doorbell, interrupting the evening of the hip young couple, Jeff and Joan. It doesn't take long to realize that the pair are living in a state of mutual boredom, TV watching, antagonism, and rampant miscommunication. As the evening progresses, real beasts, witches, and ghosts of the past play "tricks" on Jeff and Joan to explode their shallow world into one of raw emotion. There is a special midnight performance of "70 Scenes of Halloween" taking place tonight at midnight in the Tony White Theater. There is also a performance on Saturday, Nov. 1, at 8 p.m. Check out www.halloweenatwofford.com for tickets and more details.
