QUEST. 11. Who have withdrawn from the connection this year?

None.

QUEST. 12. Were all the preachers' characters examined before the Conferences?
This was strictly attended to by calling over their names, one by one, before their respective Conferences.

QUEST. 13. Who have died this year?

1. Thomas Daughaday. —He was born in Baltimore county, in the state of Maryland, 1777, and departed this life in Uniontown, Fayette county, Pennsylvania, Oct. 13th, 1810. In the morning of his life he was brought (through the instrumentalty of the Methodist preachers) to experience the knowledge of salvation, by the remission of sin. He became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at Taylor's meeting-house, near Baltimore city, and was admitted on trial, as a travelling preacher, in May, 1798. He travelled and preached, with approbation and usefulness, in Maryland, Virginia, and Pennsylvania, until 1802, at which time he received a location on account of affliction of body. But, notwithstanding he continued extremely debilitated, yet his mind not being tranquil, and the worth of soul lying near his heart, in 1805 he again united himself to the errant connection, from which he departed no more till the wheels of life stood still. Thomas Daughaday was a man of a solemn constitution, but great meekness of spirit, gentleness of manners, and goodness of heart.

He suffered much in the last year of his life from a cough and pain in his breast, and frequently spitted blood. Nevertheless, he still exerted the feebler remains of dying nature in proclaiming everlasting salvation through Jesus Christ, to the lost and ruined world.

He bore his last illness with great patience and resignation. He saw death approaching with rapid strides; but, through the promises of the gospel and the consolations of the Spirit, he was enabled to meet the king of terrors without dismay. And even when death had nearly completed his work of ruin over all in him that he was heard to articulate were, "Glory! glory!"

And then, like an expiring lamp, or the setting sun without a cloud, he felt asleep. He has left a widow and two children to mourn the loss of an affectionate husband and tender father; and the name of Daughaday will long be dear to many in all the stations where he travelled.

2. Thos. Budd,—a native of New Mills, Burlington county, state of New-Jersey. He was born February 19, 1783, and about the year 1800 was converted to God, and attached himself to the Methodist Church. He was received as a travelling preacher at the Philadelphia Conference in 1803, and appointed to Rodestone circuit. He travelled Berkley in 1804, Clarksburg in 1805, Greenbrier in 1806; he was appointed to Fell's Point's and Fell's Point circuit in 1807, Montgomery in 1808, Burlington in 1809, and stationed in Philadelphia in 1810, where he ended his days in peace, July 19th, in the 28th year of his age, and the seventh of his ministry.

He died of a pulmonary affection, a complaint to which he was constitutionally predisposed; it was sudden in its attack, and progressed rapidly to a fatal termination. Thomas Budd was a man of good natural and improved principles; he was both acceptable and estimable as a preacher, and deservedly esteemed as a friend; and in all the stations he filled; he was a man of good moral character, and pious in his life and conduct; he was open and free in his manners, a stranger to dissimulation, capable of warm attachments and friendship, and exceedingly candid and frank in his general character. In the first of his illness his mind was much depressed, occasioned by the doubts he entertained of his acceptance of the Lord; but it pleased God that his state of mind should not long continue, for the cloud suddenly burst, and his soul was filled with joy and peace in believing; and although he was frequently harassed with temptations afterward, yet at intervals he rejoiced in the love of his salvation, and proclaimed his dependence on the God of his salvation, and announced his hope and a prayer, that he might be delivered to those that were present if they did not also experience the same consolation.

He was asked, some few hours before his dissolution, whether he knew his end was approaching, and also, whether he felt ready to meet it. He answered, he had no presentiment that death was very near; but that if it was the will of God, he had rather go at that time, unless he had the fullest assurance that at a future period he should feel his mind in the same happy frame it then was. The day after his death, his remains were taken to New-Mills, accompanied by a number of his friends, to the house within four rods of the place of his birth. A sermon was preached on the occasion by one of his colleagues, to a large and deeply affected congregation, on these words of the celebrated apostle St. Paul, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day," 2 Timi iv, 7, 8.

3. William Keith,—who was born in the town of Easton, Massachusetts, September 15, 1776. By the account which he has left of himself, he had serious exercises of mind from a very early age; but by the influence of bad example, he was kept under bondage to sin, till some time in the month of May, 1794, in his eighteenth year, when in a love-feast he found the peace of God to his soul. He soon after joined the Methodist Church, and was faithful in the discharge of his duty as a private member. It was not long, however, before he felt his mind exercised about preaching the gospel of the Son of God. He felt that reluctance to the work which is common to those who are sensible of its importance, and their own inadequacy to the task. After many severe exercises and sore conflicts, he, in the year 1798, tremblingly entered the work of the ministry; and it was soon seen that he was in the order of God, by the visible fruits of his labours in the Lord. During his years stationed on Albany circuit, "Having to ride," says he, "three hundred miles in four weeks, and preach forty-three times, and sometimes travel on foot through storms and snows, I was so worn out, that in the month of April, 1799, I returned home unable to ride any more." Accounts of his account, after deserting from travelling, though he maintained the form, and supported an unspotted character as to his outward deportment, he insensibly lost the inward life and power, of religion in a considerable degree. Some of the preachers, seeing his danger, reproved him in too hard a manner; instead of reclaiming him, he tended to prejudice his mind against them, and to sink him into dejection, so that in the autumn of 1801 he withdrew from the connection. * While in this state he visited various denominations, by some of whom he was solicited to join himself as a minister; but to this he could not consent. For nine years, he considered it his duty to return to the people from whom he had withdrawn. On this occasion he says, "As soon as I consented to bear the cross, and join the Methodists again, I felt a return of the favour of God, and could truly say, My Jesus is mine and I am his." He laboured as a local preacher about two years, when he again entered the itinerant connection, in which he continued until his death. In the years 1806 and 1807 he was stationed on Newburg circuit, and in 1808 on Montgomery, at which places, and, indeed, wherever he was stationed, he was received by the people as a messenger of God; for his ministerial labours were blessed to many. In 1809 he was stationed in New-York, where he ended his days, September 7, 1810, aged 33 years, 11 months, and 22 days. He wasted away, by slow and almost imperceptible degrees, with the consumption; but patience was made perfect in his sufferings. The writer of this memoir lived under the same roof with him for about two months of his last illness, and therefore had an opportunity of observing him attentively. *See his Experience, written by himself, pages 20 and 21.
For some time previous to his death he was unable to articulate loud, so that he could converse but little. Though he frequently expressed his want of sensible consolation, and a desire for greater manifestations of God’s joyful countenance, yet no murmuring word was heard to drop from his lips, nor any consciousness of condemnation. A pleasant, smiling countenance, visibly indicated the inward serenity of his mind.

A few days before his happy spirit departed, he said, “The fear of death and hell is wholly taken away, and I have a hope of immortality.” He also said, that he formed the plan of salvation were the same as they had been since he embraced the religion of Jesus Christ; and that we might tell his friends, that he died in the Lord.

One distinguishing trait in the character of William Keigh was humility. Perhaps no man ever possessed more real excellence, and at the same time had a less opinion of himself. Perhaps this was cause of that dejection of mind which was sometimes visible, and which, no doubt, prevented him from enjoying himself as well as he otherwise might have done. Another peculiar excellence with which the great Head of the Church endowed him was clearness of perception, readiness of utterance, and comprehension in argument. It has been remarked that he possessed the happy art of expressing much useful matter in a few well chosen words. Sound in doctrine, virtuous, and so prepare to receive the consolation, and a desire for greater divine consolation. He retained hisconstancy to the last. With the deepest humidity, modesty, and triumph, he said, “I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of life.”

He sat in his chair till a few moments before he died. He then desired to be laid on the bed; then he desired to be put on his knees, in which position he expired on the 17th day of June, 1810, with all that tranquillity and holy triumph which the consideration of a life devoted to God, a sense of the divine presence, and a prospect of an eternal weight of glory are calcu-

It is a circumstance worthy of observation, that so many of our brethren in the ministry have fallen into the arms of death in the morning of life, and in the midst of usefulness. The most promising flowers have been suddenly taken from earth; but, we trust, to be transplanted in a richer soil, and more favourable clime. While we behold with wonder, let us adore with trembling the government of Jehovah, whose footsteps are in the great deep, and his ways past finding out.

N. B. It is not altogether on the testimony of others, that I have given to our dear brother Hunt the above character; I have been intimately acquainted with him, and can say with propriety, I have known but few in whom so many Christian and ministerial excellencies were united.

5. Gideon A. Knowlton,—a native of Connecticut, born in East Haddam, in which town he was called to the pastoral office on the 15th of August, 1810, aged 51 years. Immediately after his return from the Genesee Conference, which was held in Lyons, July, 1810, he was seized with a violent fever, that continued to increase till it terminated in death. Through the course of his illness he manifested an entire resignation to God, and frequently expressed an enjoyment of his forgiving love. While enduring the last agonies of dissolving nature he frequently exclaimed, “How sweet is pain when Christ is near!” A few days before his death he called his wife and two daughters to his bed, and after having clasped each by the hand, he bid them all farewell. “You have often,” said he, “looked and wished for my return home; I am now going to my eternal home; be faithful, and we shall meet again to part no more for ever.” In consequence of the violence of his fever, in the last three days before his exit, he was frequently delirious; however, the day before he died, he said to his physician, in the most confident manner, “I know that my Redeemer liveth.” Having thus given satisfactory evidence of his confidence in God, he closed his eyes in death, and no doubt made his flight to the abodes of peace.

Our late brother Knowlton, we believe, was a deeply experienced Christian; a plain, practical, and useful preacher. And such was his faithfulness in attending his appointments, that it became proverbial in stormy weather, “It is Knowlton’s appointment, he will be there; we must attend.” He is taken from a world of toil and pain to reap his great reward in heaven; for, “blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them.”
