Dear Faculty and Staff of Wofford,

My name is Meghan Holland and I am the philanthropy chair for Delta Delta Delta. We are hosting our annual fundraiser Smooch the Pooch and I would like to invite you to participate! Participation includes the chance to smooch our pooch (the terrier) on February 16th during the half time of the basketball game! Your face and name will be placed on jars and set up in Burwell and Zach’s the week preceding the 16th. Students will place money in the jars based upon who they want to see smooch the pooch. Whoever raises the most money wins!

Please email me at hollandmr@email.wofford.edu by February 4th if you would like to participate or if you have any questions. I am going to Peru for interim so I will be out of the country from Feb. 8th-25th, but I will answer any questions you have as soon as I get back.

Thanks so much,

Meghan Holland

To the Wofford Community:

Beginning January 2, Evins Street will close to thru traffic from Osage Street to Jefferson Street (portion of Evins Street directly in front of the Michael S. Brown Village Center) and will reopen February 1st. During this time, we will install a raised cross walk, similar to the cross walks located on campus drive. For Evins Street access from N. Church Street, we suggest turning onto Pearl Street, then taking a right onto Edgewood Avenue, then a right onto Jefferson Street. The Shipp parking lot will remain accessible during construction. During this time, we ask that you do not park on Jefferson Street.

We understand that this is an inconvenience and we thank you for your understanding and patience as we complete the project. Temporarily preventing thru traffic on Evins will allow us to complete the project faster and will result in substantial savings to the college.

If you have any questions or would like more information about the project, please feel free to give me a call.

Thanks again,

What’s Race Got To Do With It?
Mr. Brian Joyce and Dr. Stewart-Tillman have been very impressed with their Interim class and the rich conversations the students have been having around the issue of race, racism, and other cultural identities. This Thursday, they are inviting the entire campus (students, faculty and staff) to be part of these deep and sometimes touchy conversations. The students themselves will take turns facilitating three discussions on different topics stemming from Dr. Tatum's book "Why are all the Black Kids Sitting in Together in the Cafeteria?". The first one will be this Thursday, January 10 at 4:00 pm in AAAS and the topic will be "Racial Portrayals in the Media." Please join us.

Wofford faculty and staff,

On Wednesday, January 23, Wofford Athletics and our women’s basketball program will be hosting a special event that we hope our campus community will join us for.

“Growing Up Gold: Education Day” is a special NOON tip-off between the Terriers and the College of Charleston specially designed for third through fifth grade school children. A number of women’s basketball programs across the nation host similar events for elementary school children. Our event will feature a handout to all the kids in attendance, a Wofford pencil, pom pom, poster and other items to take home. The handout features problems that will be highlighted throughout the first half including math, grammar, geography and more.

Presently, we have over 400 children scheduled to attend from several schools across Spartanburg County. This will mark our first “Growing Up Gold: Education Day” event and we hope to make this annual January event based on the feedback received from this year’s attendees.

To that end, our cheerleaders, dance team, pep band and our marketing team students may need to miss class time on this date to be ready for the early start time.

We ask your help in making this event a great one by encourage students in your classes on-campus to JOIN US and interact with the school children.

Again, thank you and please let me know if you have any questions. Attached is the logo we are using to promote “Education Day”.

Wofford Community,

In an effort to better serve the campus, Physical plant will upgrade the log in procedure to our work order system. Beginning Tuesday morning (tomorrow – 1/15/2013), all faculty and staff can log in to submit facility maintenance request with the same username and password used to log into the Wofford Network. If you had a prior username/password for SchoolDude, you will now use your Wofford network username/password to access the site. All other account information, including prior submissions will remain the same. The work order system can be accessed through a link in the Documents and Forms Channel on the Employee tab or through the systems links Channel in myWofford.

Submitting work orders through our work order system helps to improve our internal efficiency, allowing us to quickly respond and maintain our campus at a lower cost to the college. Our goal is to make this process as user friendly as possible. Please feel free to call or email me with any questions/comments/recommendations.

Thank you,

Jason

Study Abroad Deadline for Fall & Summer 2013

Students planning to study abroad for the Fall or Summer 2013 should complete their Wofford Study Abroad application by this Friday (Feb. 15). For more information on application procedures, please see: http://www.wofford.edu/internationalPrograms/applicationGuidelines.aspx. If you have questions or need additional information please contact the Office of International Programs, internationalprograms@wofford.edu, ext. 4026.

Volunteers Needed: Swim for Success

Help give swim lessons to underprivileged children from the Spartanburg community! No prior experience in giving swim lessons is necessary. All that is needed are basic swimming skills and a genuine passion for service to youth. The program lasts 4 weeks starting in February (the first week of Spring semester) and we request that you volunteer once a week (either Wednesdays or Thursdays from 3:45-5 p.m.) All sessions will be held at the Spartanburg Swim Center (less than 5 minutes from campus.) We are looking for 10 Wofford student volunteers/day. To sign up now email varyae@email.wofford.edu or visit our website http://varyae.wix.com/swim4successspbg#!give-time/cmzm. Also find us at http://www.facebook.com/swim4successspartanburg. If you need additional information please email Alex Vary at varyae@email.wofford.edu or call 336-686-2123.
Wofford community:

We have received numerous requests for special announcements during Interim, while Daily Announcements have been suspended.

In an effort to keep the number of emails you receive from our office to a minimum during the rest of Interim, we will begin sending TWO announcement emails a day containing requested special announcements. These will go to all faculty, staff and students. No other announcements will be sent unless they are of an especially urgent nature.

These emails will be sent at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. each day.

Submissions for these announcements must be made no later than 9:45 a.m. and 2:45 p.m.

Submissions MUST be emailed to woffordnews@wofford.edu. DO NOT submit them to the Daily Announcements form.

We hope this helps streamline the process while keeping the campus abreast of important information. This process will be in effect only through Interim; Daily Announcements will resume in the Spring semester.

Thanks,
Laura Corbin

ATTENTION UNITED METHODIST STUDENTS!
Are you aware of the many valuable scholarship & loan opportunities that are available for deserving students who are members of The United Methodist Church? Please check out the websites below and apply today!

United Methodist Higher Education Foundation (UMHEF):
If you are a current or prospective student planning to attend Wofford in 2013-2014, the UMHEF, can help! Each year they award scholarships to about 1,000 students just like you. Offered are merit-based scholarships, need-based scholarships as well as matching scholarships such as the UM Dollars for Scholars & the UM Leadership Scholarship. For online application information, eligibility qualifications and other valuable resources, please see https://www.umhef.org/UMLSapp.php and click on the “Scholarship Info” tab. THE APPLICATION DEADLINE DATE IS MARCH 1, 2013.

United Methodist General Board of Higher Education & Ministry (GBHEM):
The United Methodist GBHEM Scholarship and Loan Programs are a church wide educational service providing scholarships (such as the Dr. Lyman Scholarship Gift of Hope, the UM General Scholarship, and The Ethnic Minority Scholarship) as well as student loans to help supplement the financial needs of today's students. Funding for these scholarships and loans are provided through offerings, wills, annuities, and other designated gifts. Through the Loan Program, students may borrow up to $5,000 per calendar year for a maximum total loaned of $20,000. The 146-year-old United Methodist Student Loan Fund is the oldest student loan fund in the United States. For the specific online scholarship and loan application process and other information, please see http://www.gbhem.org/site/c.lsKSL3POLvF/b.3842007/k.6E59/Scholarship_Applications.htm. RE: Inclement Weather Policy / latest weather update

Wofford College Inclement Weather Policy
Wofford College ordinarily does not close because of weather that brings snow and ice to the area. Every effort will be made to hold classes and to have offices open. Commuting students and employees should understand that classes are held, but that they are to run no unreasonable risk to get to the campus. Students will be allowed to make up missed work.

If an exception is made to this policy, local radio and television stations will be notified, and notice will be given via the Wofford Web site, Wofford Facebook page, and Wofford Emergency Alert System (Rave).

If there is no cancellation or delay notice on these sources, it is safe to assume that the college is open and conducting classes as usual.

This is the latest update (as of 11 a.m.) of the possible winter weather event, provided by the Spartanburg County Office of Emergency Management:

Note that the situation is fast-moving and predictions could change throughout the day and evening. Please monitor local TV and/or radio stations for updates.

This is a very complex weather system that is likely to change over time. Although it is warm now, there will be a significant drop in temperatures after dark….areas closest to the NC border will see the high 20’s while the remainder of the county will be in the low 30’s. Significant rain is expected this afternoon, with as much as 2” for Sptbg County before it transitions to snow around 7-8pm. This will be a very quick burst of snow, lasting approx. 2-3 hrs at the most. Areas along and north of I-85 will see between 1”-2” of snow accumulations, while areas to the south should expect ½” to a trace. Obviously, the further north towards NC, the more likely there will be higher accumulations, but still not expecting more than 2” at this time. Another significant issue will be the wind, which will increase to 20-30mph (gusts) during the overnight hours, which may cause trees/power lines to fall, especially now that the ground is saturated from the heavy rains. Black ice will also be a significant issue, as all road surfaces are very wet. Treating road surfaces at this point is not effective due to the heavy rains, which will simply wash salt/brine/sand away. Roads are expected to be slushy at the very least, with some icing very possible. Extreme care is urged for any overnight travel. Temperatures are expected to rise quickly after sunrise tomorrow morning, so any icy conditions should not last very long. Please continue to monitor local media for changing conditions, and we will send out updates as necessary and time permits.

Career Event in Columbia, Register by Jan. 23
The Young Bankers Division coordinates an annual educational banking forum. Banking Careers 101 is designed to help students with an interest in banking, finance and accounting learn more about the financial services industry. We are pleased to offer this program to interested South Carolina college students whom you feel are deserving of the opportunity. This year’s forum will be held on Feb. 6, at Seawell’s, located across from the South Carolina State Fairgrounds Complex at 1125 Rosewood Drive in Columbia. Registration opens at 10 a.m. and the program begins at 10:30 a.m. The event will feature a career fair-like atmosphere. Students will break into groups and tour each session to hear presentations from bankers that will cover different areas and departments within the industry. Students will have the opportunity to interact and receive guidance from professionals about potential banking careers. Lunch will be provided. The forum should end around 2 p.m. We encourage students to stay for the entire program, as most professors recognize the educational value of this event. Space is limited, so we would appreciate all students with a strong career interest in banking to take advantage of this opportunity. A reply form is attached and may be faxed to 803.779.0890 or e-mailed to carolynlaffitte@scbankers.org. Please RSVP by Jan. 23. Should you have any questions or concerns, please call SCBA Vice President Carolyn Laffitte. at 803.779.0850.

Pulp Theatre Presents: Little Shop of Horrors

Please join us as we present Howard Ashman's "Little Shop of Horrors"!! A story of your typical, everyday man, Seymour, who works in a flower shop. His life becomes not so normal when he discovers a special plant that requires, well... let’s say... not your average plant food. Find out what happens to Seymour, Audrey, and the rest of the gang after a few drops of blood turn into a big mess!

Don't miss this fun night of music, dancing, romance, and even some man-eating humor! You'll eat it up!!

Student tickets are $5. Adult tickets are $10. Doors open at 6:45 PM sharp! Don't be late!! The show will run Jan. 24, 2013 through Jan. 26 (this Thursday through Saturday). For reservations, call the Box Office at 864-597-4080. Seating is limited.

Parking Alert: Education Day Tomorrow
Tomorrow is our first “Growing Up Gold: Education Day” here at Wofford. We are expecting approximately 600 students and chaperones to attend the women’s basketball game against College of Charleston. Tip-off is at Noon and most of the students will arrive about 11:30 a.m. We would ask for your cooperation with our parking plan for in the morning. Please do not park in the TOP HALF of the Verandah Lot tomorrow. The areas are currently marked with cones where the 11 buses will be parking. Attached to this e-mail is a map of how we plan to arrange the buses in the Verandah Lot. If you can avoid it, not parking in the Verandah Lot at all tomorrow morning might be even better. Thank you for your help and we hope you will join us tomorrow at Noon to share this event with about 600 3rd through 5th graders from across Spartanburg County.

Hi everyone,
All faculty and staff, plus their guests, are invited to join us for the Mungo Center Launch Party on Saturday, February 16 from 7pm – 10pm. An invitation is attached to this message, with details and RSVP information.
The evening represents an evolution for The Mungo Center, and we’d like you to be there to share it with us. Business and community leaders, alumni and Trustees will also be joining us for the event.
In addition to great food, music and interactive exhibits explaining some of the work we do here in The Mungo Center, Success Initiative students will demonstrate their projects in an expo-style setting. Concurrently, students participating in the second round of our annual business plan competition will give their elevator pitches to guests. Guests can vote for their favorites to determine which students advance to the final round of the competition in April, when they’ll be eligible for prizes totaling $10,000, plus co-work space in The Iron Yard Spartanburg, marketing consulting, free legal advice, technology and more. Guests will also have the option of helping to fund the projects through a smartphone donation app. You can learn more about the business plan competition here. A list of Success Initiative projects is also attached. Please come support your students!
It’s going to be a fun and exciting evening – please don’t miss it. We’d love to see you all there!

Pluralism in Spartanburg
Wofford College and the Hub City Writers Project are partnering in an open discussion about pluralism in Spartanburg, inspired by author Eboo Patel, founder and president of Interfaith Youth Core, and his new book, “Sacred Ground: Pluralism, Prejudice, and the Promise of America.” Three Wofford faculty members – Ron Robinson, Trina Jones and Ellen Goldey - will speak and lead a discussion about pluralism at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 29, at the Hub City Bookshop in downtown Spartanburg. Hub City Writers Project assistant director Kari Jackson will moderate and contribute to the discussion about the importance of making books a part of the community's common language. Patel will receive the Sandor Teszler Award for Moral Courage and Service to Humankind at Wofford on March 5. Join us tomorrow night for this first event of the community read.

To: All Faculty and Staff:
I wanted to inform you all of the awesome event Wofford College students are participating in this spring. On Feb. 22, Wofford and the six other colleges of Spartanburg’s College Town Consortium are pulling an all nighter. No, not to study for a test or enjoy a band party at the row, but an all nighter to join in the fight against cancer! The All Nighter is the first annual dance marathon to raise money for Gibbs Cancer Center, a facility that has been bringing the highest quality of care to cancer patients in the Spartanburg area for over 70 years. We are inviting you, as faculty and staff, to attend the event.

A Web of Danger
As many as 40,000 active online pharmacies, a huge majority of them fly-by-night start-ups, may sell products at a cut-rate price, but they may also deliver fake, expired and/or contaminated drugs that can harm consumers, according to the FDA. There is no guarantee of the quality, safety or efficacy of those drugs.

If you buy drugs online, you want to go to an online pharmacy that is licensed, located in the United States, and that will ask for a prescription from a doctor. The FDA has launched BeSafeRx, a national campaign to alert consumers to the dangers of buying pharmaceuticals online. In May 2012, the FDA surveyed more than 6,000 adults and found that a quarter of internet shoppers bought prescription drugs online, and three in 10 said they weren’t confident they could do so safely.

What many consumers don’t realize is that when they buy drugs online, they are more likely to get fake drugs that contain none of the active ingredient (or the wrong amount), are past their expiration date or are contaminated with impurities or even contain toxic substances such as arsenic or rat poison. The new “BeSafeRx” website allows consumers to check a pharmacy’s license through state boards of pharmacy, as well as providing tips for shopping online and recognizing the signs of a fake pharmacy.

National Wise Health Consumer Month
For the most part, Americans are champ consumers. But we’re not such good shoppers when it comes to our own health. Studies show that Americans spend more time researching car purchases and new appliances than they do choosing doctors and health plans. Fewer than one in three consumers reports doing detailed research before selecting a doctor, while almost 60% do so before buying a car.

This may be because we’re not even sure we have options. Twenty percent say that they do not spend much time comparing their options or gathering opinions when choosing a health plan or doctor. More than half of respondents reported being uncertain or Unconfident in their ability to find lower-cost health care by shopping for alternatives. Although a little more confident, 43% still reported low confidence being able to find better-qualified doctors. Many of us are shy about negotiating with our doctors, or asking if an expensive test is really necessary.

While there are many possible reasons that consumers do not compare plans or doctors, one contributing factor may be that consumers have not had experience making these comparisons because information on health care options has not been readily available to the public.

Meanwhile, escalating health care costs have burdened both employees and employers. The average cost of a visit to the doctor is about $199; a visit to the ER costs about $922, according to the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ). About 25% of those visits are unnecessary. You can imagine how many billions of dollars this costs everyone every year.

In February, join the American Institute for Preventive Medicine in observing Wise Health Care Consumer Month. They have established this national health observance because they know that medical self-care and wise health care consumer programs work. They want to help you understand your options, communicate with your care providers and make educated decisions about your own health. They want you to be comfortable asking questions, sharing your concerns and negotiating costs. They want you to practice preventive care, and to know when to treat yourself at home. Get the best of a good deal and take control of your health and your health care dollars!
Medical Self-Care
Save with Self-Care

One of the changes occurring in the health care system is the expectation that individuals will take more responsibility for their own health. Practicing medical self-care is one way of taking more control. Medical self-care are those things that individuals do to deal with minor illness and injuries at home. This includes preventing, detecting, and treating illness and disease. Data suggests that self-care is already a fact of life. Over 80% of health problems are treated at home. For example, every time someone takes an over-the-counter drug for a headache they are practicing self-care. Studies also suggest that an even larger number of health care problems could be treated at home. As many as 70% of all visits to doctors for new problems have been termed unnecessary. For example, 11% of such visits are for uncomplicated colds. Many other visits are for minor cuts that do not require stitches, for tetanus shots even though the person is current on their immunizations, and for minor ankle sprains.

Medical self-care does not involve learning large amounts of information. It is not about practicing alternative medicine or using unusual home remedies. And self-care is not a substitute for professional care.

One of the important self-care decisions individuals always have to make is, "Do I have to see my health care provider or can I apply home treatment?"

Your goal is to protect your family’s health, so you want to practice sound self care skills such as:

- Use a medically sound self-care reference such as Take Care of Yourself by Donald M., Vicker, M.D. and James F. Fries, M.D. or Healthwise for Life by Molly Mettler, MSW and Donald W. Kemper, MPH.
- Learn how to take some basic vital signs like temperature, pulse, respiration, and blood pressure. Learning the skills to observe simple signs and symptoms can help you make better use of your self-care reference and help you communicate more effectively with your health care provider.
- Find a convenient and safe place for your home health care center which includes basic first aid supplies, medications, and your self-care book.
- Use over-the-counter and prescription drugs in such a way as to avoid over-medication.
- Learn to communicate effectively with your doctor and to use them as resources to protect keep you and your family healthy.

Learning how to do these tasks more effectively is no guarantee that family members will stay healthy. However, learning how to handle common illnesses and injuries at home, knowing when and how to work with health care providers, and encouraging healthy lifestyle behaviors may ease your mind, save you time, help reduce unnecessary doctor visits, and may reduce your family’s health care costs.

De-Stress at Your Desk: Office Yoga

Our typical posture while seated at a desk is shoulders rounded forward, causing the chest muscles to contract and the upper back muscles to weaken and overstretch. This stretch realigns our posture by opening the chest and strengthening the back. The benefits, aside from better posture, are deeper breathing and a release of back and neck tension.

Step-By-Step Instructions:

1) Sit slightly forward in your chair, feet flat on the floor, legs bent at a 90 degree angle.
2) Contract the abdominal muscles, roll the shoulders back and then down, and lift up through the chest.
3) Hold your hands up and elbows down, in a “stick-em-up” position.
4) Take a deep inhale, and as you exhale, squeeze your shoulder blades back and down, moving your elbows down.
5) Inhale and allow the elbows to rise slightly. Feel the upper back and chest expand.
6) Exhale and squeeze the shoulders blades back and down again.
7) Repeat 5 times, then relax arms down and shake them out.

This Month’s Q&A: Ask the Expert

Q: When is it more than a cold?

Colds are highly contagious viral infections of the nose and throat, and many of us know the misery they bring — congestion, runny nose, sneezing, sore throat, coughing, mild fever, and headache. But miserable as they are, most colds are minor illnesses which tend to go away within 14 days, with or without treatment.

If your cold lasts much longer than two weeks or keeps coming back, allergies, sinusitis, or some other secondary infection may be the culprit. Fever is an important sign. If you have a fever of 103 F (39.5 C) and higher, you should see a doctor. If your infant is younger than 3 months old and has a fever of 100 F (37.8 C) or above, go to the doctor immediately.

If you have symptoms such as stabbing pains in the chest, a cough that brings up colored sputum, fever, or shortness of breath you may have pneumonia and should see your doctor. If symptoms came on fast, you should seek immediate medical care.

www.missourifamilies.org
With the rising costs of health care and the complexities of health care treatment, we are put in a position of having to be extremely mindful of our options and advocate on our own behalf for the best outcome.

Select the Right Physician
With so many doctors around, how do you find the best one for you? Most insurance plans provide a listing of covered physicians and their specialties either through a written directory or online site. Determine if the doctor is accepting new patients and then consider the following:

- Are there any complaints filed against the doctor on record with the State Medical Society?
- Is the doctor recommended by anyone you know?
- Will you have access to all of your medical records?
- Are there convenient hours, including evenings and weekends? Is the location convenient?
- Does the doctor talk pleasantly, listen attentively and respond appropriately?
- Does the doctor offer lab work or other services in the office?
- Are flexible payment schedules offered?
- What are the doctor’s views on medication?
- How long is the wait for a first appointment?

Evaluate Your Course of Treatment
Every doctor visit, prescription and treatment plan presents you with choices and responsibilities. Here are common problems you may run into as well as some tips to remedy the situation.

- The treatment isn’t working. Maybe it’s the wrong treatment for you. Or, maybe you’re taking the right treatment in the wrong way. In any case, your doctor needs to know. Ask him/her to clarify the treatment directions, or to suggest any available treatment alternatives.
- The side effects seem worse than the cure. Is your medication causing adverse side effects on your health or well-being? Are you cutting back on your prescriptions as a result? Perhaps the dosage can be changed or there’s a different medication you can take that’s just as effective without side effects. Don’t stay mum about it; your health may suffer.
- The hospital bill looks wrong. By checking your hospital bill, you have an opportunity to fix any errors and perhaps trim your out-of-pocket costs. If you feel your insurance plan has erred in denying coverage, give the company a call. If a hospital charge seems out of line, ask your health plan to look into it.
- A diagnosis or treatment recommendation makes you uneasy. Don’t rush into important health decisions. Usually there will be enough time to carefully examine your options. Ask your doctor to explain things in a language that you understand and to provide you with clear options. Question his/her diagnosis or treatment recommendation. Make sure you know all of the alternatives as well as the risks and benefits, and consider a second opinion for peace of mind.

Use the Internet as a Resource—Not Authority
There is an overwhelming amount of health information available online. It is important to exercise caution when doing independent research. Who is paying for the information you are seeing? The ads that support a site may indicate a bias toward their own products or services. Check when the information was posted to make sure it is current, and don’t forget to discuss what you have learned with your doctor.

Good Health Begins With You
Taking good care of your health will improve the quality of your life. Make important lifestyle changes such as quitting smoking, eating better, limiting alcohol use, and exercising regularly. If you need support, reach out to your physician, family, friends, or your company’s Employee Assistance Program (EAP). Prevention is key, early detection is important, but early and effective treatment are critical. Follow recommended guidelines, get regular medical checkups, and schedule the health screening appointments that are appropriate for your age or family history.

EXERCISE TIP
When choosing an exercise routine, choose wisely. Your desire to stick with your workout regimen and the energy level with which you approach it are indicators of whether you will be successful long-term. Finding an exercise you enjoy doing can go a long way in keeping you active on a daily basis. Even if you’re developing a fitness routine for the first time, you may remember how much you liked riding your bike as a kid, or swimming at the local pool. Rediscovering how it feels to move your body through a favorite activity from the past is one way to zero in on an exercise you’ll enjoy.

Another is to choose a simple cardio exercise, such as walking, and get yourself going. Then once a week, try something new — whether it’s a Pilates class, a hike in the woods or a strength training session. You may discover an activity that draws you back again and again.

Orzo Salad with Chickpeas & Artichoke Hearts

Ingredients
- 1/2 cup orzo, or other tiny pasta
- 1 1/2 teaspoons extra-virgin olive oil
- 1 clove garlic, crushed and peeled
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/8 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
- 1 14-ounce can artichoke hearts, drained and chopped
- 1 7-ounce can chickpeas, rinsed
- 1/3 cup crumbled feta cheese
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh dill
- 1 1/2 tablespoons chopped fresh mint
- 1 large tomato, chopped
- 2 cups baby spinach leaves

Directions
1. Bring a small saucepan of water to a boil. Cook orzo until just tender, about 9 minutes, or according to package directions. Drain and rinse under cold water until cool. Press to remove excess water. Transfer to a medium bowl and toss with oil.
2. Mash garlic and salt into a paste with the back of a spoon in a medium bowl. Whisk in lemon juice and pepper. Add the cooked orzo, artichokes, chickpeas, feta, dill and mint; toss gently to combine. Add tomatoes and toss again.
3. Divide spinach between 2 plates and top with the salad.

Ask for Artichokes
There are many ways to reap the amazing health benefits of artichokes. While many people’s favorite part is the heart, it is the leaves that contain many of the artichoke’s powerful health benefits.

High in Antioxidants
A study done by the USDA found that artichokes have more antioxidants than any other vegetable and they ranked seventh in a study of the antioxidant levels of 1,000 different foods. Some of the powerful antioxidants in artichokes are quercetin, rutin, anthocyanins, cynarin, luteolin, and silymarin.

Cancer Prevention & Treatment
Studies done with artichoke leaf extract have found that they induce apoptosis (cell death) and reduce cell proliferation in many different forms of cancer, including prostate cancer, leukemia, and breast cancer. An Italian study found that a diet rich in the flavonoids present in artichokes reduces the risk of breast cancer.

Good for the Liver
Thanks to antioxidants cynarin and silymarin, artichokes are very beneficial to the liver. Studies have found they may even regenerate liver tissue. Artichokes have long been used in folk and alternative medicine as a treatment for liver ailments and the scientific studies are now suggesting they were correct.

High in Fiber
One large artichoke contains a quarter of the recommended daily intake of fiber. A medium artichoke has more fiber than a cup of prunes.

Pluralism in Spartanburg
Wofford College and the Hub City Writers Project are partnering in an open discussion about pluralism in Spartanburg, inspired by author Eboo Patel, founder and president of Interfaith Youth Core, and his new book, “Sacred Ground: Pluralism, Prejudice, and the Promise of America.” Three Wofford faculty members – Ron Robinson, Trina Jones and Ellen Goldey - will speak and lead a discussion about pluralism at 6 p.m. tonight (Jan. 29,) at the Hub City Bookshop in downtown Spartanburg. Hub City Writers Project assistant director Kari Jackson will moderate and contribute to the discussion about the importance of making books a part of the community’s common language. Patel will receive the Sandor Teszler Award for Moral Courage and Service to Humankind at Wofford on March 5. Join us tomorrow night for this first event of the community read.

The National Weather Service at GSP has issued a tornado watch for the entire Upstate of SC until 8 p.m. this evening.

As you complete your Interim projects and make preparations for weekend travel, please keep this latest weather report in mind.

Call Campus Safety when we can be of assistance 24-hours a day, seven days a week: 864/597-4911

Please monitor local media/weather alert radios/internet for further updates.

Wofford will issue alerts through RAVE, our emergency alert system, as warranted.

The NWS says severe thunderstorms are possible this afternoon and early evening across the western Carolinas.

A strong cold front will sweep east across northeast Georgia and the western Carolinas this afternoon through this evening. A line or band of strong to severe thunderstorms ahead of the cold front will move across the region with the potential to produce widespread wind damage with some wind gusts in the 50 to 70 mph range. In addition...there is the potential for a few brief tornadoes to develop. Some of the severe storms will occur with little or no lightning. Isolated flooding could develop along a few streams by late in the day. The line of storms should cross the mountains through the early afternoon. The line will then move out across Upstate South Carolina and the North Carolina Foothills in the early to middle part of the afternoon...and then the western Piedmont of North Carolina in the late afternoon and early evening.

Severe weather watches may be issued for all or part of the area for later in the day. People across the western Carolinas should be on the lookout for dangerous weather and listen for later warnings.

Unusual weather conditions this afternoon include the certainty of severe thundershowers and high winds, with a threat of tornados as an outside possibility. The current prediction indicates the worst of this weather will occur between 4:00 and 7:00 pm. 4:00 looks like a bad time to be on the road, so, if you can wind up whatever must be completed, please feel free to leave work between 3:00 and 3:30 today.
