Wofford volleyball announces four additions February 21, 2006

Wofford head volleyball coach Corey Helle has announced the signing of four players to National Letters of Intent to begin play for the 2006 season after coming off the third-most wins in the program's Division I history (1995-present) in 2005. Joining the Terriers will be a Tennessee product and a trio from South Carolina.

"The best part of this group is the fact that we know each other personally," noted Helle. "All four have been to our camp; a couple have been several years.

"Secondly, all four are among the best young ladies I have ever come across. All four are connected and tight already, especially the three South Carolina athletes who have played club volleyball together. They all know each other and have committed to our program because another member of the class is coming also.

"Thirdly, they are also really good volleyball players. They have a passion for Wofford and this program. It is an exciting time and I cannot wait until August to start practice."

Two Terrier volleyball players inducted into Phi Beta Kappa May 2, 2006

Senior Wofford volleyball players Angela Berry and Katie Sobczyk were among an elite group of 20 students from the 2006 class to be recently inducted into Phi Beta Kappa. Both student-athletes are set to graduate May 14.

"An honor like this truly shows what leaders they both are on and off the court and campus," said Terrier head coach Corey Helle. "From being starters for our volleyball team to their various extracircullar activities, it shows just how talented both young ladies are. Angela and Katie are both well on their way to successful careers."

Phi Beta Kappa was founded on the campus of the College of William & Mary in Williamsburg, Va., Dec. 5, 1776. Past recipients include Presidents George H.W. Bush and Bill Clinton, along with six current Supreme Court justices.

Berry, a Modesto, Calif., native led the team in total blocks during her sophomore and senior campaigns. She registered a career-high 14 kills twice, versus Western Carolina and at East Tennessee State. She also studied abroad in Spain during the Spring 2005 semester and will receive her degree by double majoring in accounting and Spanish.

Sobczyk, a native of Genesee, Idaho, is one of five students on campus to be recognized as a Richardson Scholar. She led the team with 1,028 total attacks her freshman season and was named to the all-tournament team following the 2003 Winthrop/Hilton Garden Inn Invitational in Rock Hill, S.C. She also is double majoring in economics and finance and will receive her degree at the commencement ceremonies in front of Old Main. At the All-Sports Senior Banquet held Sunday evening, Sobczyk was also presented with the Hoole Award, given to the Wofford student-athlete with the highest cumulative grade-point average.

The two players, plus fellow senior Rhea DeJesus, helped guide the Terriers to a season sweep over Furman this past fall and the program's first-ever Southern Conference Tournament win with a first-round triumph against Elon.

The Wofford volleyball team, entering its fifth season under head coach Corey Helle, has announced it will play 14 times in the Benjamin Johnson Arena, highlighted by the second annual Enterprise Rent-A-Car Volleyball Classic.

"This schedule will allow us to be very competitive in a lot of matches and give our fans a collection of solid home contests," noted Helle. "We are excited to host a tournament for the second-straight year. Last year was a huge success and we only hope to build on that again this fall."

The home tournament will be a two-day event, Sept. 15 and 16. The Terriers will face Southern Conference foe Elon and UT-Martin Sept. 15 before a matchup with Campbell Sept. 16. The tournament format will be round-robin with each of the four teams squaring off against one another.
