Re: Wofford College Inclement Weather Policy

With the possibility of snow and ice being predicted for Sunday and into early next week, we wish to remind the campus community of Wofford’s Inclement Weather Policy:

Wofford College ordinarily does not close because of weather that brings snow and ice to the area. Every effort will be made to hold classes and to have offices open. Commuting students and employees should understand that classes are held and offices are open, but that they are to run no unreasonable risk to get to the campus. Students will be allowed to make up missed work.

If an exception is made to this policy, local radio and television stations will be notified, and notice will be given via the Wofford Web site, Wofford Facebook page, and Wofford Emergency Alert System (e2Campus).

If there is no cancellation or delay notice on these sources, it is safe to assume that the college is open and conducting classes as usual.

Wofford College is proud to co-host Spartanburg's annual Unity Walk this Saturday morning. Students, faculty and staff can register online at http://www.cityofspartanburg.org/index.cfm?PageID=124&ParentPageID=121&NavID=78. The walk begins at 10 a.m. at Cleveland Elementary School and ends at Main Building.

Walk as One - MLK Unity Walk

The City of Spartanburg’s Community Relations Department created Walk As One in 2002 as a way to demonstrate how the strength of any community is easily measured by the diversity of the members that claim it as their own. The City of Spartanburg remains strong in fostering community pride, ever mindful of the unique and wonderful individuals that are, in effect, the foundation and building blocks that sustain the whole. This walk celebrates our shared differences and renews our shared sense of belonging; being in a place that we, collectively, are proud to call home. We encourage all to come out and as a city, join hands, "walk as one," and continue to not only recognize and accept diversity, but also celebrate it.

We are excited by the worldwide attention Wofford researchers Alliston Reid, professor of psychology, and retired professor John Pilley have been making since the Christmas holidays with their research with Chaser, John’s border collie.

Chaser is fast gaining scientific attention for her ability to comprehend the names of more than 1,000 objects. Even more critical, according to Pilley and Reid, is that she is able to differentiate between the names of objects (nouns), commands to fetch them and is capable of forming categories (common nouns) based on these objects.

The two researchers recently published a peer-reviewed article for Behavioural Processes and an initial article was published just before Christmas in The New Scientist.

NOVA science NOW will feature the trio in the documentary “How Smart Are Animals?” to air on Feb. 9 on PBS at 8 p.m. (The segment will be one of three special program premieres airing as part of “The Smartest Night on Television,” a larger themed block on PBS in which viewers can tune in for three consecutive hours from 8 to 11 p.m. to watch NOVA science NOW, followed by “Making Stuff: Smarter” and NOVA’s “The Smartest Machine on Earth: Can a Computer Win on Jeopardy?”)

In addition, John and Chaser are scheduled to make an appearance on NBC’s Today Show leading up to the NOVA airing. We will let you know when the date has been finalized. Other national appearances are anticipated, too.

A New York Times article is due to be published on Tuesday, Jan. 18, along with a podcast and blog on the NYT site. More interviews and articles are appearing daily.

This tale of love, revolution, and greed will bring you laughter and joy through dark satire in which no one is safe from scrutiny. Wofford Athletics to Hold Children's Book Drive Saturday
Details: Attendees who bring a new children's book to donate to Reach Out and Read to the basketball games on Saturday, Jan. 22, will receive a free children's ticket! Doctors across Spartanburg County are sending families home from check-ups with free books and a very important prescription – “read aloud to your children.” To celebrate this important program, Reach Out and Read has partnered with Wofford College Athletics for the Jan. 22 basketball doubleheader at the Benjamin Johnson Arena. The “Kids Reading Day” doubleheader begins at 2 p.m. as the Wofford men's basketball team hosts Samford, followed by the women's basketball team hosting Davidson at 6 p.m. All fans who bring a new or lightly used children's book to the game will receive a free child’s ticket to either contest. Reach Out and Read is thrilled to partner with Wofford College to help support the Reach Out and Read mission in Spartanburg County. Reach Out and Read serves children at 125 locations across the state of South Carolina, reaching more than 121,000 infants, toddlers and preschoolers with books each of South Carolina, reaching more than 12,000 infants, toddlers and preschoolers with books each year. We depend on the support of local champions, like Wofford, to help sustain and support our local programs. Reach Out and Read train medical providers to advise parents about the importance of reading aloud and to give free books to children at check-ups from 6 months to 5 years. The books are new, carefully chosen, and developmentally appropriate - starting with board books for babies and moving on to more complex picture books for preschoolers. Through Reach Out and Read, each child starts kindergarten with a home library of up to 10 books and a parent who has heard at every health supervision visit about the importance of books and reading. Reach Out and Read have one of the strongest records of research support of any primary care intervention. For more than a decade, studies have indicated that parents who get books and literacy counseling from their doctors and nurses are more likely to read to their young children, read to them more often, and provide more books in the home. In addition, these peer-reviewed medical studies have shown improvements in the language scores of children living in low-income households that are exposed to the program. This finding is important, because language development in the first five years of life is a critical component of school readiness. The Jan. 22 doubleheader will mark an additional opportunity for students across Spartanburg County to utilize their “Terrier Tales Reading Program” bookmarks. The Terrier Tales program, a joint venture of Wofford Sports Marketing and the Spartanburg County Public Libraries, rewards children for reading for enjoyment. Any child who brings a validated Terrier Tales bookmark to the game will receive free admission. For more details contact Wofford Sports Marketing at 864-597-4110. To: Campus Community
From: David Wood and Roberta Bigger

Dr. Denise Frazier will assume new duties at Wofford as our Director of Multicultural Affairs and Diversity Education, effective February 7, 2011. The appointment fills our vacant position in a vital area of the College. We could not be more delighted. Denise has injected energy and creativity into our community through her work as a faculty member in our Spanish program, and will now focus on extending her reach across the entire campus. She will work closely with Assistant Dean for Student Involvement, Courtney Shelton, and Roberta Bigger, Dean of Students, in planning programs and activities designed to enrich the student experience at the College. Dr. Frazier earned both her MA and PhD from Tulane University with a focus on Latin American literary and cultural studies. Her multi-faceted talents range from the scholarly to the performing arts and include violin, dance, vocals, and more! We will continue to draw upon her academic expertise in the classroom on a limited basis.

Both our campus and the greater Spartanburg community have benefitted from her presence among us. Please join me in expressing appreciation for her past work and congratulations on the new appointment. Her new extension will be 4043 and of course her email remains frazierdt@wofford.edu.
