Wofford pair leads Terriers to third-place finish February 26, 2007

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. -- The Wofford duo of sophomore Erin Wells and senior Laura Parris tied for seventh in leading the Terrier women's golf team to a third-place result over the weekend at the spring opener, the Bethune-Cookman Spring Invitational, in Daytona Beach, Fla.

Both Wofford players shot an identical 77-80--157 (+13) to finish six shots behind medalist Rachel Edwards of Daytona Beach Community College. Edwards, playing for the 2003-05 NAIA champion, carded a 74-77--151 (+7) to finish one shot ahead of host Bethune-Cookman's Fern Grimshaw and Charleston Southern's Olivia Higgins.

Sophomore Colleen Rice posted an 81-80--161 (+17) to finish in 15th place for the Terriers, while rookie Ellen Kvarby registered an 87-81--168 (+24) to tie with two others for 28th place.

Freshman Sarah Herbert rounded out the Wofford contingent with a 38th-place result and 32-over par 92-84--176.

Daytona Beach Community College captured the team title in the 11-team field on the par 72, 5,913-yard Indigo Lakes Golf Course.

Wofford trio in top 10 puts Terriers in first after day one March 5, 2007

SPARTANBURG, S.C. -- Three Wofford players in the top 10, highlighted by sophomore Erin Wells in a tie for first, places the Terriers in first by five strokes following day one action Monday at the Diet Coke Wofford Intercollegiate at The Carolina Country Club in Spartanburg, S.C. The 36-hole, two-day event will conclude Tuesday on the par 72, 5,847-yard course.

Wells, who is tied with Gardner-Webb's Claudine Foong for first with a 2-over par, enters the final round with a chance at her third-straight top-10 result. Wells carded a 37-37--74, while Foong posted a 38-36--74 as the pair leads the next set of individuals by one shot.

Among the group one stroke back is Wofford freshman Sarah Herbert. She is tied with two others after registering a 38-37--75 (+3). Rounding out the Terriers in the top 10 is sophomore Colleen Rice. Rice is among a trio of players tied but her 39-40--79 (+7) puts the contingent in 10th.

Gardner-Webb and High Point also have three players in the top 10 with Jacksonville earning two slots and Old Dominion one in the set.

Wofford senior Laura Parris, playing in her final home tournament, is tied for 13th with a 37-43--80 (+8), three shots ahead of teammate, rookie Ellen Kvarby. Kvarby notched a 41-42--83 (+11) to tie for 18th after the opening 18 holes.

The final Terrier in the field and playing as an individual is freshman Shelly McLaughlin. She is in 33rd place after tallying rounds of 49-50--99 (+27).

High Point's Jenna Kinnear is the top individual among the three not counting towards their team scores. She is tied with Rice for 10th after a 37-42--79 (+7) effort.

Gardner-Webb's 313 trails Wofford's 308 but is six shots better than the third-place tying 319s by Jacksonville and High Point.

Wells makes history in winning title; Terriers capture team crown March 6, 2007

SPARTANBURG, S.C. -- Wofford sophomore Erin Wells made program history by winning the individual title, while the Terriers distanced themselves from the field on day two to capture the team crown at the Diet Coke Wofford Intercollegiate at The Carolina Country Club in Spartanburg, S.C.

Wells, who was tied for first after Monday's opening round, shot the tournament's only under par round Tuesday to garner the first individual title by a Terrier women's player in program history. Her 74-71--145 (+1) was three shots better than second-place Claudine Foong of Gardner-Webb, who carded a 74-74--148 (+4). The pair had entered Tuesday's final 18 holes with a one shot advantage over the next set of players. Wells now has registered three-straight top-10 results and four overall during the 2006-07 campaign.

Wofford remained consistent as a team with a 308-308--616 (+40) to pull ahead in the team standings by 12 strokes over second-place Gardner-Webb. The Bulldogs posted a 313-315--628 (+52).

The Terriers' team crown is the third in program history, which started in 1996, and third since Wofford hired Angie Ridgeway as head coach prior to 2004-05 campaign. Senior Laura Parris is the only Terrier player to be a part of all three team tournament championships.

Parris charged into the top 10 individuals by lowering her score by five strokes on the second day and finishing in sixth place with an 80-75--155 (+11), just four shots out of third place.

Sophomore Colleen Rice also was among the top-10 players with an eighth-place tying 79-80--159 (+15), equaling the effort by two other players in the field.

Freshman Sarah Herbert, who was tied for third after the first 18 holes, dropped back into an 11th-place tying result with a 75-85--160 (+16). Her classmate, Ellen Kvarby, concluded the Wofford contingent with an 83-82--165 (+21) to tie for 21st.

Rounding out the Terriers was rookie Shelly McLaughlin. She played as an individual and finished 32nd after a 47-over par 99-92--191.

Gardner-Webb was the only other school to place three players in the top 10 but Jacksonville and High Point tallied two apiece.

Wofford will continue its spring season March 12-13 at the North/South Intercollegiate in Jacksonville Beach, Fla.

Wells continues strong play with second-place tying finish
March 14, 2007

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla. -- Wofford sophomore Erin Wells registered her fourth-straight top-10 finish as the Terrier women's golf team concluded play Tuesday at the North/South Intercollegiate on the par 72, 5,835-yard Jacksonville Beach Golf Course in Jacksonville Beach, Fla. Wofford placed fourth out of 18 teams in the team standings.

Wells, who last week became the Terriers' first-ever individual medalist by winning the Diet Coke Wofford Intercollegiate, led after the opening 18 holes this week before tying for second place, along with Evansville's Crissy Higgins, with a 71-77--148 (+4). Jackson State's Shasta Averyhardt was the individual winner with a 1-over par 145.

The Louisville, Ky., product now has four-straight top-10 results this season and five overall in 2006-07. She tallied only one as a freshman last year. Her effort, combined with her teammates' strong opening

Senior Laura Parris again was the next Terrier on the leaderboard with a 14-over par 75-83--158 to tie for 17th. She finished two strokes ahead of rookie Ellen Kvarby, who tied for 23rd after posting an 82-78--160 (+16). The 78 Tuesday matches Kvarby's career-best round.

Fellow freshman Sarah Herbert was the other Wofford player to contribute to the team score. She shot an 84-85--169 (+25) to tie for 55th. Classmate Shelly McLaughlin was the final Terrier in the field, recording a 93-99--192 (+48) to finish in 88th place.

Jacksonville captured the team title, four shots ahead of Bethune-Cookman and Northern Iowa.

Wofford will conclude the regular-season portion of its slate April 2-3 at the Tina Barrett Longwood Invitational at the Poplar Hill Golf Club in Farmville, Va.

Wells, Parris in top 10 as Terrier women's golf places seventh April 3, 2007

FARMVILLE, Va. -- Sophomore Erin Wells and senior Laura Parris each earned a top-10 result and the Wofford women's golf team placed seventh out of 13 schools Tuesday at the Tina Barrett/Longwood Invitational in Farmville, Va. The 54-hole, two-day event on the par 72, 6,108-yard course concludes the regular season slate for the Terriers.

Wells was among four players who tied for fourth after she posted an 80-76-79--235 (+19). The finish is her fifth consecutive top-10 result, including all four tournaments this spring.

Parris made a late charge into the top 10 after ending day one tied for 17th. She finished tied for eighth with three others following an 82-78-79--239 (+23).

Sophomore Colleen Rice was the next Wofford scorer with a 33rd-place tying 82-86-80--248 (+32), two shots ahead of freshman Sarah Herbert who carded an 86-84-80--250 (+34) to garner a 38th-place result.

Rookie Ellen Kvarby was the final Terrier in the clubhouse with a 44th-place tying 87-84-84--255 (+39).

James Madison's Diana Meza captured the individual title with a 12-over par 228, while Methodist won the team crown with an 80-over par 944.

Wofford will conclude its 2006-07 slate April 15-17 at the Southern Conference Championship to be held at Patriots Point Links in Mt. Pleasant, S.C.

Weather cancels round one of SoCon Championship
April 15, 2007

MT. PLEASANT, S.C. -- Inclement weather conditions, including rain and wind gusts of near 60 miles per hour, have forced Sunday's opening round action of the Southern Conference women's golf championship to be cancelled.

The tournament, slated for action at Patriots Point Links in Mt. Pleasant, S.C., was set to begin Sunday morning but was postponed until Sunday afternoon due to the weather. However, as the day progressed, the weather patterns continued and play was called off.

Teams will look to hit the course Monday and Tuesday as planned with 18 holes scheduled for each day.

Herbert's career-low 73 leads Terriers at SoCon Championship April 17, 2007

MT. PLEASANT, S.C. -- Freshman Sarah Herbert capped her rookie campaign Tuesday by posting her lowest score-to-date in a Wofford uniform in leading the Terriers to a seventh-place team finish at the Southern Conference women's golf championship at Patriots Point Links in Mt. Pleasant, S.C. The Pendleton, S.C., native was the top Wofford scorer, as the Terriers lowered their team total by 23 strokes from Monday's opening round. The 23-shot improvement was the best of the eight schools.

Wofford matched its highest finish ever in the event with the seventh-place result following a 338-315--653 (+77). Western Carolina captured the league's automatic bid to the NCAA Championship following a 28-over par 312-292--604.

Herbert fired a career-low 73 on the second 18 holes, two shots better than her previous 18-hole low set during the opening round of the Diet Coke Wofford Intercollegiate March 5, to earn a spot in the top 20 individuals. She finished tied for 18th after her 85-73--158 (+14). The 158 over 36 holes and +14 also are career-best results.

Her classmate, Ellen Kvarby, was the next Terrier on the scoreboard with a 27th-place tying 82-80--162 (+18). She finished one stroke ahead of sophomore Erin Wells, who registered an 83-80--163 (+19) to tie for 29th.

Senior Laura Parris concluded her Wofford career in 33rd place following an 88-82--170 (+26).

Rounding out the Terriers in the field was freshman Shelly McLaughlin in 37th place. She posted a 99-93--192 (+48) and did not factor into the team score either day.

Furman's Blair Lamb used two playoff holes to defeat Western Carolina's Kandy Carland in the race for medalist honors. Both players shot a 71 Tuesday but Lamb's second-straight par during the extra hole proved to be the difference.

March's best women's golfer is Wofford's Wells
April 19, 2007

SPARTANBURG, S.C. -- Wofford sophomore women's golfer Erin Wells has received her second honor from the Southern Conference this spring by being named the league's top women's golfer for March. The Louisville, Ky., native was previously tabbed the SoCon Player of the Week March 14.

Wells made Terrier history March 5-6 when she captured the first-ever individual title since the program was started in 1996. She fired a 74-71--145 (+1) to win the Diet Coke Wofford Intercollegiate at The Carolina Country Club in Spartanburg, S.C. The 71 during the second round was the only under-par effort among the field and provided her a three-stroke victory in helping guide the Terriers to the team championship as well.

She returned the next week and finished in a tie for second at the North/South Intercollegiate March 12-13 in Jacksonville Beach, Fla. Wells carded a 4-over 148 during the event to garner her then fourth-straight top-10 result. She had led the field with an opening-round 71.

Her stroke average during the two events was a team-best 73.25 while shooting 5-over par.

Wells tabbed as Wofford's first All-SoCon selection April 23, 2007

SPARTANBURG, S.C. -- Wofford sophomore women's golfer Erin Wells was recently announced as the school's first-ever representative to the All-Southern Conference squad. She was one of five automatic selections on the 11-member team. The other six were voted upon by the league's head coaches after the conclusion of play at the SoCon Championship last week in Mt. Pleasant, S.C.

Wells completed one of the top seasons in program history during the 2006-07 campaign. The highlight came when she captured the Terriers' first individual title with a 1-over par 74-71--145 to win the Diet Coke Wofford Intercollegiate in March at The Carolina Country Club in Spartanburg, S.C. The 71 was the only under-par round in the tournament and gave the Louisville, Ky., native a three-stroke victory.

She then followed it with a 4-over par 148 to tie for second at the North/South Intercollegiate in Jacksonville Beach, Fla., including an opening-round leading 71. The back-to-back performances earned her the March 14 Southern Conference Player of the Week honor and later the league's March Athlete of the Month accolade.

On the season, Wells finished with a 77.45 stroke average, a full three shots better than her next-closest teammate. It also marked a two-and-a-half stroke improvement over her freshman year average.

Including her tournament championship and second-place tying result in the next event, Wells garnered six top-10 finishes throughout the season which featured a string of five straight. She was one of three Terriers to compete in all nine tournaments and recorded all three of the squad's under par rounds, its only Even par effort and five of its six scores under 75.

Few to join Terrier women's golf program in 2007-08
May 3, 2007

SPARTANBURG, S.C. -- Wofford head women's golf coach Angie Ridgeway has announced the addition of Meredith Few to her roster for the 2007-08 campaign. Few, an Aiken, S.C., native is currently ranked as the No. 9 player in South Carolina and is set to graduate from Aiken High School this spring. She will become the second Terrier freshman this fall, along with Anderson, S.C., product Alex Rankin.

"Meredith is talented as an athlete, and more specifically, she has fantastic skills as a golfer," noted Ridgeway. "She has the ability to shoot under par, and will bring great energy and enthusiasm to our golf program."

A five-time member of Aiken's girls golf team under coach Matt Brackett, including three-straight seasons as its No. 1 player, Few joined the Aiken boys squad this spring and is playing No. 2 for coach Vic Lancaster. The Hornets were region champions from 2002-05 and finished as high as third in the state tournament during her inaugural campaign of 2002.

Individually, she was selected as a 2005 All-Carolinas Team member by the Carolinas Golf Association. Few was the 2006 4-A region player of the year and was tabbed as an All-South Carolina selection since her sophomore year while carrying a 2 handicap. She finished second in the 2005 4-A state tournament, losing in a playoff. Few received all-region accolades and a varsity letter all five seasons in which she played for the girls team.

She won the 2006 Caddie Classic and had the opportunity to serve as Arnold Palmer's caddie during the 2006 Hootie & the Blowfish Monday After the Masters Celebrity Pro-Am. She also won the 14-18 age division of the 2006 Ford-Picard Classic by four strokes against the state's top player and recent recipient of the Beth Daniel Player of the Year.

Few also completed the 40th Twin States Junior Girls' Golf Championship, in 2006, among the top-10 players in the championship flight. The tournament features the top players from North and South Carolina.

A versatile athlete, Few also played soccer at Aiken, where she was named to the all-region squad as a freshman and sophomore in playing as either a forward or midfielder for coach Ron Johnson. She continued with the sport through her junior year, lettering all three seasons, but gave it up as a senior to concentrate full-time on golf.

Few also has been nominated for the National Wendy's High School Heisman Athletic Award, tabbed a scholar athlete and is a member of the French National Honor Society. She has served on Student Council, Executive Committee and is a member of the Beta Club.

Outside of school, she has been active with Relay for Life, Girls against Bullying and Hook a Kid on Golf.

SPARTANBURG, S.C. -- Wofford sophomore women's golfer Erin Wells has recently been interviewed by the Southern Conference for a "SoCon Spotlight" feature on its website. Public affairs assistant Natalie Williams conducted the Q&A session with the Louisville, Ky., native, who received the program's first-ever All-Southern Conference accolade this spring.

Wells finished the 2006-07 campaign by registering a team-best 77.45 stroke average, a full three shots better than her next closest teammate. She became the first Terrier in school history to win an individual tournament championship title when she shot a 1-over par 145 to win the Diet Coke Wofford Intercollegiate March 5-6 at The Carolina Country Club in Spartanburg, S.C.

She was named the March 14, 2007, SoCon Player of the Week and the SoCon Player of the Month for March.

The interview talks about Wells' success on the course, her volunteer efforts with EMT and firefighting teams in Spartanburg and how she came to discover Wofford after living in Kentucky.
