Faculty, staff and students:

Please join me in congratulating our own Dr. Carol B. Wilson, professor of English and coordinator of academic advising, for being selected for the inaugural All-Southern Conference Faculty Team announced this week by the athletics league of which Wofford is a member.

Representatives from all 10 member colleges were recognized by the league. The recipients all share some of these common characteristics: demonstrated service to the institution, proven record of high scholastic achievement among students, recognition for a research project or written academic piece; and contributions to campus life and the local community.

Carol began teaching and advising at Wofford in 1984 as an adjunct lecturer before earning tenure in 2007 and being named professor in 2014. Wofford’s first coordinator of academic advising, she has helped shape her alma mater’s developmental model of academic advising for first- and second-year students since the position’s creation in 2010. In her role, she has worked with leaders in several departments and programs on campus to improve communication as they support students. Her academic fields of interest include 20th century American and British literature, and she teaches in multiple areas of literary interest.

Others on the All-Southern Conference Faculty Team are: Dr. Scott Buchanan (The Citadel), Dr. Randy Byington (East Tennessee State University), Dr. J. Aaron Simmons (Furman University), Dr. Adam Kiefer (Mercer University), Dr. Nicholas Oberlies (University of North Carolina Greensboro), Dr. Elizabeth Dobbins (Samford University), Dr. Michael Jones (University of Tennessee at Chattanooga), Col. James Turner (Virginia Military Institute – VMI) and Dr. Hollye Moss (Western Carolina University).

Congratulations, Carol!

Culture Events at Wofford College and around Spartanburg, week of January 10, 2016

Culture Events at Wofford:

Ongoing:
3D: Optic Wonders from Special Collections, Sandor Teszler Library Gallery
Stereoscopes are making a comeback—Get ready to see the world as it appeared more than 100 years ago! The stereoscope, a small headset-viewer introduced to the public at the 1851 Crystal Palace Exhibition in London, mimics the brain’s ability to combine different perspectives from the left and right eyes to perceive depth. Stereoscopes allow for 3D views that give the illusion of immersion in a scene. Viewers in the 19th and early 20th centuries found themselves transported to faraway locales, luxurious palace interiors, and modern industrial sites. In this exhibition, images from stereographs held in Special Collections are enlarged 1200 percent and converted into anaglyph 3D, viewable with the red-and-blue-lensed glasses provided.
November 30, 2015 – February 26, 2016

The Lives of the Artists by Margherita Cole (2015 Whetsell Fellowship Exhibition), Martha Cloud Chapman Gallery
Margherita Cole started drawing comics at seven years old, parodying her beloved pet dog as a part-time superhero. Since then, she has continued to draw various subjects and styles throughout her math classes, until one year she serendipitously decided to take AP Art History in high school—which forevermore changed the way she looked at history and artists, focusing on their lives when they were living, instead of their legacy after death. “The Lives of the Artists” features some of the world’s finest and most infamous artists and their patrons in comics. As Vasari was obsessed with the Renaissance artists and their fabulous lives, Cole spent her summer bringing Leonardo, Michelangelo, Raphael, Caravaggio, The Amazing Bernini, and many others back to life. To come and witness their cartoon shenanigans, stop by the Martha Cloud gallery November 5th from 4-6pm for the reception, and anytime afterwards until the end January.

The American Red Cross has an urgent need for blood and platelet donations to help prevent a shortage of blood products this January. Please relay these key messages to donors at upcoming drives.

- Thank you for donating today. Your lifesaving gift can help prevent a shortage and ensure a sufficient supply is available for patients.

- The Red Cross urgently needs blood and platelet donors of all blood types to roll up a sleeve to help replenish the blood supply.

- Please ask your friends and family to consider donating blood or platelets to prevent a winter blood shortage. If at least two more donors – above what’s currently expected – come to donate at every Red Cross blood drive in January, a shortage can be averted.

- If you haven’t downloaded the free Blood Donor App yet, you can get it by texting BLOODAPP to 90999 or by visiting redcrossblood.org/bloodapp.

  o You can now view your health history information, including blood pressure, hemoglobin levels and pulse rate, on the donor card within the most recent version of the app.

- You can save time at your next donation by using RapidPass to complete your pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of your donation, from a home or work computer prior to arriving at the blood drive or blood donation center. To get started and learn more, visit redcrossblood.org/RapidPass and follow the instructions on the site.

Blood Drive Bulletin

JANUARY 11, 2016 - FOR AMERICAN RED CROSS BLOOD SERVICES EMPLOYEES

The American Red Cross has an urgent need for blood and platelet donations to help prevent a shortage of blood products this January. Please relay these key messages to donors at upcoming drives.

- Thank you for donating today. Your lifesaving gift can help prevent a shortage and ensure a sufficient supply is available for patients.
- The Red Cross urgently needs blood and platelet donors of all blood types to roll up a sleeve to help replenish the blood supply.
- Please ask your friends and family to consider donating blood or platelets to prevent a winter blood shortage. If at least two more donors – above what’s currently expected – come to donate at every Red Cross blood drive in January, a shortage can be averted.
- If you haven’t downloaded the free Blood Donor App yet, you can get it by texting BLOODAPP to 90999 or by visiting reddcrossblood.org/bloodapp.
  - You can now view your health history information, including blood pressure, hemoglobin levels and pulse rate, on the donor card within the most recent version of the app.
- You can save time at your next donation by using RapidPass to complete your pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of your donation, from a home or work computer prior to arriving at the blood drive or blood donation center. To get started and learn more, visit redcrossblood.org/RapidPass and follow the instructions on the site.

3D: Optic Wonders from Special Collections, Sandor Teszler Library Gallery
Stereoscopes are making a comeback—Get ready to see the world as it appeared more than 100 years ago! The stereoscope, a small headset-viewer introduced to the public at the 1851 Crystal Palace Exhibition in London, mimics the brain’s ability to combine different perspectives from the left and right eyes to perceive depth. Stereoscopes allow for 3D views that give the illusion of immersion in a scene. Viewers in the 19th and early 20th centuries found themselves transported to faraway locales, luxurious palace interiors, and modern industrial sites. In this exhibition, images from stereographs held in Special Collections are enlarged 1200 percent and converted into anaglyph 3D, viewable with the red-and-blue-lensed glasses provided.

The Lives of the Artists by Margherita Cole (2015 Whetsell Fellowship Exhibition), Martha Cloud Chapman Gallery
Margherita Cole started drawing comics at seven years old, parodying her beloved pet dog as a part-time superhero. Since then, she has continued to draw various subjects and styles throughout her math classes, until one year she serendipitously decided to take AP Art History in high school—which forevermore changed the way she looked at history and artists, focusing on their lives when they were living, instead of their legacy after death. “The Lives of the Artists” features some of the world’s finest and most infamous artists and their patrons in comics. As Vasari was obsessed with the Renaissance artists and their fabulous lives, Cole spent her summer bringing Leonardo, Michelangelo, Raphael, Caravaggio, The Amazing Bernini, and many others back to life. To come and witness their cartoon shenanigans, stop by the Martha Cloud gallery November 5th from 4-6pm for the reception, and anytime afterwards until the end January.

Lunch & Learn: “Wherever There is Light”, 12:30 – 1:30pm, Chapman Cultural Center
Join Spartanburg County Historical Association and author Peter Golden for a discussion of "Wherever There is Light," a sweeping, panoramic, historical novel that covers three generations in the intertwined lives of two families—the Roses, who are Jewish, and the Wakefields, who are African American. The novel delves into the little known history of the rescue of German Jews from the Nazis by traditionally African-American colleges. Julian Rose, a former bootlegger, and his love interest, Kendall Ann Wakefield, whose family founded the college and becomes a world-renowned photographer, are the main protagonists of the story. The novel looks at the problems of interracial love affairs starting in 1938 and takes place in New Jersey, South Florida, Greenwich Village and Paris. And concludes in 1966 by tracing the fate of all the characters, both major and minor, as they struggle to come to grips with the fact they were all as haunted by the times they lived in as they were by their own private battles.
Peter Golden is an award-winning journalist, historian, and novelist who during the course of a long and varied career has interviewed Presidents Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford, Ronald Reagan, and George H.W. Bush; Secretaries of State Henry Kissinger, Alexander Haig, George Shultz, and Lawrence Eagleburger; Israeli Prime Ministers Yitzhak Rabin, Shimon Peres, and Yitzhak Shamir; and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev.

Converse Opera Theatre: The Merry Widow, Twichell Auditorium, Converse College

One of the most well known operettas in the repertoire, Franz Lehár’s comedy The Merry Widow has continually delighted audiences world-wide since its 1905 premiere in Vienna. The lush music of its famous song “Vilja,” as well as “I’m going to Maxim’s” and “The Merry Widow Waltz,” highlights this story of a newly widowed millionairess and her countrymen’s efforts to keep her accounts within the borders of their homeland of Petrovenia. If she remarries to a foreigner, her millions will exit the country, thus leaving Petrovenia a bankrupted nation.

The production, which is a joint effort between the Spartanburg Repertory Company, Converse Opera Theater, and Theater Converse, will feature costumes by Melissa Owens, sets by Meg Tominaga, lighting by Boone Hopkins (all three of Theater Converse) with Keith Jones (music director and conductor of Converse Opera Theater) conducting. The stage director is Stafford Turner, assisted by Aimée Dumouchel Gans.

From: Dr. Kara L. Bopp
Chair, Provost Search Committee

Subject: Provost Search Update

This is another in the series of memos intended to keep you apprised of the work of the provost search committee.

I am happy to report that the search for the next Wofford provost is progressing well and remains on schedule. The closing date for applications was Dec. 31. The search committee met on Jan. 5 and began to select candidates whose backgrounds and experiences were believed to be consistent with the qualifications established for the Wofford provost position. The committee met again on Friday, Jan. 15, to extend our evaluation and select a small number of candidates who will be invited to confidential preliminary interviews with the search committee and President Samhat in late-January. Upon completion of that round of interviews, the committee will select finalists who will be invited to visit and interview with the Wofford campus community in early to mid-February.

We are extremely pleased with the quantity (95 applications!) and especially quality of the candidate pool. We continue to be mindful of the need for complete confidentiality for all candidates. Given that our remaining candidates are engaged in other assignments with significant responsibilities, we do not want to prematurely expose their interest in Wofford’s provost search as it could result in their withdrawing from our search.

Thank you for your continued interest and support in this important process. If you have any questions please feel free to contact me at BoppKL@wofford.edu. Best wishes for every success as we complete Interim and prepare for the spring semester ahead!

Re: Classes CANCELED Friday, Jan. 22

Wofford College has CANCELED classes for tomorrow, Friday, Jan. 22, for those Interim classes that meet on campus due to impending severe winter weather. This decision was made based on the latest reports from the National Weather Service, which is calling for the winter storm to hit the Upstate and Foothills beginning around midnight tonight and continuing until Saturday afternoon/evening. Depending on location, this means rain, freezing rain, sleet and/or snow or a mixture. Possible accumulations vary, again depending on location.

College offices also will be closed and only essential personnel should report as directed by your supervisor; staff should take no undue risk to travel to campus.

Students interning during Interim should take direction from their supervisors, but they should not take any undue risk in traveling on dangerous roads.

We caution students, faculty and staff who remain on campus to be aware of falling ice from trees, buildings and building awnings. Our facilities staff will work diligently to clear major sidewalks and roads/drives through campus, but please be cautious when walking or driving on campus. We urge you to stay indoors as much as possible, and urge students to remain on campus rather than risk taking vehicles on hazardous roads.

Students are reminded that they will have NO access to any of the campus athletics facilities for sledding or other similar activities. Students also are reminded that they are NOT ALLOWED to pull anyone or anything behind their vehicles in the ice and snow. These activities are dangerous, and we have had a number of accidents and injuries in the past.

Food Service: Aramark will operate on a modified schedule, with Burwell Dining Hall opening at 8:30 a.m. Friday for breakfast. Zach’s and the Galleria will open later in the day, depending on the weather and available staffing. We will keep the student body informed of those openings as much as possible. Unless you are notified otherwise, regular food service operations will resume on Saturday. (Note: The faculty/staff dining room will remain closed.)

Please note these event changes:

- The women’s basketball game at Western Carolina Saturday afternoon has been postponed to 3:30 p.m. Sunday. That game can be seen on live stream at WatchESPN.com and followed on live stats at woffordterriers.com.
- The men’s tennis team has moved two of its matches as well. Saturday’s match at Winthrop has been postponed and will now be played at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 27, in Rock Hill. Sunday’s home opener against The Citadel at Reeves Tennis Center also has been moved back and will start at noon instead of 10 a.m., the original start time.

Cultural Events at Wofford College and around Spartanburg, week of January 25, 2016

Culture Events at Wofford:

Ongoing:
3D: Optic Wonders from Special Collections, Sandor Teszler Library Gallery
Stereoscopes are making a comeback—Get ready to see the world as it appeared more than 100 years ago! The stereoscope, a small headset-viewer introduced to the public at the 1851 Crystal Palace Exhibition in London, mimics the brain’s ability to combine different perspectives from the left and right eyes to perceive depth. Stereoscopes allow for 3D views that give the illusion of immersion in a scene. Viewers in the 19th and early 20th centuries found themselves transported to faraway locales, luxurious palace interiors, and modern industrial sites. In this exhibition, images from stereographs held in Special Collections are enlarged 1200 percent and converted into anaglyph 3D, viewable with the red-and-blue-lensed glasses provided.

The Lives of the Artists by Margherita Cole (2015 Whetsell Fellowship Exhibition), Martha Cloud Chapman Gallery
Margherita Cole started drawing comics at seven years old, parodying her beloved pet dog as a part-time superhero. Since then, she has continued to draw various subjects and styles throughout her math classes, until one year she serendipitously decided to take AP Art History in high school—which forevermore changed the way she looked at history and artists, focusing on their lives when they were living, instead of their legacy after death. “The Lives of the Artists” features some of the world’s finest and most infamous artists and their patrons in comics. As Vasari was obsessed with the Renaissance artists and their fabulous lives, Cole spent her summer bringing Leonardo, Michelangelo, Raphael, Caravaggio, The Amazing Bernini, and many others back to life. To come and witness their cartoon shenanigans, stop by the Martha Cloud gallery November 5th from 4-6pm for the reception, and anytime afterwards until the end January.

Lunch & Learn: “Wherever There is Light”, 12:30pm – 1:30pm, Chapman Cultural Center
rescheduled from Jan. 22
Join Spartanburg County Historical Association and author Peter Golden for a discussion of "Wherever There is Light," a sweeping, panoramic, historical novel that covers three generations in the intertwined lives of two families—the Roses, who are Jewish, and the Wakefields, who are African American. The novel delves into the little known history of the rescue of German Jews from the Nazis by traditionally African-American colleges. Julian Rose, a former bootlegger, and his love interest, Kendall Ann Wakefield, whose family founded the college and becomes a world-renowned photographer, are the main protagonists of the story. The novel looks at the problems of interracial love affairs starting in 1938 and takes place in New Jersey, South Florida, Greenwich Village and Paris. And concludes in 1966 by tracing the fate of all the characters, both major and minor, as they struggle to come to grips with the fact they were all as haunted by the times they lived in as they were by their own private battles.
Peter Golden is an award-winning journalist, historian, and novelist who during the course of a long and varied career has interviewed Presidents Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford, Ronald Reagan, and George H.W. Bush; Secretaries of State Henry Kissinger, Alexander Haig, George Shultz, and Lawrence Eagleburger; Israeli Prime Ministers Yitzhak Rabin, Shimon Peres, and Yitzhak Shamir; and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev.

Reception: Cognitive Dissonance, 6:00pm – 8:00pm, Spartanburg Art Museum Cognitive Dissonance collects [nine] artists who hold a contrary view. It does not matter how perfect the political system, how egalitarian the access for information or how baroque the manners and mores of a society—it remains imperfect. Humans are the brick with which any society is constructed—and this necessary element is imperfect. People are as corrupt, superstitious and altruistic today as they were when the first man painted buffalo’s on a cave in Lascaux, France. Society is only as perfect as the material it is forged from. Just as ceramics is only as pure as the material it is made from. Faced with this assertion, nihilism becomes seductive. The artists selected to be in Cognitive Dissonance all eschew this assumption. Their works affirm that imperfection is not only essential but in some ways glorious. As such, the lively experiment started in Rhode Island, continues today and perpetually. —Anthony Merino, curator
