To Wofford Faculty and Staff:
I am excited to begin my first academic year at Wofford College and wish everyone the very best for a wonderful start. Prema and I are grateful for the many warm welcomes we have received from everyone.
As I indicated at the Opening Session last week, I am pleased to announce a change in title for our Senior Vice President of Academic Affairs and Dean of the College, David Wood, to Provost. This change recognizes David's good work and leadership in his 17 years at Wofford, and distinguishes the second office of the College as defined in our By-laws. The Provost is the chief academic officer of the College and is responsible for matters relating to the academic program.
In his time at Wofford, Provost Wood has served in a variety of senior administrative positions, including serving as the chief academic officer of the College for the past six years. Prior to joining Wofford in January of 1997, David served for six and a half years in senior level positions as part of a new leadership team at Tusculum College in Greeneville, Tennessee, including serving as Provost.
David earned his BA from Elon College, a master’s degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and a doctorate in Higher Education Administration from Vanderbilt University. He and his wife, Judy, are the parents of three sons and have one daughter-in-law, all four of whom are Wofford graduates, and recently welcomed the birth of their first grandchild.
Please join me in congratulating Provost Wood on this recognition.

Two special announcements to the Campus Community:

OPENING CONVOCATION, 11 A.M. THURSDAY:

All faculty, staff and students are encouraged to attend our formal Opening Convocation to begin the 2013-14 academic year at 11 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 5, in Leonard Auditorium of Main Building. The faculty will march in academic regalia, and President Nayef Samhat will deliver the keynote address for the occasion. As an important Wofford tradition, Opening Convocation is a highlight of the semester and will be especially noteworthy as we welcome our new president to his first official event for the year. A campus-wide picnic will follow on the grounds in front of Burwell. Be there!

September 2013 marks the 10th annual National Preparedness Month. National Preparedness Month is a part of the committed effort to strengthen the United States’ preparedness capabilities. Sponsored by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), Preparedness Month encourages Americans to take simple steps to prepare for emergencies in their homes, businesses, schools, and communities. The emergencies include natural disasters, mass casualties, biological and chemical threats, radiation emergencies, and terrorist attacks.

The possibility of public health emergencies arising in the United States concerns many people in the wake of recent hurricanes, tsunamis, acts of terrorism, and the threat of pandemic influenza. Though some people feel it is impossible to be prepared for unexpected events, the truth is that taking preparedness actions helps people deal with disasters of all sorts much more effectively when they do occur.

Individuals can make a difference in their own community but not everyone has bought into preparedness. Research on personal preparedness indicates that individuals who believe they are prepared for disasters often are not as prepared as they think.

In addition, some admit they do not plan to prepare at all. Being prepared means staying informed. Check all types of media – Web sites, newspapers, radio, TV, mobile and land phones – for global, national, and local information. During an emergency, your local Emergency Management or Emergency Services office will give you information on such things as open shelters and evacuation orders.

If disaster strikes your community, you might not have access to food, water, or electricity for some time. By taking time now to prepare emergency water supplies, food supplies, and a disaster supplies kit, you can provide for your entire family. Make plans with your family and friends in case you’re not together during an emergency. Discuss how you'll contact each other, where you'll meet, and what you'll do in different situations. Ask about planning at your workplace and your child's school or daycare center. Workers at small, medium, and large businesses should practice for emergencies of all kinds. Take the time and proper steps now to protect you and your loved ones.
Make a Plan
Develop a Family Disaster Plan

Families can cope with disaster by preparing in advance and working together as a team. Create a family disaster plan including a communication plan, disaster supplies kit, and an evacuation plan. Knowing what to do is your best protection and your responsibility.

Meet with your family and discuss why you need to prepare for disaster. Explain the dangers of fire, severe weather, and earthquakes to children. Plan to share responsibilities and work together as a team. Discuss the types of disasters that are most likely to happen. Explain what to do in each case. Pick two places to meet:
1. Right outside your home in case of a sudden emergency, like a fire.
2. Outside your neighborhood in case you can’t return home. Everyone must know the address and phone number.

Discuss what to do in an evacuation. Plan how to take care of your pets. Families should develop different methods for communicating during emergency situations and share their plans beforehand with all those who would be worried about their welfare. Options for remaining in contact with family and friends if a disaster strikes include:
- Phone contact with a designated family member or friend who is unlikely to be affected by the same disaster.
- Email notification via a family distribution list.
- Registration on the American Red Cross Safe and Well Website.

Complete this Checklist
- Post emergency telephone numbers by phones (fire, police, ambulance, etc.).
- Teach children how and when to call 911 (or your local Emergency Medical Services number) for emergency help.
- Determine the best escape routes from your home. Find two ways out of each room.
- Find the safe spots in your home for each type of disaster.
- Show each family member how and when to turn off the water, gas, and electricity at the main switches.
- Check if you have adequate insurance coverage.
- Teach each family member how to use the fire extinguisher, and show them where it’s kept.
- Install smoke detectors on each level of your home, especially near bedrooms.
- Conduct a home hazard hunt.
- Stock emergency supplies and assemble a disaster supplies kit.
- Take a Red Cross first aid and CPR class.

Practice Your Plan
- Test your smoke detectors monthly, and change the batteries at least once a year.
- Quiz your kids every six months so they remember what to do.
- Conduct fire and emergency evacuation drills.
- Test and recharge your fire extinguisher(s) according to manufacturer’s instructions.
- Replace stored water every three months and stored food every six months.

This Month’s Q&A: Ask the Expert

Q: Why does my company need an Emergency Action Plan?
First, because OSHA requires it. Specifically, OSHA fire protection standards (Section 1910.157(a)) say employers must have a written plan for handling emergencies—which OSHA labels an Emergency Action Plan (EAP), if:
- They have to keep portable fire extinguishers in the workplace; and
- Workers or others are required to evacuate in case of a fire or other emergency.

That covers just about all workplaces and it ensures that your workplace is prepared for an emergency. Most businesses weren’t ready for Katrina. The results were human and property losses that more careful planning could have prevented. Even if it isn’t a specific requirement, having an EAP is essential to protect your company from disasters. The EAP need not be elaborate. A simple evacuation plan is fine for small workplaces that don’t contain anything unusually dangerous like hazardous chemicals or substances. The important thing is that the EAP be specific to the conditions of the particular site.
Prepare a Kit
Gather Emergency Supplies

If disaster strikes your community, you might not have access to food, water, or electricity for some time. By taking time now to prepare emergency water supplies, food supplies, and disaster supplies kit, you can provide for your entire family.

Disaster Supplies Kit
A disaster supplies kit is a collection of basic items that could be needed in the event of a disaster. Assemble the following items to create kits for use at home, the office, at school, and/or in a vehicle:

- Water—one gallon per person, per day (3-day supply for evacuation, 2-week supply for home)
- Food—non-perishable, easy-to-prepare items
- Flashlight and extra batteries
- Battery-powered or hand-crank radio (NOAA Weather Radio, if possible)
- Medications (7-day supply) and medical items such as First Aid Kit
- Multi-purpose tools: pocket knife and/or scissors
- Sanitation and personal hygiene items
- Copies of personal documents (medication list and major medical information, proof of address, deed/lease to home, passports, birth certificates, insurance policies)
- Cell phone with chargers
- Extra cash
- Emergency blankets, towels, and extra clothing
- Map(s) of the area

Consider the specific needs of all family members and add supplies to your kit as you see necessary.

- Medical supplies (hearing aids with extra batteries, glasses, contact lenses, syringes, cane)
- Baby supplies (bottles, formula, baby food, diapers)
- Games and activities for children
- Pet supplies (collar, leash, ID, food, carrier, bowl)
- Two-way radios
- Extra set of car keys and house keys
- Manual can opener

Pack the items in easy-to-carry containers, label the containers clearly and store them where they would be easily accessible. Duffle bags, backpacks, and covered trash receptacles are good candidates for containers. In a disaster situation, you may need access to your disaster supplies kit quickly - whether you are sheltering at home or evacuating.

Again, make sure the needs of everyone who would use the kit are covered, including infants, seniors and pets. It’s good to involve whoever is going to use the kit, including children, in assembling it.

Benefits of Involving Children
Involving children is the first step in helping them know what to do in an emergency. Children can help. Ask them to think of items that they would like to include in a disaster supplies kit, such as books or games or nonperishable food items, and to help the household remember to keep the kits updated. Children could make calendars and mark the dates for checking emergency supplies, rotating the emergency food and water or replacing it every six months and replacing batteries as necessary. Children can enjoy preparing plans and disaster kits for pets and other animals.

Disaster Supplies Kit for Pets
- Food and water for at least three days for each pet, food and water bowls, and a manual can opener
- Depending on the pet, litter and litter box or newspapers, paper towels, plastic trash bags, grooming items, and household bleach
- Medications and medical records stored in a waterproof container, a first aid kit, and a pet first aid book; Your vet's phone number would be beneficial
- Sturdy leashes, harnesses and carriers to transport pets safely and to ensure that your pets cannot escape. A carrier should be large enough for the animal to stand comfortably, turn around, and lie down. Your pet may have to stay in the carrier for hours. Be sure to have a secure cage with no loose objects inside it to accommodate smaller pets. These may require blankets or towels for bedding and warmth and other special items
- Pet toys and the pet's bed, if you can easily take it, to reduce stress
- Current photos and descriptions of your pets to help others identify them in case you and your pets become separated, and to prove that they are yours

If not, you need to begin a fitness program. The benefits are not only that you will be prepared for emergencies, but include enhanced health in mind, body, and soul. There are also a financial benefits in reduced or avoided health care costs.

Hearty Kale Salad
A riff on the classic warm spinach-and-bacon salad, this recipe features thin ribbons of kale instead. Any variety of kale works, but flatter-leaf lacinato kale makes it extra-special. View more kale recipes at www.eatingwell.com

Ingredients
- 6 cups very thinly sliced kale (about 1/2 large bunch), tough stems removed
- 2 hard-boiled eggs coarsely chopped
- 2 slices center-cut bacon
- 2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 1/2 cups sliced button mushrooms
- 2 tablespoons red-wine vinegar
- 2 teaspoons whole-grain mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
- 1/8 teaspoon salt

Directions
1. Place kale and eggs in a large bowl.
2. Cook bacon in a large skillet over medium heat until crisp.
   Leaving the bacon fat in the pan, transfer the bacon to a paper towel-lined plate. Chop when cool enough to handle.
3. Add oil and onion to the pan and cook, stirring, for 2 minutes. Add mushrooms and cook, stirring, until softened, about 2 minutes more. Remove from the heat and stir in vinegar, mustard, pepper and salt. Pour the mushroom mixture over the kale and eggs. Add the bacon and toss to combine.

Tips & Notes
Note: Choose organic kale when possible. Nonorganic can have high pesticide residue.

Tip: To hard-boil eggs, place eggs in a single layer in a saucepan; cover with water. Bring to a simmer over medium-high heat. Reduce heat to low and cook at the barest simmer for 10 minutes. Remove from heat, pour out hot water and cover the eggs with ice-cold water. Let stand until cool enough to handle before peeling.

Wofford community,

The voicemail system has experienced a brief failure this morning. The issue is resolved, so callers can now leave you messages and you can access them.

However, there are some residual effects. The message waiting light functionality on your phone may be out of synchronization. This means that while there are no messages in your box, the light will remain on. To fix this, have someone call your extension and leave a brief (two words is all) message. Then go to voicemail and delete that message. This will force the phone and the voicemail system back into synch and the light will go out when your box is empty.

Let us know if you have any other questions or concerns,

The Help Center
A Message in Memory and Celebration of the life of Randall Heffron, Wofford Class of 2014, from the Walker/Heffron families:

The “welcome” sunflowers are placed in the foyer of Leonard Auditorium this week by the Walker/Heffron families to the Glory of God and in celebration of the life of Randall Heffron, Class of 2014. We are grateful to God for sending us Randall to know and to love; and, for the kind, humble, generous heart that shined in him each day. Best wishes for championship seasons to all Wofford athletes in memory of what would have been Randall’s senior season as a Terrier. The family sends a very special blessing to the Wofford Class of 2014. Randall will forever walk with you in spirit.

“Let your light shine before others, so that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father who is in heaven.” Matthew 5:16

Dear Members of the Wofford Community,

Last spring the College launched a planning process designed to determine the best strategic direction for the next phase of Wofford’s development. One strength of the process is that it engages many members of the community in articulating our aspirations for the College. As a newcomer, I can say firsthand that it is great to arrive here just as our community is considering how to make the most of the conditions and opportunities that will shape our future.

Our next step is to involve faculty, staff and students in a series of listening sessions to learn more about the qualities that make Wofford great and the strategies that will make these defining features even more powerful. In small group conversations among peers, we will also discuss ways to improve the way we manage the College, including structures to support collaboration, encourage internal communication and sustain our system of shared governance.

Participants will be chosen at random to be invited to these sessions and I am pleased that we have the capacity to include many community members in this phase. However, I am also eager to hear from anyone who wants to contribute to these conversations. If you do not receive an invitation to one of the sessions, please contact Boyce Lawton at LawtonBM@wofford.edu to be placed into a group. Also be assured that there are many other opportunities for wide participation as the planning process goes forward. If you cannot take part in this phase of the work, there will be many other times to join in.

Thank you all you will do to make this important process successful. I look forward to the ideas we will create together and to seeing you on campus very soon.

With best wishes and warm regards,

Nayef

TO: Faculty and Staff
FROM: Steve Traylor, Director of Intramurals, Recreation & Club Sports

Campus recreation is pleased to announce an exciting new development in the Faculty-Staff “Only” fitness class, free of charge, to be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. in the Richardson dance studio.

Dr. John Miles, Department of English, has recently earned certification as an instructor in vinyasa yoga and generously offered to give back to the Wofford community by leading a low-impact yoga class during this time. In vinyasa yoga, the goal is to follow the rhythm of your breath as you transition from one pose to another. The class will explore a range of poses designed to increase strength and flexibility, and to reduce stress.

Practitioners of all levels are invited. John is adept at introducing modifications during the practice to ensure everyone is comfortable and having fun with the movement. Due to a limited number of yoga mats available, you are encouraged to bring your own mat if you have one.

If you have any questions or would like to learn more, please contact John Miles (milesjd@wofford.edu) or class coordinators Lathrop Mosley (mosleylh@wofford.edu) and Mary Beth Knight (knightme@wofford.edu).

Wofford is fortunate to be able to offer high-quality fitness opportunities on campus. We hope you will take advantage of these opportunities and join us tomorrow!

Gallery Reception: Stephen Stinson Black and White Photographs
Date/Time: 9/19/2013 5:00:00 PM
Location: Martha Cloud Chapman Gallery
Details: For as long as he can remember Stephen Stinson has visually noticed the world around him. Becoming a photographer at an early age and graduating from the Art Institute of Atlanta with a degree in photography, he realized that being aware of his surroundings is part of who he is. “As an artist I see things and notice objects and light that others pass by without a thought.” Having spent his career as a photographer for advertising, corporate, and editorial clientele he has continued to photograph landscapes and the life around him. For this exhibition Stinson selected black and white images that all have a special meaning to him in his development as a photographer.

Apply Now: Independent Interim Research Projects

Details: If you are interested in proposing an Independent Research Project in the Humanities for January 2014, please contact Dr. Karen Goodchild. Topics for these interim projects can range from text-based scholarly research to more experiential, creative or travel-based undertakings. This means you might write a research paper, draft a screenplay, or create a series of paintings. You could practice travel writing in South America or collect oral histories in Kentucky — the options are wide open.
America or collect oral histories in Kentucky--many types of project are welcome! Proposals are due Oct. 23, so contact me as soon as possible with your ideas.

To: Wofford Faculty and Staff
From: President Samhat

Marion Peavey, Senior Vice President for Development and College Relations, who has served the college faithfully for the past 11 years, has announced his plans to retire from his full-time position as of Jan. 31, 2014. He will remain on the staff in a part-time capacity as Special Assistant to the President for Development through June 30. Marion has led the college in its largest fundraising campaign in Wofford’s history, raising more than $110 million in four years. He helped to establish many new Development and Alumni/Parent programs for Wofford and our constituents. He began his fundraising career in 1964 as a student leader at Wofford to raise funds to build the Sandor Teszler Library.

Following graduate school, Marion returned to Wofford in 1967 as a full-time member of the Development team. He later served at other institutions of higher education before returning to Wofford in 2002. He has been involved in fundraising and philanthropy for the past 50 years.

Please join me in thanking Marion for his 17 years of devoted service to Wofford College.

Arthur Vining Davis High Impact Fellows Luncheon
Date/Time: 9/26/2013 11:30:00 AM
Location: Holcombe Room, Burwell
Cost: Free
Details: The High Impact Fellows Program will be hosting a luncheon. The discussion topic is "Politics and Philosophy: The Struggle Over the School Curriculum" based on chapter 3 in the book Teaching to Change the World (on reserve in the Sandor Tezsler Library). RSVP as soon as possible if you would like to join us, we have about ten spaces available to join our 14 student High Impact Fellows. The chapter "explores how people in Western societies think about knowledge and schooling. The chapter reviews traditional and progressive educational philosophies and the role they have played in struggles over what schools should teach, how they should teach it, and to whom. These philosophies have consequences-explored throughout the book-that show up in every aspect of public education including school policies, curriculum, teacher preparation, relationships between students and teachers, and so on." Additional information about the book, and discussion questions, is available at http://www.teachingtochangetheworld.org/tools/index.html. Sponsored by the Arthur Vining Davis Foundations and Wofford's Center for Innovation and Learning.

Dear Colleagues,

Over the past 11 years, Wofford College has organized a street party in downtown Spartanburg during our Homecoming celebration. Although the early days saw modest crowds, it has now become an important and well attended event. One consistent feature of the street party is the presence of faculty members as “Beertenders.” This is great way to see alumni and catch up. In fact, some of our more recent alumni actually look forward to this event for that purpose. This year the street party will be early evening, Saturday, Oct. 12, 2013.

There are a small number of opportunities available should some faculty wish to participate this year as Beertenders. If interested, please email or contact John Lefebvre at lefebvrejc@wofford.edu or by calling 597-4639.

Thank you for your consideration.
