To: Wofford Students WoffordStudents@Wofford.Edu, Wofford Staff WoffordStaff@Wofford.Edu

To: Wofford Campus Community

An innocuous story about honorary degrees at our upcoming commencement turned into a weirdly inaccurate report in the Herald-Journal this morning that Hayne Hipp will become president of Wofford on May 19. The truth of the matter is, of course, that President Dunlap will remain in office until June 30, and that he and Mr. Hipp will receive honorary degrees on May 19.

*All members of the Wofford College Community are invited to the 2013 Terrio and a picnic luncheon on the lawn
11:00 a.m., Tuesday, May 7, 2013*

A word about the Terrio from Dr. Dunlap:

The inspiration for the Wofford Terrio was the famous Palio in Siena, Italy, the horse race that culminates in that ancient town's central piazza. Each neighborhood enters a horse and rider (no saddles, but distinctive colors) that gallop recklessly through the narrow streets of the town. The race, which goes back to antiquity, is preceded by a pageant and attended by huge crowds from all over the world, but especially by the Sienese themselves. I would venture to say that, although we Americans tend to think the most famous horse race in the world is the Kentucky Derby and the British tend to suppose it's the Grand National, the truth is that the Palio is probably the correct answer.

Wofford's Terrio parallels Siena's Palio in the following respects: The race occurs in the heart of the Ancient City-State of Wofford and culminates in the great piazza in front of our historic Old Main. Teams of students and professors, often dressed in colorful traditional regalia and representing curricular and extracurricular neighborhoods (departments and organizations), drive fancifully decorated golf carts recklessly and flamboyantly about the oval of Wofford's green. Trophies are awarded, and winners strut about triumphantly for the entire following year. It goes without saying that huge crowds attend, while passions and good humor are at fever pitch.

Although rumors of souped-up engines have persistently attached themselves to competitors from the hard sciences, there is no reliable evidence other than a legendary cart from the Math Department which, in the initial Terrio, is said to have achieved a maximum speed of 72 mph, leaving its competitors more than three-quarters of a lap behind. No wrong-doing was ever proved, and the team from Mathematics insisted their success derived from their having solved Fermat's Last Theorem shortly before the race. The pace car this year will again be the Presidential Golf Cart, appropriately decked out to confirm the dignity of office. As in the past, there will be a ceremonial Blessing of the Carts by Chaplain Robinson as well as music, food, and bonhomie. Under penalty of eternal regret, DO NOT MISS THE TERRIO!

The President's theme of this year's Terrio will be Ancient Greece. However, because it has been rumored that some entrants intend to continue driving their carts on through the campus gates to the coast of the Peloponnese, no one but the president will be permitted to leave the course. The senior's theme is Movies that Influenced the Class of 2013. So choose which contest you will enter

Wofford Campus Safety is issuing a Crime Alert as a result of information received from state law enforcement officials regarding threats made by a resident of Seneca, S.C., Robert Ivester, to kill himself and other people, as well as going to a college campus and causing death.

Ivester, 23, is described as a white male, 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighing 150 pounds. He was believed to be in the Seneca area earlier this week.

There is no evidence this subject has been or will come to Spartanburg and this advisory is PRECAUTIONARY ONLY.

If you see him on Wofford property, call 911 or 864-597-4911 as soon as possible.

UPDATE TO EARLIER MESSAGE:

WSPA is reporting that the subject of the alert has turned himself in to the authorities.

Officials in Oconee County tell 7 On Your Side 23-year-old Robert Ivester, along with a female, gave themselves up late Friday afternoon.

Investigators say Ivester threatened made threats to "kill himself and other people, as well as going to a college campus and causing death."

South Carolina Law Enforcement officials notified Upstate schools. Some schools issued campus-wide alerts, due to the threats.

Subject: SPECIAL MEMO TO FACULTY/STAFF: Mungo GOLD Challenge
Date: May 6, 2013 at 1:30 PM
To: Wofford Staff WoffordStaff@Wofford.Edu

Greetings! As part of the campus community, the Annual Giving staff wants to share with you an exciting endeavor that is taking place this week for Graduates Of the Last Decade (GOLD).

Trustee Stewart Mungo '74 has challenged the Classes of 2002-2012 to make 429 qualifying gifts to the college between May 6-10. If the goal of 429 participants is met, Mr. Mungo will give $50,000 to Wofford's Annual Fund! The campaign, called the Mungo GOLD Challenge, began at 12am this morning and ends Friday at midnight.

While this campaign is not targeted at the campus community, there are ways that you can help:

- If you are a GOLD, be one of the 429!
- Reach out to any 2002-2012 Alumni that you know and encourage their participation.
- Spread the word by email, social media and word of mouth.

Follow our progress this week on our webpage (www.wofford.edu/mungogold), Facebook (Wofford Alumni), Twitter (@WoffordAlumni), Instagram (WoffordAlumni) and Pinterest (Wofford College).

Subject: SPECIAL MESSAGE FROM DEVELOPMENT OFFICE: Special SECRET event scheduled to honor President Dunlap May 15

Date: May 8, 2013 at 4:17 PM

To:

W

All students, faculty and staff are invited to a dedication at the Music Building scheduled for 4:00 pm on Wednesday, May, 15, to honor our retiring president, Dr. Dunlap.

Thanks to the Montgomery family, for whom the music building is named, they have provided funds to improve the use and beauty of the Courtyard located in the rear of the building. The Courtyard will be named for President Dunlap, which is very appropriate as music is one of his foremost passions. We would like to keep this event a surprise from Dr. Dunlap, if possible. Please join the Montgomerys, along with fellow faculty, staff and students for this very special event.

Student Accomplishments through readabout.me

What is readabout.me?

The Wofford Communications Office has begun using software called Readabout.me to recognize student achievements online, offering students an online presence to share with potential schools and employers. This is a way for us to highlight student accomplishments and student achievements on campus. Readabout.me is a website that allows an academic institution to create individual profile pages for its students and list their accomplishments in both academic and non-academic activities.

Students, in turn, can edit their landing pages and add more achievements the college may not have listed. They then can choose to share their pages with family and friends on social media such as Facebook. In addition to allowing students to share the honors they receive, Readabout.me also tracks the hometown newspapers of each person being honored and sends out a press release to those newspapers.

Readabout.me has been used to display badges honoring students on the Dean's List, Phi Beta Kappa induction, Honors Day awards, study abroad and scholarship recipients. The stories about students' honors that are displayed and sent to hometown newspapers are based on a template detailing the achievement. Information about the student's name and hometown is then imported from a spreadsheet and inserted into the template. Among the other honors that Wofford hopes to display on Readabout.me are leadership in student clubs and organizations and membership in departmental honor societies.

How does it work?

Departments, faculty members, or student organizations provide the Communications Department with a brief description of the accomplishment along with the names of the students earning the accomplishment. Using readMedia we then create personalized stories about these student accomplishments and award each student with badges that are published online on each student's profile on the Readabout.me website. When applicable, announcements also are then sent to each student's hometown paper for publication directly through readMedia, which greatly streamlines our process for large press releases such as Enrollment, Dean's List, and Graduation. Please check out the Wofford Merit page at: <http://wofford.meritpages.com/> to see recent student accomplishments.

Why is readabout.me important for students?

- Readabout.me helps people who make decisions about internships, grad school and jobs find the "good stuff" about students, and recognizes their accomplishments with official college "badges" that show that they are authentic.
- A Readabout.me profile creates a positive online identity for post-graduation success. Many companies now research applicants online, and some have rejected applicants based on what they found there. A student's readabout.me profile is a way for students to shine online.
- Students who are featured by the college are informed of the announcement through their college e-mail address and encouraged to share their accomplishments with family and friends through social media channels such as Facebook. This reinforces the positive accomplishment and reflects positively on the institution as a whole.

How can you help?

*Submit student accomplishments to Wofford News at woffordnews@wofford.edu

*With the submission include a brief description about the accomplishment and include a list of students with both First and Last name.

If you have questions about Readabout.me please do not hesitate to contact Laura Corbin or Janella Lane in the Communications Office.

Dear members of the Wofford College community,

Beginning Fall semester, 2013, the Department of Foreign Languages will be officially named the Department of Modern Languages, Literatures, and Cultures. Although the change was approved at the last faculty meeting, you will not see this change on the Wofford College website or in the catalog until the beginning of the fall semester.

The name change from “Department of Foreign Languages” to “Department of Modern Languages, Literatures, and Cultures” accurately describes the inclusive, diverse, and global mission and goals of the department, and will therefore also support recruitment and retention of language students. Our focus remains on teaching language, literature and culture. The term “foreign,” with its connotation of exclusion, difference, and otherness, does not reflect the vision of the department nor the history or observance of languages taught within our language program. The United States is a multi-linguistic nation in which Chinese, French, German, and Spanish are spoken by many of its citizens and is a nation rooted in languages spoken by communities since colonial times.

Our research shows that the modifier Modern is the most commonly used among first-tier liberal arts colleges that house languages in a single department. Many well-regarded language departments have changed their names in the past decade to remove the term “foreign” in order to better reflect their primary goal of proficiency in the target language within the context of living cultures.

Among liberal arts colleges recently ranked in the top 30 by U.S. News and World Report, only two (Williams and the U.S. Military Academy) include the word Foreign in the department name.

Despite the name change, alumni and prospective students will nonetheless be redirected to the new website if they type in the word “foreign.”

Yours,

The Department of Modern Languages, Literatures, and Cultures

Details: Serve your community, build your skills, and impact our nation (while earning some money and an educational award) as a VISTA (Volunteer in Service to America). The South Carolina Campus Compact is now accepting applications for campus VISTAs all over SC. One lucky VISTA will be placed here at dear old Wofford! SCCC VISTAs have demonstrated commitment to community service, service learning and/or social justice. They act as change agents on their prescribed campuses and in the surrounding community, leading projects that inspire students, faculty, staff and community members to take action together. They empower communities, leverage institutional resources, and build capacity for sustainable social change. To learn more about what being a VISTA is all about, talk to Sarah Hager (Wofford's current VISTA). To apply, visit this website: <https://my.americorps.gov/mp/listing/viewListing.do?id=35468&fromSearch=true> Applications will be accepted until June 6.

CAMPUS COMMUNITY: We wanted you to be aware of this very special honor recently bestowed on Albert W. Gray and Douglas Jones Sr. – the renaming of the AAAS Room in the Burwell Building to the Gray-Jones Room.

Thanks
Laura Corbin
Director of News Services

For Immediate Release
May 9, 2013

Gray, Jones honored with room naming at Wofford First African-American student, graduate recognized

SPARTANBURG, S.C. – Wofford College honored its first African-American student and its first African-American graduate on May 9 with the dedication of the Gray-Jones Room in the Burwell Building in honor of Albert W. Gray and Douglas Jones Sr.

Located in the main student dining hall building, the large multi-purpose room is adjacent to the Players Corner patio and previously was identified as the Association of African-American Students' (AAAS) Room. It is used frequently for both college and community events.

A graduate of Spartanburg's Carver High School, Albert W. Gray entered Wofford as a first-year student in the fall of 1964, just a few months after the board of trustees adopted a policy of admitting qualified students regardless of race. Wofford was the first independent college in South Carolina to take this step.

Gray's Wofford career was interrupted by service with the Army in Vietnam, but he completed his degree in 1971. He has been a steadfast supporter of his alma mater since graduation, serving on the board of trustees for 12 years.

Douglas Jones Sr., also a Carver graduate, majored in physics at Wofford and graduated in 1969. For many years, he has been a Michelin executive in the South Carolina Upstate. Two of his children – Moneffa Jones (class of 1995) and Jarvis Jones (class of 2004) – are Wofford alumni and both attended the dedication ceremony.

Roberta H. Bigger, vice president of student affairs and dean of students, expressed the gratitude of the college to Gray and Jones. "They came and learned with their fellow students in classes and labs, but they were also excellent teachers – they showed Wofford something unique about how to face a challenge and bring about positive change," she says. "We also honor them for their willingness to come back home to their alma mater and share with us over the course of decades."

Wofford College, established in 1854, is an independent liberal arts college of 1,600 students in Spartanburg, S.C. Wofford ranks 4th nationally in the percentage of undergraduates receiving credit for study abroad. Home to one of the nation's 280 Phi Beta Kappa chapters, Wofford's historic 175-acre campus is recognized as a national arboretum. Wofford is affiliated with the United Methodist Church.
